JAPANESE HEM IN BRITISH WITH 'ELECTRIC WALL'

Put Up Deadly Wires at Tientsin.

TIENTSIN, China, June 20 [Tuesday].—(AP)—A thousand volts of electricity isolated the British and French concessions today, threatening possible death to any who dared try to slip past Japanese sentries.

Coastal towns to which British women and children will go from Tientsin.

The Japanese, who established their military blockade last Wednesday, whipped high tension wires around the concessions last night.

There were many unconfirmed reports of Chinese food vendors being shot or bayoneted by Japanese guards at the concession boundaries. The electric barricade was directed primarily at those Chinese trying to smuggle in food.

Women to Quit Area.

British authorities arranged that women and children should go tomorrow [Wednesday] to Chinwangtao and Pehtaiho, coastal resorts. The women and children will depart to relieve the demand for water and food, because of the excessive heat, and because normally they go there in the summer. The seasonal transfer had been interrupted by the blockade.

Some fresh food was entering the concessions, but not enough. The danger of a shortage of water also loomed.

The British consul general charged Japanese were discriminating against British. He asked relaxation of regulations against the entry of foodstuffs. This was refused.

Britons Stripped and Searched.

British officials reported two British subjects were stripped and searched by Japanese guards as they left the concession last night. The Japanese consul general rejected a British appeal for abatement of the searching.

Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander-in-chief of the American Asiatic fleet, arrived from Peking and entered the British concession without difficulties. He will leave for Chinwangtao tomorrow.

The American Asiatic fleet of five destroyers, a tender, a minesweeper, and oiler arrived at Chefoo, which is under Japanese occupation. Shore leave for the 2,000 officers and men was limited. Summer maneuvers will be held off that North China port.

Charge Britain Aids China.

The dispute between the Japanese and British at Tientsin evolved from Japanese demands for the surrender of four Chinese suspected of murdering a Tientsin city official. The British refused.

From this has developed a far more serious dispute. It included a demand by the Japanese for coöperation with what they refer to as the new order in Asia—as against Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's régime—and involving the rights of foreign nations in China.

A Japanese military spokesman today called the British concession a branch office of the Chungking [Chiang] government. He warned other governments not to aid the British in any economic reprisals that London might adopt.

Says Britain Woos U. S.

The spokesman charged that Britain was trying to get the United States to "snatch her chestnuts out of the far eastern fire."

British authorities at Shanghai said they had learned from "excellent sources" that Japanese military leaders at Tientsin have sent letters to Chinese employés of the municipal council threatening to kill their families unless they resign their positions.

This move was seen as a development of Japanese pressure on the blockaded concessions. Most of the municipal employés live in Japanese controled areas outside the concessions.

CHURCH CALLS UPON FALLON TO RESIGN HIS JOB

New Deal Agencies Under Fire.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—A high ranking government official and a former government official were accused on the floor of the house late today by Representative Ralph E. Church [R., Ill.] of using government funds for week-end and holiday trips to their private homes. Church charged a deliberate fraud upon the government over a period of years and involving amounts running into thousands of dollars.

The men accused by Church were Nugent Fallon, general manager of the federal savings and loan insurance corporation, and H. H. Hoagland, a former member of the board of trustees of the corporation.

Church demanded Fallon's resignation and an audit and investigation of the federal home loan bank board and the subordinate agencies which it controls, including the one where Fallon is serving and where Hoagland formerly served.

Forced HOLC Official Out.

The Illinois representative last year forced the resignation of Horace Russell, the then general counsel of the Home Owners' Loan corporation by bringing to the attention of the house the illegal use of the franking privilege by Russell.

"I have discovered a state of affairs in connection with the Home Owners' Loan corporation and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance corporation which warants prompt dismissal of a number of officials.

"First I publicly charge Nugent Fallon with using government funds to travel to and from his home for his own personal pleasure and personal business. I demand his immediate resignation. His conduct in this regard has been a deliberate fraud and such a man is not entitled to hold a position where he handles millions of dollars."

Submits Expense Account.

Church said that Fallon has a home in Forest Hills, N. Y., and a summer home at Swampscott, Mass. He displayed a copy of expense accounts submitted by Fallon for numerous week-end and holiday trips between these homes, New York City, and Boston. Fallon charged the government sums ranging from $50 to $176 for these week-end and holiday excursions, presumably on government business. The trips ranged over a period between 1935 and 1938.

Hoagland's trips to his home in Columbus, O., cost the government from $47 to $112 each.

In November, 1938, acting Controler General R. N. Elliott wrote a letter to the president of the Federal Home Loan bank board inquiring into the pleasure trips of both Fallon and Hoagland. Elliott requested the board to investigate whether the travel expenses incurred by the two men pertained to the official business of the federal corporation.

An inquiry disclosed that the trips were actually pleasure excursions and not for the purpose of conducting official business, Church declared.

Collusion Is Charged.

However, the Federal Home Loan bank board on Dec. 14, 1938, replied to Elliott that the expenses incurred by the two officials were undertaken solely because of "necessary official business."

"The federal home loan bank board is in collusion with these officials by approving their use of government funds for week-end trips home," Church told the house. "They approve the whole thing with the explanation that 'contracts are made on week-ends' and that it so happens that where the officers' homes are located are 'busy centers of saving and loan activity.' What nonsense.

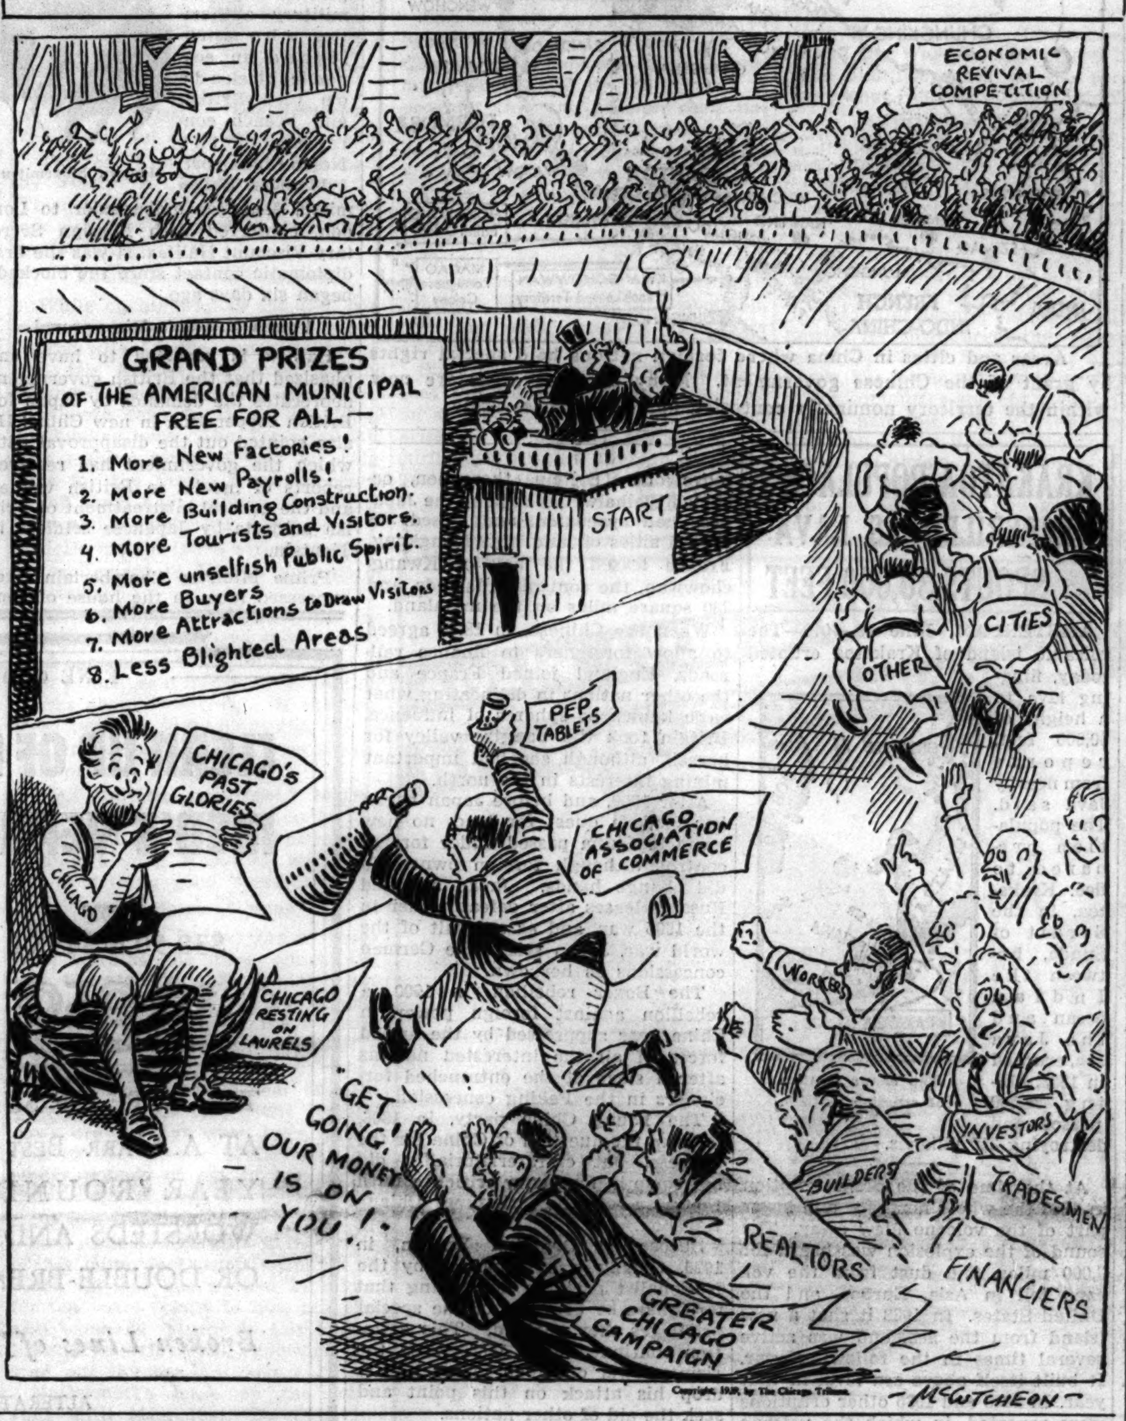
"Apparently these government officials overlook the fact that the law makes it a criminal offense to misapply the corporation's funds.

"The time has come when congress should demand an accounting of the extensive operations of the federal home loan bank handling literally billions of dollars of public money. There should be a complete audit and a thorough investigation of the illegal activities it and corporation officers have been engaging in."

As another example of the agency's illegal activities Church charged that Charles A. Jones, general manager of the HOLC, conducted a campaign at government expense in opposition to a bill affecting the HOLC.

Killer of 2 Dodges Wisconsin Posse

CHICAGO MUST GET STARTED IF HE HOPES TO WIN ANY OF THE PRIZES



Officers Fire at Hideout, but Quarry Is Gone

Hayward, Wis., June 19.—[Special.]—Ray Olson, fugitive killer of two deputy sherifs, eluded an army of possemen again late today. He slipped away from several hundred men who believed they had him cornered in a cabin near here.

Residents of the vicinity reported to Sherif George Seehuetter's office that the possemen were shooting it out with the desperado. The pursuers believed they had him trapped.

They poured machine gun and rifle bullets into the little shack where Olson was supposed to have barricaded himself near Moose Lake. Then they shot tear gas shells into the cabin until no living creature could have remained.

Find Cabin Empty.

Remembering that Olson is an expert marksman and has boasted he never will be taken alive, the possemen took precautions to keep themselves hidden. After a long wait, during which there was no return fire from the cabin, the besiegers cautiously crawled up to the bullet riddled cabin and found it empty.

The posse also fired into several other cabins in the vicinity of Moose Lake, but found them unoccupied. Pursuit then was abandoned for the night as darkness fell and the trail cooled.

The woodland search, one of the biggest manhunts ever witnessed in northern Wisconsin, began Saturday when Olson killed two deputies who tried to arrest him in his cabin southeast of here. He was wanted for questioning about stolen license plates he had been using on his car.

Shifts to Moose Lake.

After being hunted Saturday and Sunday in the Chippewa lake region southeast of here, Olson suddenly shifted his escape operations this morning to the Moose lake area, which is northeast of Chippewa lake.

He broke into a general store at Moose lake and replenished his food supply. His lack of food had been a major problem.

Instead, Olson momentarily confused officers by turning back eastward into the area he knows so well. They finally picked up his trail and followed it to the cabin in which they believed they had him cornered. Yesterday Olson tried to throw officers off his trail by leaving a suicide note in a rowboat on Hay creek.

Sees Olson in Fire Lane.

A few hours later William Metcalfe, a resort operator, reported he saw Olson traveling down a fire lane about seven miles from the center of the search at that time.

Bloodhounds, which have been used throughout the hunt, were quickly placed on the trail. Olson eluded them all night, but this morning the dogs got a fresh start when a Moose lake resident reported he saw the fugitive fleeing.

The hounds led the posse to the cabin where this afternoon's bombarding took place, indicating that Olson had been there. The same procedure was followed at other cabins where he apparently had looked for supplies.

District Attorney Jay C. Davis said he learned from Olson's wife, Frances, who is being held in the county jail here without charge, that Olson is August Buelo, who served a term in the Wisconsin state prison at Waupun for burglary. She said she knew his name was Buelo, but she married him under the name of Olson.

Escapes from Officer.

Last Thursday a trafic officer stopped the couple as they drove near Hayward in a car which bore stolen license plates.

Mrs. Olson was made to get in the car with the officer and Olson was ordered to drive his car ahead and proceed to Hayward. Instead, Olson fled.

On Saturday two volunteer deputies, Carl [Cully] Johnson and Fred Scott, found Olson in a cabin at the northeast corner of Chippewa lake. He had taken over the shack after ejecting the Indian owner. When the deputies tried to arrest him Olson shot and killed them both.

A quickly formed posse vainly trailed Olson about the shoreline of Chippewa lake as he skipped from one island to another.

REVEALS TARZAN LIFE OF NEGRO CAPTURED BY BABOONS WHEN BABY

LONDON, June 19.—The story of an infant Negro boy who, like the fictional character Tarzan, was carried off by a band of baboons, was told today by Prof. R. Ruggles Gates, heredity expert at Kings college. Prof. Gates, who said the information reached him from Prof. Raymond Dart of Witwatersrand university, South Africa, said that the boy lived in the jungle for twelve years until captured in 1921 near Grahamstown by two policemen.

The Negro's name is Lucas. He now is working on a farm in South Africa. Lucas could recall little of his strange bringing up except that his food consisted mainly of "crickets, ostrich eggs, prickly pears, green mealies, and wild honey." When captured he made only guttural noises, but now speaks English and African.

"While I was with the baboons," he related, "I walked on all fours and slept in a bush entirely naked. I was busy hunting for food one day with my baboon companions when two policemen shot at us with revolvers. I was captured by one of the policemen."

Love's All Wet for Wooer Who Gives Bathtub

Michael F. Kay filed a suit in Superior court yesterday for recovery of money he spent courting a divorcée—a suit that revealed some very practical methods of wooing.

Where other fellows expressed their sentiments by sending bonbons Kay had a bathtub and sink delivered. And in place of a bouquet of flowers, he gave her an ironing board.

Kay named as defendant in his suit Mrs. Pearl Brown, operator of a beauty parlor at 445 North Kedzie avenue, the recipient of the tub, ironing board, and other enduring tokens of esteem.

Just Two Lonely Souls.

In his bill, filed by Attorney Herbert T. Yuenger, Kay said he met Mrs. Brown in April, 1938, through a "lonely friends" organization. In May, he said, he asked her to marry him. He was told they must wait until she got her divorce.

The courtship progressed through the summer, with this outlay [said the bill] on the part of Kay:

Pump	$ 17
Bathtub and sink	20
Washing machine	50
Light bulbs	6
Ultraviolet lamp	50
Ironing board	3
Materials for summer home	200
Wearing apparel	35
Refrigerator	50
Shoes and hose	10
Gasoline stove	20

These items for Mrs. Brown's hope chest, along with wages of workmen at the summer home at Sister Lakes, Mich., came to a total of $2,506.08 by Armistice day, Kay declares.

Finds She Is Divorced!

Then, said Kay, he learned two disconcerting facts: [1] Mrs. Brown did not intend to marry him. [2] She had been divorced for six years.

Kay, a sheet metal worker employed at Bourbonnais in Kankakee county, will take $3,000 and call it square. The extra money above expenses will salve his feelings, he said.

Mrs. Brown's attorney, David Alswang, was unruffled last night. He said the suit was the outgrowth of a Municipal court action in which Kay sought to collect the $2,506.08. Mrs. Brown met that one with a counter suit claiming Kay broke her nose with a milk bottle last Thanksgiving.

QUINTS ARE TOO FAT, SO THEY AND NURSES MUST QUIT POTATOES

CALLENDER, Ont., June 19.—[Canadian Press.]—The Dionne quintuplets have been put on a diet because they are a little too fat, Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe announced today. The diet cuts down on starches and sugars. Potatoes are banned completley.

"The girls are a little annoyed," Dr. Dafoe said. "The first time they were denied potatoes, we told them they were getting too fat, but the explanation didn't satisfy them."

They pointed to their nurses with the observation they were "a little too fat, too." As a result Nurses Molly O'Shaughnessy and Louise Corriveau had to give up potatoes.

The quintuplets were five years old May 28. At their last weighing they registered as follows: Marie, 50 pounds; Yvonne, 50¾; Emilie, 51½; Cecile, 53¼, and Annette, 53¾.

SUPREME COURT BANS OUTSIDERS ON PICKET LINE

Upholds Shop That Has No Dispute.

Stranger picketing—picketing by nonemployés—was held illegal yesterday by the Illinois Supreme court if its purpose is to compel workers to join a union. The court also ruled that freedom of speech does not include freedom to libel or slander employers by the use of banners and signs in the hands of pickets.

Judge W. H. McSurely writes decision.

The decision was handed down in the case involving picketing of Ross W. Swing's beauty shop at 5558 North avenue in May, June, and July, 1937. Swing had 16 employés. Organizers for the Hairdressers' and Cosmetologists' union, an A. F. of L. affiliate, tried to induce the employés to join. They refused and the picketing began.

Employés Join Shopowner.

The employés—15 girl beauty operators and a man—then joined Swing in seeking an injunction against the union. They charged the pickets carried banners stating the shop was unfair to organized labor. This statement, they said, was untrue and malicious. The pickets, it was alleged, also interfered with customers.

Swing's employés said they were satisfied with wages and working conditions. Swing asserted he had no objection to their joining the union, but would not force them into it. Circuit Judge Joseph Burke issued a temporary restraining order July 9, 1937. This was dissolved in January, 1938. Attorneys Samuel R. Rinella and Myer Rosengard, counsel for Swing, then carried the case to the 1st district Appellate court.

Appellate Court Upheld.

The Appellate court, in a decision written by Judge William H. McSurely and concurred in by Judges David Matchett and John M. O'Connor, held that Swing was entitled to an injunction. At the time the McSurely opinion was criticized as "an echo of the dark ages" by several labor spokesmen. Yesterday's action by the Supreme court upheld this ruling.

"Recalling that for years the courts of this state restrained peaceful picketing," said Judge McSurely, "and that by the passage of the anti-injunction act such restraints were removed and that this act was interpreted to refer only to the relationship of employers and employés, the conclusion seems to follow that until the legislature enlarges the scope of the anti-injunction statute, peaceful picketing by strangers [persons not employed or previous or expectant employés] is prohibited by law."

Two Contentions by Union.

The union based its fight on two contentions. The first was that the Illinois anti-injunction act prevents issuance of injunctions in such cases. The high court's answer was that it has already held that this act does not apply where there is no dispute between employer and employé.

The union's second point was that the constitutional right of free speech protected the pickets in displaying signs derogatory to the beauty shop. But, said the court, the right of one group to organize for advancement of its own ends is equal but no greater than the right of other citizens to pursue their occupations.

Banners Called Libelous.

"In the case before us," the court continued, "the public is told [by banners] that the employer is unfair to organized labor when the contrary is the fact. Under the due process principle a person may not be punished nor his property and business destroyed without a day in court.

"Yet it is here contended that a self-organized group may determine that the plaintiffs may no longer be permitted to earn an honest living by lawful means, and forthwith proceed by libelous banners to execute their death sentence."

Remarking that there is a wide difference between freedom of speech and an unbridled license of speech, the court said:

"We now say that freedom of speech does not include freedom to libel or slander."

Right to Earn a Living.

"It is right for men to earn their living by honest means and it is wrong for others to prevent such honest labor by any unlawful means, whether it be force, violence, or libel," said the decision. "These principles are self-evident and require neither stress of words nor citation of authority for their support."

The Supreme court decision was written by Justice Elwyn R. Shaw of Freeport. Justice Clyde Stone concurred in the finding, but in "not all that is said." Justice Norman L. Jones also agreed with the result, but said he could not agree "with the harshness of the criticisms."

Victor A. Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor, maintained last night that the court's decision amounts to an abridgement of free speech by injunction.

"If," he said, "a union can be denied its free speech by injunction, then so can newspapers, churches, and other organizations.

Cites State Constitution.

"I think in this case the Illinois Supreme court failed to look at the constitution of Illinois, which provides that any person, whether an employé or not, may speak freely on any matter, subject to punishment as provided in libel laws if he speaks libelously or untruthfully."

Olander said he has been advocating that pickets be more careful in what they state on their banners. He believes that a plain statement of grievances—such as "employer will not deal with us" or "wages are such and such, hours are so and so" is better than use of the word "unfair."

May Invoke Libel Laws.

"If picket banners state untruths," said Olander, "then the laws of libel with their attending penalties may be employed. The constitutional process then," he said, "is not an injunction, but trial before a jury. Injunctions are issued by individual judges."

Swing has sold his North avenue shop and now conducts a beauty parlor at 6540 South Halsted street. He said he has had no labor trouble there. Attorney Rinella said there had been an agreement that the union would refrain from picketing Swing's shop pending the Supreme court decision.

U. S. CONCERNED OVER ACTIONS OF JAPAN, HULL SAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 19.—The tense situation arising from the Japanese blockade of Tientsin involves broad international questions in which the United States is vitally concerned, Secretary of State Cordell Hull said today. He issued the following statement:

"This government is not concerned in the original incident at Tientsin, relating to the requested delivery of the four accused Chinese. [The British refused to surrender to the Japanese the four men whom the Japanese accused of murder.]

"It is concerned, however, with the nature and significance of subsequent developments, in their broader aspects, coupled with other past and present acts and utterances in other parts of China.

"This government, therefore, is observing with special interest all related developments in China as they occur from day to day."

MRS. RUBENS SET FREE BY SOVIETS; VISITS EMBASSY

MOSCOW, June 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Ruth Marie Rubens, American mystery woman, today discussed her future with officials of the United States embassy. Mrs. Rubens, who spent eighteen months in a soviet Russian prison after she and her husband disappeared from a Moscow hotel in December, 1937, went to the embassy alone and apparently was at liberty.

Embassy officials declined to say whether she wanted help to return to the United States or was seeking information about her missing husband. She was tried in a Moscow city court June 9 for entering Russia under a false American passport but the court took into account the time she had been in prison and ordered her release. Her appearance today was the first since her trial.

FIGHT FOR TRADE IN CHINA LED BY GUNS OF BRITAIN

Struggle of Powers Dates Back to Opium War.

In reading the day by day dispatches on Japanese actions in China many readers fail to recollect that China for centuries has been the victim of interventions, interference, and partitions. The following story covers only those of the last 100 years in which occidental nations have been among the chief participants.

China, with more than 422,000,000 potential customers and vast untapped resources, has long been coveted by traders. And in the forefront of the trade adventurers have been the warships, soldiers, and guns of Great Britain and France.

Before the mighty Japanese military machine rolled over the coastal plains, more than fifty Chinese cities were open to foreign residence and trade. In nineteen of these, twenty-five concessions and settlements were permitted by leasehold or outright cession of land under extraterritorial treaties.

The Portuguese were the first to set up a foreign settlement when China ceded the island of Macao off the Cantonese coast in 1577. But the modern history of land grabs in China dates from 1839, when Britain fought the opium war with China.

Britain Wins Hongkong.

The Chinese mandarins for many years had been trying to stop English merchants from bringing in opium from India and the islands where it was first grown. British merchants rebelled, but eventually capitulated on this point. Subsequent demands by the mandarins, however, were taken as a cause for war and Britain's cause was supported by the other commercial nations engaged in the Cathay trafic.

And in 1842 a treaty was signed. Britain was given the island of Hongkong, containing one of the best harbors in the world. It later became a crown colony. China opened Shanghai, Canton, Amoy, Foochow, and Ningpo as treaty ports for the world traders.

These trading centers were not restricted to Britain. She received Hongkong, the plum, but most favored nation treaties were also signed by China with France and the United States in 1842-'43. This was the start of extraterritorial rights.

Goaded by other trade restrictions, Britain in 1857 supported a rebellion against the Tatar dynasty. The murder of a missionary brought France in on England's side. Their military won more concessions from the Chinese emperors.

New Treaty Ports Opened.

Seven years later, by 1864, these two powers and Russia and the United States had made treaties which further liberalized extraterritorial rights. New treaty ports were opened in Tientsin, Chefoo, and in the Yangtze valley. Britain was ceded the Kowloong promontory opposite Hongkong, and Russia obtained a stretch of the northern seacoast and the site of Vladivostok, a port for Siberia.

When a British consular official was murdered on a trade mission from Burma to the southwest provinces in 1876, armed reprisals were threatened. This situation was settled amicably when China promised to publish far and wide the news that a foreigner was entitled to travel safely anywhere by passport.

Beginning in 1787, when the kingdom of Annam ceded certain islands, France had been trying to subjugate the Annamites, the Tonkinese, the Cambodians, and the Cochin-Chinese. Final conquest was achieved through a costly and tedious war from 1882 to 1885, the final act being the assumption of a protectorate over Annam, in the north. But at this China protested that she considered Annam her protectorate. An undeclared frontier war followed.

Chinese soldiers gave a good account of themselves on land, but the French fleet was far superior, and a treaty was signed which opened the frontier north to other trade caravans.

Britain Takes Over Burma.

At the same time, 1886, China also recognized British sovereignty over Burma, in northeast India, which had just been conquered. This, however, was considered of slight importance by England, since Burmese kings had not paid tribute to Chinese emperors for generations.

Nine years later came the 1895 war with Japan, in which China lost the Liaotung peninsula, Corea, and the island of Formosa. Russia, supported by France and Germany, forced Japan to accept only Corea for the time being.

In subsequent negotiations France obtained a rectification of the Mekong valley frontier with Indo-China, and mining and railway rights in Kiangsi and Yunnan provinces. Germany appropriated the bay of Kiaochow and Tsingtao in Shantung province. The murder of two missionaries was the proffered excuse.

The following year, 1898, Russia occupied Port Arthur and leased the Liaotung peninsula, which was considered a blow to British prestige. Russia ordered English warships to move out. Britain, thereupon, occupied Weihaiwei as soon as the Japanese had evacuated, and leased 356 square miles of land near Hongkong. France leased the bay of Kwangchowwan, the controling islands, and 230 square miles on the mainland.

When the Chinese, in 1899, agreed to allow foreigners to finance railroads, England joined France and the other nations in delineating what were known as spheres of influence. Britain took the Yangtze valley for herself, although she had important mining interests in the north.

After 1900, and before Japan began her modern quest for land, no new areas in China passed under foreign control, although foreign ownership did change hands. Japan acquired Russia's leases after defeating her in the 1905 war, and as a result of the world war, Japan seized the German concessions as her own.

The Boxer rebellion, in 1900, a rebellion against foreign power in China, was suppressed by the armed forces of all the interested nations after a siege of the entrenched foreigners in the Peking concession.

The Young China party, in 1906, took up the question of China for the Chinese, but extraterritoriality did not come in for heavy criticism until the rise of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Succeeding Dr. Sun Yat-sen, in 1926, Chiang was supported by the Nationalist party in demanding that foreigners be deprived of the special privileges they enjoyed. This agitation continued until 1934, when the rising power of Japan forced him to drop his attack on this point and seek the aid of other nations.

KRAKATOA POPULACE IMPERILED AS LAVA SPOUTS 30,000 FEET

AMSTERDAM, June 19.—(AP)—The volcanic island of Krakatoa erupted today, flinging lava to a height of 30,000 feet, reports from nearby Java said. The population prepared to flee. Krakatoa, in the Strait of Sunda, between the Indian ocean and the Java sea, erupted in 1883, killing 36,500 persons and destroying 300 villages.

Map shows location of erupting volcano.

At the time of the great eruption in 1883 the whole northern and lower part of the volcano blew away. The sound of the explosion was heard for 3,000 miles, and dust from the volcano fell in Asia, Europe, and the United States. In 1928 it shot a new island from the sea, and was active several times in the following year. It built itself above sea level in that year. In 1933 and 1935 other eruptions were reported, in which the volcano threw lava and ashes 4,500 feet into the air.

BRITISH PREMIER TRIES TO SETTLE ROW WITH JAPAN

Tells Parliament of His Hopes for Peace.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 19.—British diplomacy today made renewed and vigorous efforts to keep the crucial issues with Japan confined to the local conflict at Tientsin. There were indications, however, that the Tokio government is giving more frank support to Japanese military authorities who established an economic blockade on the British and French concessions in the North China port.

Mamoru Shigemitsu.

Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese ambassador to London, conferred with Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax. It was the first diplomatic contact since the blockade began six days ago.

Voices Britain's Disapproval.

Halifax is reported to have emphasized that the British government deprecates the demands by Japan for British coöperation in new China. He also pointed out the disapproval with which the government has received reports of insults to British women and the general mistreatment of British subjects by Japanese soldiers in Tientsin.

Prime Minister Chamberlain later expressed hope in the house of commons that a settlement with Japan over the Tientsin issue will be possible.

He said the general position still is not clear. He asserted that the original demand of the Japanese for the surrender of four Chinese accused of murder was confused now by the introduction of larger questions. He added that the government as yet has received no formal Japanese representations.

Britain Eyes Position in China.

Chamberlain told parliament he could not believe that the Japanese government wanted to widen the issues and have a dispute with Great Britain over the principle of foreign concessions in China.

"At the same time we are fully alive to the reaction of the present dispute on the position of British and other international settlements in China," he said.

The British imply they are preparing a program of economic sanctions [penalties] against the Japanese. But on the surface it was indicated that a waiting period in the dispute is likely.

AAA PREPARES FOR CONTROL OF CHICAGO'S MILK

Hearing Opens Monday on Price Fixing Scheme.

Agent Paul L. Miller of the Agricultural Adjustment administration was in Chicago yesterday to pave the way for federal control of Chicago's milk. He held an informal meeting in the Stevens hotel at which he instructed milk producers, dealers, and consumers how to prepare their testimony for the formal hearing on the control plan.

Miller said that this hearing, to start next Monday in the Stevens, will be open to the public. All interested parties may put their opinions and suggestions into a written record. This record will be used by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to determine whether he will attempt to take charge of the Chicago milk market.

Farmers Have the Say.

It is the producers [farmers] who, in the last analysis, have the say whether or not there shall be governmental control of the prices they receive. If the secretary, after studying the record of the open hearing, favors control, he asks the milk dealers [distributors] to vote on it. If half of them approve, the control market is in. If half disapprove, the secretary asks the producers to vote. If two-thirds of the producers favor a controled market it goes in whether the dealers like it or not.

If the plan is approved by either method, the market is placed under the control of an administrator picked by the secretary.

Control of the Chicago market has been asked by the Chicago Milk Producers' council, Inc., which claims to represent 90 per cent of the milk producers in this milkshed. Miller outlined the proposal control plan as follows:

The plan would fix prices for producers only. Milk of the first class, which is fluid milk to be bottled and sold, would be fixed for the farmers at a minimum price of $1.80 a hundred pounds, or 3.8 cents a quart. The maximum price possible under the plan would be $2.20 a hundred, or 4.7 cents a quart. Members of the Pure Milk association, producers of most of the fluid milk sold in Chicago, now are getting something less than $1.50 a hundred, or 3.2 cents a quart for their class 1 milk.

Two Other Classes.

Besides the class 1 milk, the administrator will divide the supply further into classes 2 and 3. Class 2 will be used to produce cream for use as cream, ice cream, and kindred products. Class 3 milk is that used to produce milk products not included in class 2. Prices will be graduated downward for the class 2 and 3 milk.

Each milk distributor must submit complete reports to the administrator on all milk received, showing the source, the amount of cream it contained, and what was done with it. The administrator may audit the handlers' books at any time. Payments to producers are to be made by the 25th of each month. The administrator is to have the first twelve days of each month to figure out how much the farmers will be paid.

Cost of this administration is to be borne by the milk dealers. It is limited to 2 cents per hundred pounds handled. Producers also are subject to a checkoff of 3 cents a hundred pounds of milk sold for "marketing services," including market reports, butterfat tests, and other items. This makes a total of 5 cents a hundred that the market administrator can assess against the city's milk supply.

$547,500 a Year.

Based on 3 million pounds of milk a day, which is approximately the amount sold in Chicago, the administrator could take $1,500 a day, or $547,500 a year.

Two previous attempts by Secretary Wallace to control the Chicago market aroused the ire of producers, dealers, and consumers alike. This was in 1933 and 1934. Both times the scheme was abandoned by the secretary.

INJURED IN FIST FIGHT.

Thomas Costello, 34 years old, 814 West 57th street, was taken to the County hospital last night suffering from a suspected skull fracture, the result of having been struck on the head in a fist fight with a man at 59th and Halsted streets.

Pause in Trial

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mrs. Alma Alderman taking a drink during recess yesterday in her suit against Ruth Etting.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Alma Alderman testified in her $150,000 alienation suit against Ruth Etting today that the blonde singer's lawyer told her before the trial:

"Even if you do get a judgment, you won't be able to collect it because Miss Etting and Mr. Alderman are not coming back to California."

Bernard Cohen, defense lawyer, previously had announced Myrl Alderman, the plaintiff's former husband, would be summoned as a defense witness but that Miss Etting would not appear. The whereabouts of Alderman and Miss Etting, who eloped to Las Vegas, Nev., last winter, were not disclosed in court.

Mrs. Alderman also testified Cohen told her, "I'll have 25 witnesses in court to blacken your character."

MERCHANTS MAP FIGHT TO REPEAL NEW LIQUOR LAW

Representatives of retail grocers, druggists, department stores, and delicatessens meeting in the Hotel Sherman yesterday, planned their fight against the new city ordinance which will bar them from selling liquor after Oct. 31.

A central committee of delegates from all types of stores was named. Each delegate will call a meeting of his fellow merchants to determine the number of license holders in each group, the value of their liquor stocks, fixtures, and supplies.

The group plans to seek repeal of the ordinance. If this is denied they will ask for a mandamus to compel city authorities to grant them new licenses next fall. The fight will be carried to the Supreme court if necessary, they said.

Under the terms of liquor law changes voted last Friday, the city council limited the sale of liquor after Oct. 31 to taverns and bona fide liquor stores. Sale of liquor as a sideline by any other type of store will be forbidden.

PENGUINS BRAY THEIR WAY INTO JACKASS CLASS

A sable antelope and two jackass penguins from South Africa got off the train from New York yesterday with Assistant Director Robert Bean of the Brookfield zoo.

The antelope has white trimmings, a savage temper, a reputation for being handsome, and a newly acquired taste for carrots, chopped beets, apples, bran, and crushed oats. His arrival brings the zoo's antelope collection to twenty-nine different species, the largest in the world.

Are those jackass penguins out of hearing? Well, Mr. Bean says they're no dumber than other penguins. They bray like jackasses; that's all. Penguins never get very high marks, though, Mr. Bean says. It isn't so much that they're stupid as that they're too trusting.

FAMILY OF GOLD MINERS FINDS IT HAS A BONANZA

Ore Tests Indicate Vein Is Worth $200,000.

There's gold in Tom McDermott's mine—lots of it.

Tom McDermott.

Assays of ore specimens from McDermott's desert workings outside Las Vegas, Nev., yesterday showed thirty ounces of gold to a ton of ore. McDermott chipped the specimens from a gold vein about 100 feet long which streaks through 200 tons of ore. With gold valued at $35 an ounce, that section of the mine is worth at least $200,000, the joyous but calm little miner said.

The report on the assays was made by Harry E. Radix, president of Thomas H. Dee & Co., gold wholesalers and developers at 55 East Washington street.

Family Becomes Stranded.

While on his way to the Dee concern from Las Vegas Tom, his red-haired wife, Lucille, and their daughter, Iris Ann, 4 years old, became stranded several days ago when their car broke down in Galva, Ill. They hitch-hiked here. The Travelers' Aid was making arrangements for lodgings for the family when reporters found them and supplied them with food and a temporary home.

McDermott listened with little show of excitement to Radix's account of the tests.

"The assays reveal that in one group of the specimens there was a gold content of thirty-four ounces of gold a ton," said Radix. "In another it was about twenty-six. If the vein is as uniform throughout the ore as McDermott says it is, he's got a valuable piece of property."

"It's uniform, all right," McDermott replied, with an emphatic nod of his head. "My dad and I have been mining a long time—we knew we had something good here."

Wife Helps at Mine.

Tom and his father, Ernest, have been working the mine, which was last operated in 1880, for the last three months. Mrs. McDermott helped, too, by running the hoisting engine, which was made from a wrecked automobile.

They came upon a vein of gold quartz about 500 feet down. Yesterday's ore flakings were from a section 100 feet deeper. McDermott left eighty pounds of ore in his car in Galva. He carried the other specimens in a traveling bag.

Now that he's certain of the value of his mine, McDermott—who is 24 years old and has worked in mines for ten years—plans to hire ten diggers when he returns to Las Vegas. He and his father will supervise digging out the ore.

McDermott's lease on the mine runs until May, 1944. By then, he said, he hopes to have a nice house in Reno, where he met his wife—and he hopes to own a string of race horses.

Home a Four Room Cabin.

Their home now is a four room cabin near the mine shaft. The nearest thing to a race horse is a burro, Iris Ann's special pet.

McDermott's calm reception of the news of the assay was matched by the placid manner of his wife, who is 23 years old, and Iris Ann.

"I guess we were pretty lucky," said Mrs. McDermott. "More money won't make much difference to us. We have a lot of hard work ahead of us. No need to get uppity now!"

Iris Ann's response was brief.

"Gee!" she said. "Now can I get another ice cream cone?"

G. O. P. in House Lines Up Votes for $30 Pension Bill

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 19.—[Special.] — House Republicans worked quietly tonight lining up votes in behalf of a new attempt to fulfill a plank of the 1938 Republican state platform in the direction of a minimum monthly old age pension of $30.

Although Democrats beat off an appropriation to pay such a minimum two weeks ago, the G. O. P. side has found a senate bill for $30 on third reading on the house calendar, and they propose to give the Democrats a second chance to say "no" to the $30 proponents.

This situation is tangled. As it stands now, the house has passed a $30 bill, but refused to appropriate funds to pay it. The $30 bill is in the senate, where the leaders are handling it gingerly. If it goes through it will only be a gesture and probably will mean merely that the division of old age assistance will continue to pay pensions on the basis of need. At present they average about $19 a month.

Senate Bill Described.

The new attempt will be made in behalf of a measure submitted by Charles H. Thompson, [R., Harrisburg] and passed by the senate. It provides that the pension shall not be less than $30 per calendar month, nor less than one dollar per day for a fraction of a month.

There is a qualification, however, to this provision. In a later paragraph it is set forth that should sufficient funds for a $30 pension not be available the state division shall pro rate what funds are available and pay each recipient the same amount.

Since this presumably would mean that the state would not be paying on the basis of need, the question arises as to whether the Social Security board would approve the plan. The board, through H. L. McCarthy, regional director, frowned on the original $30 bill because it did not recognize that some persons were more in need of aid than others.

Later, by a vote of 132 to 0, the house passed the $52,000,000 appropriation bill which would carry old age assistance on at its present rate for the next two weeks. It has no connection with the $30 minimum, which would require $94,000,000.

Parole Acts Defeated.

Minority Leader Benjamin S. Adamowski [D., Chicago] took a defeat tonight on two bills to amend the parole system. One would have given the parole board fourteen years and salaries of $10,000 for the chairman and $9,000 for the members. They would be required to devote their entire time to their duties. This measure fell far short of passage, receiving only 14 of the 77 necessary votes. There were sixty-seven members against it.

The other measure would have provided a definite sentence for treason, murder, rape, or kidnaping, and indeterminate sentences for other crimes. It received a vote of 60 to 42.

Adamowski was the leading opponent of the Ward-Schnackenberg parole reform bill which was defeated in the house last week, lacking five votes.

Leo D. Crowley [R., Peoria], who backed the Ward-Schnackenberg bill, made another attack on the parole board when Adamowski called his bills.

Portrait of Lewis.

"We had a chance last week," he said, "to pass a bill with merit. I maintain that it is shameful to increase the pay and tenure of office of members of the parole board."

The final action in the house tonight was passage of a bill appropriating $500 for a portrait of the late United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis. As introduced the measure called for $20,000 for a statue of Mr. Lewis, but it was reduced in appropriations committee and changed to provide a painting. The bill was sponsored by Frank Ryan and Arthur J. Quinn, Chicago Democrats, and Schaefer O'Neill [D., Alton]. It was approved 85 to 0 and now goes to the senate.

CLIPPER FLYERS REACH PARIS 47½ HOURS OUT OF N. Y.

Same Schedule Open to Public Within Week.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 19.—Fifteen of the special observers on Pan-American Airways' preview flight across the Atlantic ocean today set a world record for travel in regularly scheduled air transport planes. We traveled from New York to Paris—5,250 miles—in 47 hours and 30 minutes.

In utmost comfort, with hot meals aloft, soft berths for sleeping, and champagne suppers en route, we covered the miles of ocean between the United States and France more swiftly than any other persons ever traveled it in regularly scheduled transport vehicles.

The only persons ever to make the journey more quickly were Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who in 1927 flew it in 33 hours and 29 minutes, and Howard Hughes and his globe girdling crew, who flew it nonstop in the summer of 1938 in 16 hours and 32 minutes.

Difference in Mileage.

Both Lindbergh and Hughes followed shorter northern routes, Lindbergh flying 3,610 miles and Hughes 3,641 miles.

We started this amazing journey from Port Washington, N. Y., at 2:54 p. m. Chicago time, Saturday afternoon, aboard the Atlantic Clipper, the 42 ton, four motored flying boat—one of four which will be carrying passengers over the same route beginning next Saturday. At speeds up to 185 miles an hour we raced to the Azores, 2,397 miles eastward. After a refueling stop of one hour and eleven minutes, we flew on to Lisbon, Portugal, arriving there last night shortly after dusk.

Leaving Lisbon this morning at 4 o'clock Chicago time—9 o'clock Lisbon time—we flew around Spain and across the Pyrenees mountains to Marignane airport at Marseilles, France. There we were welcomed by representatives of Air France and virtually kidnaped and placed aboard the trimotored airliner Ville de Rouen.

One stop was made at Lyons, exactly half way on the three hour flight from Marseilles to Paris.

Motors at Full Throttle.

The last lap was flown with the plane's Cyclone motors—built under license in France—wide open. We had our watches out as the roofs of the Paris suburbs began sliding beneath our wings. By that time the truly amazing speed of our voyage had begun to dawn upon us.

My watch, accepted as the official timepiece, showed that we touched down on the 1,200 acre Le Bourget field exactly half an hour under two days out of New York.

This trip was no stunt. It was made on schedules that will be open to any travelers before the week is out. Our record will not stand, for with favorable weather and closer connections between Air France and Pan-American Airways at Marseilles, several hours can and will be cut off easily.

Its significance for me is the fact that the record speeds of other years—the stunts of the recent past—now have become commonplace.

$200,000 IMPERIAL AIRWAYS PLANE BURNS AT DOCKS

SOUTHAMPTON, England, June 19.—(AP)—The Imperial Airways seaplane Connemara, designed for trans-Atlantic service, was destroyed by fire tonight at the seaplane base at Hythe, near here.

The Connemara, one of Imperial Airways' $200,000 "empire flying boats," burned after an explosion aboard a tank barge from which she was being refueled prior to a test flight. Roaring flames and intense heat balked an attempt to uncouple the plane from the barge.

Three Imperial Airways engineers and three refueling experts were aboard the Connemara. One refueling engineer was missing, but the others escaped unhurt.

The Connemara was built by Short Brothers at Rochester, Kent. However, Imperial Airways recently decided to use bigger planes of similar design. The first of these, the Golden Hind, was launched at Rochester on June 17.

Fire Sweeps French Isle Off Newfoundland Coast

ST. PIERRE, St. Pierre et Miquelon, June 19.—[Canadian Press.]—Three government buildings, seven stores, and two warehouses were destroyed today by fire which swept St. Pierre, capital of this French possession ten miles off the southern Newfoundland coast. The fire broke out late Sunday night in the basement of a theater. Officials said no one was hurt.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD
Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

Around the World in 19 Days—by Scheduled Air Lines

Routes by which any one can now fly around the world in a length of time which surpassed the wildest dreams of fiction a few years ago. Service over the Atlantic closed the last gap in the world girdling routes.

Route Outlined

Not so many years ago "Around the World in Eighty Days" was fascinating fiction. Today—for the first time in history—anybody who has the fare can ride around the world on scheduled air lines in nineteen days.

Leaving Chicago you can reach New York within five hours on any of several air lines. From there you can go to Marseilles, France, aboard one of the new Pan-American Clippers. Then you can take French and British lines eastward to Rome, Athens, Alexandria, Bagdad, Karachi, Calcutta, Rangoon, Bangkok, Hanoi, and Hongkong. Pan-American Clippers will fly you home across the Pacific by way of Manila, Guam, Wake Island, Midway Island, Honolulu, and San Francisco.

The first batch of letters to travel completely around the world by regular air mail arrived recently. Included was a letter from New York to New York via Hongkong addressed to Wayne Thomis, THE TRIBUNE'S aviation editor. Sixty-one cents in stamps was paid to take the letter across the Atlantic and to Hongkong via southern Asia. There stamps amounting to $2.80 in Hongkong currency [approximately 98 cents] were added for the Pacific and transcontinental United States flights.

500 NEW ZEALAND SAILORS MUTINY OVER TAX ON PAY

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

WELLINGTON, N. Z., June 20 [Tuesday.]—Because of grievances concerning pay, 500 enlisted men in the New Zealand navy refused to go on duty yesterday, walking off the cruisers Leander and Achilles and the depot ship Philomel at the Auckland naval base.

The men on the Leander had been drafted to clean the cruiser's bottom when the mutiny occurred. They went ashore to attend a protest meeting and later sent a statement to Commodore Rivett Carnac, who forwarded it to Defense Minister Jones.

The seamen's chief complaint is that they are called on to pay a new social security tax of 5 cents on the dollar without any prospect of benefit. They claim this is the only navy in the world so taxed. They also charge that pay rates compare unfavorably with those of ordinary laborers.

YOUNG PRINCESSES WILL MEET KING AND QUEEN 1 HOUR AT SEA

PORTSMOUTH, England, June 19.—(AP)—Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose will use a destroyer and a royal barge to meet the Empress of Britain to spend an hour with their parents, King George and Queen Elizabeth of England, before the liner docks.

The ship returning their majestics from the United States is due at the Needles, Isle of Wight, at 5:30 p. m. Chicago time, next Thursday.

The princesses will use the destroyer Vanoc to travel from Portsmouth to Yarmouth, where they will board the royal barge to take them to the side of the liner.

King George and Queen Elizabeth continued catching up on the rest and sleep they lost in their ceremony filled visit to Canada and the United States, according to word from their liner today. A warm south wind swept the decks.

The Franciscan cloister and the palace of Archbishop Sigismund Waitz and his staff recently were taken over by the state. Capuchins have occupied their cloister since 1602.

EXILED ALBANIAN KING AND QUEEN PREPARE TO SAIL FOR FRANCE

ISTANBUL, Turkey, June 19.—(AP)—Exiled King Zog and Queen Geraldine of Albania are planning to sail June 28 for Piræus, Greece, and Marseilles, France, well informed quarters said today. Final destination of the royal couple was not known although they are reported to have asked permission to make their home in England. Zog and Geraldine have been exiles since the Good Friday invasion of Albania by Italian troops. They recently leased for three months a villa at Versailles, France.

AMERICAN AIRLINES has expressed its confidence in 1939 by investing $1,400,000.00 in 12 additional 21-passenger Flagships. American operates the largest fleet of Douglas transport planes in the world.

American believes that 1939 will be the best year so far in air transport history. For the five months ending May 31, American Airlines carried 45,785 more passengers than in the same 1938 period, an increase of 40.2 per cent. In May, American carried 47,722 revenue passengers—a world record. No air line ever before carried as many passengers in a single month!

Air travel is increasing faster than any other form of scheduled transportation ever increased before. American is prepared for it. Its current increase in schedules provides, for example, a total of 12 daily round trip flights between New York and Chicago, three of them Non-Stops, conveniently timed at 12 noon, 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. from both cities. There are now 14 round trips daily between New York and Boston and three daily between New York and Los Angeles.

Quick to anticipate and to meet the travel needs of the public, with an attention to passenger comfort and dependability of service unique in the field of transportation, American looks forward to a record year!

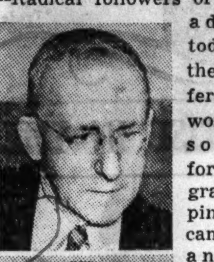
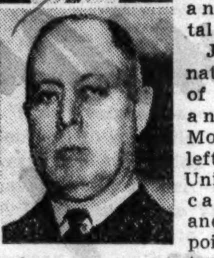
SOCIAL WORKERS TOLD TO JUNK U. S. ECONOMIC SETUP

Hear Radical Followers of Roosevelt.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Buffalo, N. Y., June 19.— [Special.] —Radical followers of the Roosevelt administration today took over the national conference of social work here as the sounding board for their program of scrapping the American economic and governmental system.





John Brophy [top], Robert Morss Lovett

John Brophy, national director of the C. I. O., and Robert Morss Lovett, leftist, former University of Chicago professor and Roosevelt appointee as secretary of the Virgin Islands, exhorted the 8,000 social workers gathered here to overturn the established order. They outlined government control of business cut along the Moscow pattern as their objective.

Attacks Economy Advocates.

Attacking economy-minded foes of the Roosevelt régime as descendants of the slaveowners, Brophy set forth a program, which smacked of communism, as follows:

"A program of government control over interstate and basic industries, designed to compel business to increase production in accordance with a national economy plan, at the same time raising wage levels and holding prices in line so that the cost of living does not rise, or at least not fast enough to offset increased wage levels."

While Brophy addressed the joint committee of trade unions in social work Prof. Lovett was spreading his plans for panaceas before the social action group in a local theater.

Talks of Peaceful Revolution.

The professor spoke of a peaceful revolution to bring about a planned economy aimed at employment of the nation's productive resources.

"Since our present system of private capitalism allows the employment of such resources only in so far as it is consistent with profit," said Prof. Lovett, "such a change involves either the outright assumption of ownership of the chief instruments of production by the state, or the control by government of those who make the major economic decisions in the interest of private gain."

Meanwhile, the social workers here from the numerous agencies created by the Roosevelt administration were attempting to rally their colleagues in the private charity groups to their aid to stave off reductions of expenditures pending in congress.

A protest meeting was called for tomorrow afternoon. Miss Lea D. Taylor, head of Chicago Commons, will preside and another speaker will be Miss Harriet E. Vittum of Northwestern university.

The value of minorities in the American democracy's scheme of things was stressed tonight at a big general session in a local auditorium. George N. Shuster, associate editor of the Commonwealth, lay Catholic publication, declared the country's good government since Washington's day had been the result primarily of what he termed the balance which exists between the minorities which make up the population.

Shuster's remarks, which introduced a practical note alien to the general spending theme of the conference, included the suggestion that the direct relief system be reorganized and administered more economically and humanely than is now the case.

RE-ENACT FATAL SUBMARINE DIVE ON SISTER BOAT

Naval Board of Inquiry Studies Disaster.

Portsmouth, N. H., June 19.—(AP)— Beneath the closed hatches of a sister submarine, Lieut. Oliver F. Naquin reënacted for a naval inquiry board today the operations aboard his submersible, the Squalus, prior to her fatal plunge to the ocean bottom almost a month ago.

Earlier, as high ranking officers in full dress opened the investigation at Portsmouth navy yard, the first witness testified that a faulty air induction valve might have allowed tons of water to pour into the Squalus, which still holds 26 of her men entombed in 240 feet of water fifteen miles off this port.

There was a tense moment as the court opened in a large, bare, rectangular room, hung with blueprints of the ill-fated craft.

Commander Praises Crew.

Read Admiral William T. Tarrant, head of the investigating board, turned toward the Squalus' commander.

"Have you any complaint," the admiral asked, "against any of the surviving members of the crew?"

"I have nothing but praise for them," Naquin answered quietly.

Then his surviving officers and men were asked if they had any complaint against their commander's conduct and one might have heard a pin drop as the Squalus' men stood at attention—silently and stiffly.

Only a few minutes later Commander A. L. McKee, one of the sunken vessel's builders, was asked if it was possible for the submarine's signal light to show closed if the main induction valve was still open.

There was a moment of thoughtful silence, then McKee answered slowly: "Yes, if the mechanism was out of order."

Go Aboard Sister Sub.

Late this afternoon Lieut. Naquin followed the board of inquiry into the submarine Sculpin to reënact the operations that preceded the Squalus' disastrous dive. After the men climbed from the vessel the hearing was adjourned with the announcement that Naquin would testify tomorrow.

Members of the board said he probably would be on the stand all day to give his first official version, under oath, of his vessel's loss on May 21. They indicated his testimony probably would serve as a basis for the investigators' questions at future sessions.

Naquin's reënactment was only for the eyes and ears of the investigating officers and the Sculpin's crew.

Shortly after the officers filed aboard a horn sounded twice—signal for a dive. Then, hatches slammed shut.

Inside the vessel, the Sculpin's crew stood at their stations, operating valves and controls, while investigating officers timed their operations with a stopwatch.

The Sculpin remained on the surface at her dock, but presumably Lieut. Naquin went through the motions and gave the orders that he gave his own men aboard the Squalus as she executed her last dive.

The 300 foot sister submarine, which was the first vessel to sight the Squalus' smoke bomb distress signal, was entered on the records of the "court" as "exhibit 35"—one of the biggest court exhibits on record.

The day's session adjourned, Lieutenant Commander W. D. Wilkin, commander of the Sculpin, took newsmen through his vessel.

Elmhurst Magician Produces 11 Wizards Out of His Hat

York High school in Elmhurst became a house of wonder last night as eleven magicians, ten of them from the British Isles, held the attention of a capacity audience for more than three hours. It was, the magicians agreed, a wonderful audience. It was, the audience agreed, a marvelous show.

The performance was a testimonial to the camaraderie which exists between magicians. The magicians were all friends or admirers of Harlan Tarbell, Elmhurst resident, a magician and teacher of magic. The group had been in Battle Creek, Mich., attending the convention of the International Brotherhood of Magicians. They came to Elmhurst to perform at an American Legion benefit just for fun.

Two Shine as Professionals.

Two of them are professionals, the Great Levante, known for the casual way in which he can get in and out of a steel trunk [1,000 pounds sterling if you can do it]; and Deveen the Distinguished Deceiver, a languid gentleman with a mask who specializes in producing decks of cards from places where they couldn't possibly have been and in doing marvelous feats with cigarets.

The rest are either amateurs or semi-professionals. They include Walter Wandman, Birmingham, a magic goods manufacturer; Dr. H. Park Shackleton, a Yorkshire physician, called by Levante the greatest amateur conjurer in England; John Ramsay, a greengrocer from Ayr, Scotland, a sleight-of-hand artist for fifty years; Cedric, just 21 years old, from London, who does card tricks exclusively; Li-Chung Soo [Edmund Younger, Newcastle-on-Tyne], who can find practically anything you want him to find in an empty pagoda; George Sutcliffe, Yorkshire, who cuts a snake in half and puts it together again, and Stanley Ballard, North Wales, and Tom Darlington, Stafford, who do "a bit of everything."

One Chicagoan in Show.

There also was one Chicagoan, Sam Burman, the Tramp Magician. He can do miracles with billiard balls.

All the Britishers agreed that American audiences are "faster on the uptake" and more appreciative than English ones. They said it is a shame that Americans do not get a chance to see more "flesh" shows.

A brief trip backstage last night proved one thing: Even magicians have their limitations. The Great Levante left all his suits but one in London and can't produce a single one out of thin air. And Dr. Shackleton [greatest amateur conjurer in England] had to get Deveen the Distinguished Deceiver to tie his bow tie after trying himself for five minutes.

SENATOR BLASTS ROOSEVELT THIRD TERM AS PERIL

Burke Charges New Deal Aims at Dictatorship.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—If President Roosevelt should be elected for a third term in 1940, no man could predict safely the fate of our form of government, Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.] said in a radio address tonight.

Senator Burke.

While the senator did not speculate on what that fate might be, he said the Roosevelt administration had pursued a course in the direction of dictatorship.

"We have seen during the present administration a rapid development toward a centralization of power not only in the federal government at the expense of the states and of individual liberties, but in the executive branch at the expense of the legislative and the judicial branches," said Senator Burke.

Cites Demands for Power.

"The specter of unemployment in industry and of ruinous prices in agriculture has made our people more ready to accept schemes for regimentation and control of industry and agriculture than would have been true a generation ago. When these schemes have failed, it has not been easy to retrace our steps toward a properly supervised but uncontroled system of free enterprise, which is a fundamental feature of our constitutional system.

"Each failure has been followed by demands for greater powers for the federal government. In the effort to make the control effective our system of separation of powers and checks and balances has been broken down gradually.

"The executive has usurped legislative powers and has even sought to encroach upon the powers of the judiciary. The effect of the trend of recent years has been to move away from a government of laws toward one of men and to subordinate principles to the discretion and whims of individuals."

Anticipates Corcoran Project.

Senator Burke attacked a statement by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes that the tradition against a third term is political humbug. Ickes so characterized the tradition in a magazine article, which began: "I want President Roosevelt to run for a third term."

Citing the opinions of authorities, beginning with Thomas Jefferson, founder of the Democratic party, Senator Burke undertook not only to blast Ickes' contention, but to anticipate a project on which Thomas G. Corcoran, the No. 1 brain truster, is said to be working. The anti-Roosevelt Democrats in the senate have received information that Corcoran is searching the writings of Washington, Jefferson, and other founding fathers for expressions to justify a third term.

After Corcoran has assembled his data, according to these reports, the New Dealers will engage a prominent pro-New Deal historian to write for nation-wide distribution a sort of primer intended to dispel the anti-third term tradition.

Quotes Jefferson's Opposition View.

Senator Burke explained that the first vote in the constitutional convention of 1787 called for the election of the President by congress for a single term of seven years. Thomas Jefferson, he added, was alarmed, when it appeared that the one term limitation would be removed, and wrote from Paris to George Washington as follows:

"I shall hope that before there is danger of this change taking place in the office of President, the good sense and free spirit of our countrymen will make the changes necessary to prevent it."

Senator Burke said that Jefferson later felt that it was better to have a shorter term of four years with eligibility for a single reëlection. He quoted from a letter written by Jefferson during his second term to a state legislature as follows:

"If some termination to the services of the chief magistrate be not fixed by the constitution, or supplied by practice, his office, nominally four years, will in fact become for life, and history shows how easily that degenerates into an inheritance."

Says Reasons Are Multiplied.

"The reasons existing in the days of Jefferson for a limitation upon the service of a President are now multiplied many fold," said Senator Burke. "Jefferson was fearful of a reversion to a monarchy. Today there is a world trend toward autocracy in the form of dictatorships. The temptation toward a perpetuation of the power of an existing administration never was so great as at present. At no time in our history has an administration had such tremendous political powers through the distribution of public works, agricultural, and other benefits and jobs."

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

This pigheaded Dutchman had the right idea!

LEEUWENHOEK was a pigheaded Dutchman. He insisted on trying to see what no one else could see . . . on finding ways to learn what others thought unlearnable. So he made himself the first microscope—and made it possible to measure and chart a whole, new, teeming world of life! He was the first of the microbe hunters!

A long-neglected void in advertising knowledge, attacked in similar spirit, has just been filled by this new, dramatic, and valuable discovery . . .

That Collier's, Liberty, LIFE, and the Saturday Evening Post in combination reach a total net unduplicated weekly audience of 40,100,000 people!

This fact is revealed in Report No. 2 of LIFE's "Continuing Study of Magazine Audiences"—a Study initiated because of dissatisfaction with current inadequacies in assaying the full influence of magazines, a force that every business man realized was greater than indicated by circulation figures.

Employing the most recently perfected research methods, this Study provides the first scientific measurement of magazine influence, the first accurate estimate of how many more people read the four great weekly magazines than buy them. In doing this, the Study throws open to drastic re-examination and realignment of opinion the whole subject of evaluating all media.

A Vital Discovery

Revelation of this enormous "packaged" weekly audience of 40,100,000 people constitutes the very latest findings in the Study that has rightly been termed "The Biggest Advertising News in 25 Years."

It shows that the four great weekly magazines, together, deliver an audience every week of more than a third of America's total population above the age of 10 years—an audience that includes at least one half of the primary market for advertised goods.

Furthermore, these magazines concentrate most of their power in urban centers, where most business is done. They provide, at strikingly economical cost, probably the most inclusive and effective means of reaching the active buyers in America every single week!

A Significant Trend

That alert advertisers are becoming more and more alive to the unique value of the four large weeklies, is apparent from the increased amount of money advertisers are investing in this media group.

The trend unquestionably reflects recent fundamental reconsiderations of advertising values—and a more general realization of the true, full influence of America's great weeklies on men, on women, and on children.

LIFE is gratified that one important factor in effecting this realization is the knowledge being brought to light and offered for use, in the "Continuing Study."

Latest Audience Figures revealed by Study—showing the number of people who see, open, and read part or all of each issue of the four largest weekly magazines:

Magazine	Circulation*	Audience
COLLIER'S	2,755,389	15,800,000
LIBERTY	2,555,450	13,800,000
LIFE	2,408,466	18,200,000
SATEVEPOST	3,151,938	13,100,000

Net unduplicated audience, 4 magazines, 40,100,000

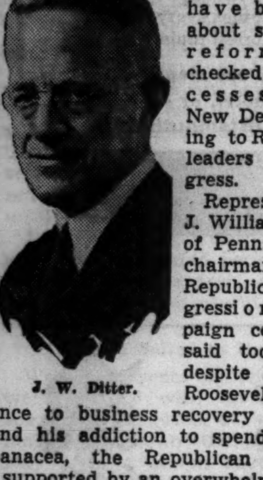
"AMERICA'S MOST POTENT EDITORIAL FORCE"

RENASCENT G.O.P. CURBS EXCESSES OF NEW DEALERS

8 Major Accomplishments Are Outlined.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—Republican gains in the 1938 congressional elections already have brought about substantial reforms and checked the excesses of the New Deal, according to Republican leaders in congress.



J. W. Ditter.

Representative J. William Ditter of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, said today that despite President Roosevelt's resistance to business recovery measures and his addiction to spending as a panacea, the Republican minority "supported by an overwhelming public clamor for solid reëmployment in industry, has been able to clear the economic track of many New Deal obstructions."

Cites Eight Accomplishments.

He cited the following eight major accomplishments of the enlarged Republican opposition:

1. Agreement to repeal the paralyzing tax on undistributed profits.
2. Approval of effective limitations upon TVA competition with private enterprise with public funds; and another thumping defeat of the fantastic Florida ship canal project.
3. A thorough investigation of political racketeering in the administration of federal relief.
4. Agreement to impose mandatory criminal penalties against political coercion or intimidation of relief workers.
5. Reform of the social security act to provide a pay as you go system of old age pensions without increasing pay roll taxes.
6. Refusal to raise the national debt limit above the present statutory ceiling of 45 billion dollars.
7. Resounding defeat of one man government, as attempted in the original New Deal plan to reorganize the federal departments.
8. Defeat of President Roosevelt's campaign to involve the United States directly in the bitter diplomatic intrigues of Europe.

Record Cited for Voters.

"We cite these fundamental corrective steps, accomplished in the face of overwhelming parliamentary odds, merely as a token to the American people of what may be expected in the way of revived confidence and expanded employment when one more national election has placed the Republican party in control of both the administrative branch and the house of representatives," Ditter explained.

The congressman pronounced unbridled spending of public funds the foremost impediment to recovery. He chided the Democrats for refusing to follow Republican leadership for economy. He proclaimed a Republican slogan of "out of the red to recovery" and asserted that the public demand for economy will yet be enforced in congress "even if it may require another Republican landslide to restore sanity and common sense in federal fiscal affairs."

Democratic leaders retorted that Republican championship of economy is "the bunk," pointing out that the Republicans made no stand against the 400 million dollar boost in subsidies for the farmers, which increased the deficit to a new high, and that no Republican demanded a record vote.

Neutrality Fight Stands Out.

In historical perspective, the fight to keep America out of war probably will stand as the highlight of the session, Chairman Ditter continued.

"In debating national defense measures last February, the Republicans in the house and senate forced quick abandonment of the Roosevelt policy of vocal aggression, which threatened to involve this country in age old racial hatreds and real estate feuds abroad. American opinion today supports almost unanimously the Republican stand against military involvement overseas. The people of the United States are determined to keep out of war."

President Roosevelt's major political decisions these days apparently are influenced by strong third-term ambitions, Ditter said.

Mrs. Dorothy Bush and Valerie Senescu in court yesterday.

The divorced parents of Valerie Senescu, 10 years old, asked the court yesterday to decide which should have custody of her. Judge Rudolph F. Desort turned to Valerie:

"Do you want to live with your mother or with your father," he asked.

"I want to live with her," said Valerie positively. She pointed, not to her mother, but to Mrs. Dorothy Bush, 7712 Saginaw avenue, a friend of the Senescus.

Judge Desort pondered. He had these facts: Mrs. Frances Senescu, 5421 Woodlawn avenue, and Bernard Senescu, 1435 East 60th street, were divorced in 1930. The mother was given custody of Valerie and Bernard Jr., now 14. Because of illness she later turned them over to Senescu, a violinist in the Chicago Symphony orchestra. She wants Valerie back. Mrs. Bush explained she had had much of the actual care of Valerie. Judge Desort adjourned court and said he would give a decision today.

Freddie Bartholomew's Parents Sue for Million

Los Angeles, Cal., June 19.—(AP)—Parents of Freddie Bartholomew filed suit for $1,000,000 damages today, charging fraud and conspiracy to take the juvenile screen actor from them and divide his earnings. Defendants include the boy's guardian, Myllicent Mary Bartholomew, sister of Freddie's father, Cecil Lewellyn Bartholomew, and Isaac Pacht, an attorney. Freddie now is under contract for $125,000 yearly, the complaint said.

Girl, 4, Critically Hurt in Fall from 2d Floor

Margaret Peterson, 4 years old, was critically injured yesterday in a fall from the second floor back porch of her home at 1825 North Drake avenue to the concrete sidewalk below. She was playing with Carol Hillard, about the same age, who lives at 1823 North Drake avenue. Margaret toppled over the banister. Physicians at the Walther Memorial hospital held little hope for her recovery.

FEDERAL TAXES OF 1,844 MILLION VOTED BY HOUSE

Corporation Levies Are Revised.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—The house today passed and sent to the senate the revenue bill of 1939. It does away with the much denounced undistributed profits tax. It imposes approximately 1 billion 300 millions of dollars in taxes upon business and extends for another two years the nuisance taxes which cost the nation $544,300,000 annually.

A. T. Treadway.

The vote was 358 to 1, the lone dissenter being Representative George H. Tinkham [R., Mass.].

The bill also continued for another two years the 3 cent postage stamp rate on nonlocal first class mail. The increase from the 2 cent rate costs the postal users $95,700,000 a year.

Nuisance Taxes Revived.

The nuisance levies would have expired next month and the 2 cent stamp rate would have returned without reviving legislation.

A Republican attempt to recommit the measure and have the bill redrafted to allow these taxes to expire was defeated on a roll call vote, 205 to 150. The motion, offered by Representative Allen T. Treadway [R., Mass.], also proposed that the two cent stamp rate be resumed. The voting was on a partisan basis.

Total taxes levied in the bill were nearly two billions of dollars. The government receives the remainder of its revenue, approximately four billions, from permanent taxes which do not require action by congress.

Corporation Taxes Revised.

The measure received almost unanimous approval because of the technical revisions in the corporation tax laws and abolition of the undistributed profits tax. The bill does not reduce the total taxes levied on corporations but rearranges the tax provisions so as to encourage business.

In the debate preceding passage, however, Republican members assailed the Democratic strategy which included extension of the nuisance taxes and the three-cent stamp rate in a bill revising corporation taxes.

"The strategy of the majority in combining tax relief with the extension of the nuisance taxes is obvious," Representative Allen T. Treadway [R., Mass.], ranking minority member of the ways and means committee, told the house. "They are seeking to make the latter more palatable and more sure of enactment by tying it up with something that every one favors.

"They are hoping that this procedure will serve to distract attention from the fact that this is the fourth time the New Deal has proposed the extension of the nuisance taxes notwithstanding assurances that they would be allowed to expire in 1934."

Nuisance Taxes 8 Years Old.

The nuisance taxes, which have been in force since 1932, include the federal taxes on gasoline, theater admissions, automobiles and tires, radio sets and refrigerators, and the like.

"These taxes are consumption taxes which are not based on ability to pay and which fall most heavily on those with small incomes," Treadway declared. "Before increasing or extending taxes the New Deal should make an honest effort to reduce expenditures. If the hundreds of millions involved in the nuisance tax extension must be realized, it should be done not by taxation, but by reduced expenditures. A slash of less than 7 per cent in the budget would be sufficient for this purpose."

Admit Tax Is Obnoxious.

The Democratic majority report on the bill conceded that the nuisance taxes are obnoxious and unfair.

"The committee is sensible of the general undesirability of these taxes," the report stated, "but because their administration has been perfected and because our economy has been adjusted to them it is deemed inadvisable to sacrifice at this time the revenue they produce."

Representative Jere Cooper [D., Tenn.], who handled the bill for the majority, warned congress that it could not keep up the spending pace.

Representatives of both parties had nothing but praise for the corporation tax changes which are expected to be an encouragement to business.

HOW NUISANCE TAXES TAKE HALF A BILLION FROM BUYING PUBLIC

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—The federal nuisance taxes, for which the American taxpayer shells out approximately $1,780,000 every day of the year, and which were extended for another two years to July 1, 1941, by action of the house today, include the following:

Tax.	Yearly revenue.
Gasoline	$210,500,000
Automobiles	57,000,000
Stamp taxes on securities, etc.	54,500,000
Tires and inner tubes	38,200,000
Electrical energy	39,600,000
Lubricating oils	33,400,000
Telegraph and telephone	23,600,000
Theater admissions	19,200,000
Toilet preparations	11,300,000
Refrigerators	9,900,000
Automobile accessories, parts	8,900,000
Automobile trucks	7,700,000
Radio sets	6,900,000
Transportation of oil by pipe line	11,800,000
Import taxes on oil, coal, lumber, copper	8,400,000
Fire arms, shells and cartridges	3,400,000
Total	$544,300,000

These taxes would have expired on July 1 if not extended by congress.

Mitchell Grochowski, 20 years old, was shot and wounded by police yesterday when he attempted to flee from a shed adjoining a garage at 1478 Huron street. Eight stolen automobile tires were hidden in the shed. Detectives Charles Pawloski and Stanley Palash, who knew of the tire cache and had posted themselves in the garage, saw Grochowski and a companion drive up to the shed. Grochowski's companion escaped. Grochowski, who lives at 1302 Huron street, was shot in the left forearm by a bullet fired by Pawloski. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital.

DEMANDS RETURN OF $8,000,000 IN BRIBERY SCANDAL

Kansas City, Mo., June 19.—(AP)—The Missouri insurance department asked a three judge federal court today to compel repayment of $8,000,000 to policy holders affected by a fire insurance rate compromise. The compromise, made in 1935, led to the imprisonment three weeks ago of Tom Pendergast, Democratic political boss of Kansas City.

The department, represented by Charles L. Henson, contended that R. Emmet O'Malley, former insurance superintendent who entered Leavenworth penitentiary with Pendergast, had no authority to negotiate the settlement.

Henson's petition replied to a brief filed last Thursday by 136 insurance companies ordered to show cause why they should not return to policy holders $8,000,000 impounded in premiums turned over to them under the compromise. The companies had said they entered the compromise in good faith without knowledge that bribery was involved.

For their parts in effecting the compromise, Pendergast received $325,000 and O'Malley $62,500 from a fund collected from insurance companies. Both pleaded guilty to evading income taxes.

Boy, 15, Is Drowned as Bolt Strikes Boat; Parents Saved

Hayward, Wis., June 19.—(AP)—Searchers today recovered the body of James Morgan, 15 years old, of Muncie, Ind., who drowned late yesterday after a bolt of lightning stunned him and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Morgan of Muncie, while they were fishing in a boat on a lake near here. The boat was upset in the confusion. Another boat picked up the elder Morgans, but the son could not be found.

FALLS OFF LADDER; DIES.

Injuries incurred when he fell from a ladder while painting his home caused the death in St. Luke's hospital yesterday of Henry Berry, 70 years old, 6905 Union avenue.

EIGHTH WONDER OF THE '90s

By CALEB

STORY by story, just north from us across Randolph, the magnificent landmark of an earlier Chicago has vanished from our gaze. For nineteen years—from 1891 to 1910—it was the world's tallest business building; and from its roof garden, twenty-one stories above the street, one could study, on a sunshiny day, the Lake's sand dunes and meandering margin, miles to the eastward.

Two years earlier, the Tacoma Building, fourteen stories in height, had given clear title to Chicago as originator of the skyscraper. Erection of the Masonic Temple, as it was then called, clinched the claim in an architectural coup d'etat that owed its success to the imaginative daring of Daniel H. Burnham and John W. Root. The latter died before its completion—but the building itself has for nearly a half century remained an incomparable monument to both men.

Chicagoans—those of longer residence particularly—will view the demolition of this neighbor of ours with a reminiscent sadness, intensified by the sense of swift change replacing each obsolescence of yesterday with the progress of today. Somehow, all through these intervening years, the Masonic Temple has stoutly personified a "glory that was of another day." One of the major sights of the Columbian Exposition's triumphal reign—challenging even those times with what the world of tomorrow would be like . . . it, too, is giving way to further challenge. Eighth wonder of the '90s . . . a later wonder burrows at its foundations, and further preservation would cost more than its revenue and tax-paying resources warrant . . .

In the words of a famous Chicago man of letters, "The skyscraper was the most important architectural achievement of America, and it was the gift of Chicago to the art of building." That in itself, perhaps, should reconcile lovers of the old order to the inroads of the new . . . at whatever sacrifice of the city's one-time structural giants.

Tomorrow's memories of Masonic Temple will none the less pay tribute to it and its builders; most of all to that genius of his day, who was also chief designer of the 1893 World's Fair itself—Daniel H. Burnham. No commentary could more fittingly convey the spirit Chicago still validates than his own words to his students: "Make no little plans. They have no magic to stir men's blood, and probably themselves will not be realized. Make big plans; aim high in hope and work, remembering that a noble, logical diagram, once recorded, will never die, but, long after we are gone, will be a living thing, asserting itself with ever-growing insistency."

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

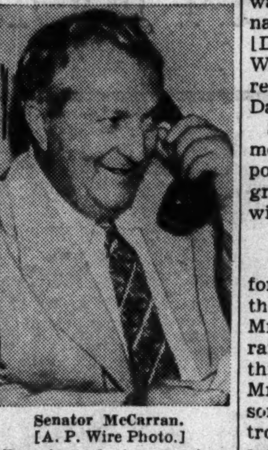
ROOSEVELT GETS REBUFF FOR HIS RAP AT M'CARRAN

Senate Group Rejects an Appointment.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt received another senate rebuff today in his campaign to destroy the patronage and influence of Democrats who opposed his scheme to pack the Supreme court in 1937.



Senator McCarran.
[A. P. Wire Photo.]

The Senate judiciary committee, by a vote of 13 to 5, rejected the nomination of William S. Boyle to be United States attorney for the district of Nevada. Senator Pat McCarran [D., Nev.], one of nine Democratic senators originally marked for the President's ill-fated party purge in 1938, told the committee that Boyle was nominated in a conspiracy to destroy his influence.

Virginia Senators Win.

Early in the present session the senate overwhelmingly rejected Mr. Roosevelt's nomination of Floyd H. Roberts to be a federal judge in Virginia. Both Virginia senators, Carter Glass and Harry F. Byrd, Democrats, contended that Roberts was nominated in a conspiracy to purge them from public life.

Although the Boyle nomination could be taken to the senate floor with an adverse report, or by a motion to discharge the judiciary committee, such a move would be as futile as it was in the Roberts case, according to all indications.

Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.], McCarran's colleague, voted to report the nomination and was joined by Senators George Norris [Radical, Neb.], James H. Hughes [D., Del.], Matthew M. Neely [D., W. Va.], and Carl Hatch [D., N. M.].

Voting against the nomination were Chairman Henry F. Ashurst [D., Ariz.], McCarran, William H. King [D., Utah], Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.], Marvel M. Logan [D., Ky.], Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.], Tom Connally [D., Tex.], Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.], John E. Miller [D., Ark.], William E. Borah [R., Idaho], Warren R. Austin [R., Vt.], and John A. Danaher [R., Conn.].

Senator Pittman made no recommendation for the office but supported Boyle's nomination on the ground that he had nothing to do with any intended slap at McCarran.

Pittman Defends Boyle.

"Mr. Boyle has testified here before you that he got the chairman of the Democratic national committee, Mr. Farley, to help in Senator McCarran's campaign," Pittman said. "I think that it would be very unfair to Mr. Boyle to hold him responsible for something over which he had no control. He has had nothing to do with a slap so far as I can see."

"Mr. Boyle is personally offensive to me," McCarran told the committee, "because he has lent himself to a conspiracy to take from me my standing as a member of the senate of the United States and has lent himself to defeat the will or rather the words of the constitution of the United States, which say that the senators of the United States shall recommend, affirm and advise."

When Pittman announced that he would make no recommendation for the office, early last year, McCarran recommended the reappointment of E. P. Carville, whose term was about to expire. Carville later was elected governor, which office he now holds. The President ignored McCarran's recommendation and, on July 6, 1938, gave Boyle a recess appointment.

Supt. R. D. Dexheimer of the Anti-Saloon league of Illinois was quoted in THE TRIBUNE of June 16 as saying before the council session on tavern control laws that. ". . . unless those in the liquor business are allowed to sell it at a profit we will have prohibition again, and no one wants to have a return of those terrible days." The Rev. Mr. Dexheimer says he added another sentence in his speech, saying: "Yes, the days of prohibition were awful, coming between two more awful days, saloon days and tavern days."

6 PCT. ON WPA MAY GET STATE IDLE INSURANCE

Payments Scheduled to Begin July 1.

BY WILL O'NEIL.

From 6 to 7 per cent of the WPA workers in Illinois will be eligible for unemployment compensation when payments of this insurance are begun shortly after July 1, Peter T. Swanish, commissioner of unemployment compensation, said yesterday. Charles E. Miner, Illinois WPA administrator, said WPA workers eligible for the insurance payments will be removed from rolls of the Works Progress administration as rapidly as their applications for compensation are approved.

All persons who earned a minimum of $225 during 1938 from an employer or employers subject to the unemployment insurance taxes will be eligible to receive the insurance payments. Employers, who are taxed at the rate of 2.7 per cent of their pay rolls, have built up the insurance fund to more than $150,000,000, Swanish said.

Seek to Avoid Jam.

Applications for the insurance payments will not be accepted before July 1, Swanish explained. The names of nearly 200,000 WPA workers, however, were cleared through the division of unemployment compensation records to find out which of them will be eligible for payments.

"We cleared the names of those on WPA in order to avoid a jam on and immediately after July 1," Swanish said. "Those on WPA who are entitled to receive unemployment payments will apply first, and the rest of the WPA workers will register with the Illinois state employment service during the summer."

Twelve employment service offices will be opened in Chicago next Monday. Each applicant for unemployment compensation must register and formally demand the insurance payments through one of those offices. There will be forty-five such offices in Cook county outside Chicago and in down-state areas.

Removal from WPA Rolls.

Miner said that successful applicants will be removed immediately from the WPA rolls, but that eligibility for WPA jobs will be suspended rather than revoked while applicants are receiving compensation payments.

"We will clear all of our workers through the unemployment compensation office, so we will know exactly how much each is receiving and how long the payments will continue," Miner said. "Persons who are removed from WPA jobs to the list of those eligible for WPA jobs will not be given preference in assignments to work when their period of compensation ends."

APPEAL TO STAY EXECUTION OF 2 TAVERN SLAYERS

A technicality in the law will delay until next fall the electrocution of Orville Watson and Edward Riley, who were sentenced yesterday to die for the murder of a tavern customer.

Judge Robert Jerome Dunne of the Criminal court, who pronounced sentence, fixed July 7 as the date of execution. Illinois law, however, gives the slayers ten days in which to appeal to the Illinois Supreme court. The court will conclude its present session in a few days, and thus will not be able to rule on the appeal until it reconvenes in October.

Donald Rogers, attorney for the slayers, was granted permission yesterday to file an appeal. A motion to vacate the date of execution will be heard tomorrow.

Killers Seized in Detroit.

Watson, 29 years old, and Riley, 37, were charged with the slaying of Alexander Ferguson, 57, of 2525 Leland avenue, in an attempted robbery May 3, in a tavern at 4623 North Western avenue. During a gun fight which accompanied the holdup Policeman Philip J. Kelly, 34, of 4730 Virginia avenue, also was killed and Policeman Edwin McIntyre, 42, of 4421 North Rockwell street, was wounded. The slayers and Watson's paramour, Susanna Smith, 22, were captured in Detroit, Mich., the next day.

Watson and Riley pleaded guilty of the slaying in the hope of escaping the electric chair.

"You men have pleaded guilty," Judge Dunne began abruptly when the prisoners were brought before him. "I have read the record and can find no mitigating circumstances. Have you anything to say?"

Slayer Makes Plea.

"I wish your honor had read the testimony carefully about the reënactment of the crime," said Watson. "I think then you would have seen who fired the first shot."

The killers had said that the policemen shot first, but this was refuted by the state. Ballistics tests showed that Watson's gun killed Ferguson and Kelly. Riley's jammed as he was trying to shoot two other persons in the tavern.

"Is that all?" asked Judge Dunne. Watson mumbled "yes."

"Life, liberty, and property in this town must be protected," the judge then said. "I fix the punishment at death in the electric chair—for both of you. I am sorry. Take them away."

TEN SIMILAR SENTENCES

Since 1919 seven judges in Cook county have imposed the death penalty on ten defendants who pleaded guilty of murder and did not place their cases in the hands of juries. Nine of the defendants were executed.

The cases were disclosed in a study of court records going back to 1840. No such cases were found between 1840 and 1919. Defendants pleading guilty of murder customarily are sentenced to 199 years in the penitentiary, a sentence which insures life imprisonment. The nine who were executed after pleading guilty are:

Thomas Fitzgerald, killed Janet Wilkerson, 6 years old; sentenced by Judge Robert E. Crowe. Hanged Oct. 17, 1919.

Lawrence Washington, colored, killed Nuncio Masculino, candy shop owner; sentenced by late Judge Jacob Hopkins. Hanged May 15, 1925.

James Gricius and Thomas McWane, killed Miss Marie Blang, 23 years old, Sunday school teacher; Frederick Hein, Sunday school superintendent, and Ludwig Rose, cab driver. Sentenced by late Judge Harry B. Miller. Hanged Dec. 31, 1926.

Napoleon Glover and Morgan Swan, both colored, killed Charles Metlock, colored. Sentenced by late Judge Marcus Kavanaugh. Electrocuted June 20, 1929.

Charles Rocco and John Popescue, killed Courtney R. Merrill, officer of Union State bank of South Chicago. Sentenced by Judge Philip J. Finnegan. Electrocuted Oct. 16, 1931.

Joseph Schuster, parolee, killed Policeman Arthur Sullivan. Sentenced by Judge John J. Lupe. Electrocuted April 15, 1937.

In addition to those executed, Iggy Varecha, boy terror, was sentenced to the electric chair in 1933 by Judge John Prystalski on a plea of guilty. The Supreme court ordered a new trial. He again pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 100 years by Judge Benjamin P. Epstein.

EX-SERGEANT FOUND SHOT.

Milo P. Brown, 44 years old, a former army sergeant, was in a critical condition in the County hospital last night from a bullet wound. Park district police who found him at Leif Eriksen drive and 7th street, said the wound was self inflicted. Brown gave his address as 639 Melrose street.

DISCLOSE ESCAPE OF 6 ST. CHARLES CRIME STUDENTS

Belated reports to police of the Fox River valley yesterday disclosed the escape Saturday night of six inmates of the St. Charles School for Boys, the unwalled and unfenced institution to which young criminals as well as dependent boys are sent.

As far as it is known the six fugitives are unarmed. William T. Harmon, managing officer of the institution, said they had not been considered vicious or dangerous or they would not have been permitted to live in the farm dormitory from which they fled.

The fugitives are Harvey Anweiler, 15 years old, of Ottawa; John Rensmore, 17, of Parkersburg; Paul Travelstead, 16, of East St. Louis; Donald McGhiey, 15, of Springfield, Needham Earl, 15, of Murphysboro, and Edward Kracen, 15, who has no home.

Seventeen in Dormitory.

Harmon said the six who escaped and eleven others slept in a dormitory in one of the farm cottages on the school's grounds. A married couple lives in the cottage and supervises the prisoners.

The boys worked on the farm until noon, Harmon said, and had the afternoon off. In the evening, he said, they could read, play games, listen to the radio, or enjoy themselves as they wished. There was no fixed time for them to go to bed.

The six escaped between 11 p. m. and 6:45 a. m. Sunday. None of the eleven remaining prisoners would admit seeing the escape, Harmon said.

"We sent word today to police of their home towns to pick them up," said Harmon, "but apparently none of them went home. We haven't heard anything from any of them yet."

Year's Breaks Total Forty-five.

There had been thirty-nine escapes from the school this year, up to April 22. Harmon said there had been none since then until the six fled Saturday night, bringing the year's total to forty-five.

A state senate committee went to St. Charles to find out why there were so many escapes and why some criminals were sent there instead of to the penitentiary. It was generally reported that coddling of young criminals had become too prevalent at the school.

On May 11 the legislature appropriated $40,000 to make the school a correctional institution. Of this fund $26,000 was to be spent for a fence around the school, $9,000 for lighting the grounds at night, and $5,000 for additional guards. Gov. Horner signed the bill May 22.

Yesterday A. L. Bowen, director of the department of public welfare, said he had not begun to erect the fence because of pending legislation. Other bills under consideration call for building an institution to house offenders too hardened for the St. Charles school but not subject to sentence in the reformatory in Pontiac.

HUNT FOUR TRUSTIES WHO FLED WISCONSIN PRISON'S HONOR CAMP

Marinette, Wis., June 19.—[Special.]—Four trusties who escaped last night from a Wisconsin state reformatory honor camp at Amberg still were at large today despite a wide search for them.

The fugitives are Matthew Slaven, 19 years old, Evanston, Ill., serving one to four years for burglary; Robert Verdegan, 22, Ladysmith, Wis., serving one to three years for forgery; Clayton Dean, 17, Madison, under a four to five year sentence for burglary and robbery, and Edward Zewbruzuski, 20, South Milwaukee, serving 12 to 18 months.

The four escaped by overpowering Arthur Colletee, a guard. Then they tore out all telephone wires, took the keys of all other cars at the camp, and escaped in an automobile bearing Wisconsin license No. 205-871.

21 IN CHAMPAIGN VICE CASES GO ON TRIAL JULY 10

Urbana, Ill., June 19.—(AP)—Circuit Judge F. B. Leonard today set July 10 for the trial of public officials, resort keepers, and other persons indicted by a grand jury which investigated vice and gambling in the vicinity of the University of Illinois.

At the same time the roster of defendants was reduced to twenty-one when charges of malfeasance in office were dismissed against Champaign City Commissioners E. T. Bassett, Walter Swearinger, and Virgil Burgess and former Commissioner James F. Smith.

Among those charged with malfeasance in office are Mayor James D. Flynn of Champaign, Chief of Police Roy Argo of Champaign, and State's Attorney Fred Hamill of Champaign county.

GERMANS EXPECT TO SIGN UP REDS AS TRADE ALLIES

Offer Credits of 300 Million to Russians.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 19.—While England and France are meeting obstacles in their negotiations for a mutual assistance pact with soviet Russia, a German trade delegation in Moscow is making such rapid progress that it is being reinforced with a staff of experts.

It is understood the Germans offered credits of $300,000,000 to the soviets for the purchase of German manufactured goods. These goods would be paid for largely on a barter basis.

This first group of Nazi negotiators has established that Russia is willing to make sacrifices to obtain rolling stock and electrical machinery. The Germans hope to obtain metal ores, timber, wood pulp, oil, and a small amount of coal.

Lack Materials for Repairs.

The Germans also are suffering from a shortage of rolling stock. They have been unable to repair their stock because of a shortage of necessary materials. Soviet deliveries of ores are expected to relieve this shortage and thereby increase German exports.

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's ministry for the enforcement of the four year plan to make the reich self-sufficient has worked out a plan for soviet-German trade exchanges. The various groups of German industry have been instructed on how far their delegates may go in Moscow. The full German trade delegation is expected to assemble in the soviet capital by the end of the week.

In official quarters which received confidential reports from the Nazi negotiators in Moscow, a conviction prevails that regardless of what concessions the British and French will make to the bolsheviks, they will not obtain the pact they are striving for.

This view is not shared by Frenchmen returning from Moscow. They still believe that a compromise can be reached by William Strang, special British agent, and Vyacheslav Molotov, soviet premier and foreign commissar.

Say Soviets Are Tickled.

"The Russians enjoy the sensation of being courted by the capitalist and the authoritarian anti-communist states," the French admit. "They are trying to squeeze as big concessions as possible out of England and Germany, using them both against each other."

Dobri Bojiloff, Bulgarian finance minister, arrived in Berlin today to negotiate a trade treaty with Germany. He also will confer with Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop. Germany is eager to strengthen her position in Bulgaria. The Nazis voice the belief that Bulgaria holds a strategical key position in event of war between Germany and England. They maintain that if Bulgaria should side with the Rome-Berlin axis powers, German troops could march through allied Jugo-Slavia and Bulgaria and attack Istanbul, Turkey. The British-Turkish military alliance would thus be rendered ineffective at least partially, the Nazis argue.

MAYOR TO TALK WITH ICKES ON TRACTION PLANS

Mayor Kelly plans to leave for Washington tomorrow to confer with Secretary Ickes on Thursday about an extension of time for drafting a comprehensive traction franchise. Ickes, head of the Public Works administration, telephoned Kelly from Washington yesterday after receiving a letter from the mayor.

The PWA, in making its $18,000,000 subway grant to the city, set July 1 as the deadline for drafting the ordinance. Mayor Kelly's letter to Ickes, asking for more time, was made public yesterday. The mayor said negotiations were in progress with the transit lines but that completion of an ordinance by July 1 would be impossible.

The mayor's letter also included a request for more time to draw plans for future subways and for the proposed Congress street widening. The PWA deadline on these two plans is also July 1.

NINE TERRORISTS SLAIN BY BRITISH IN THE HOLY LAND

JERUSALEM, June 19.—(AP)—British troops, aided by fighting planes, killed nine terrorists in a battle near Jericho today as a fresh outbreak of Jewish-Arab strife caused eighteen deaths in Haifa's market place.

The encounter between the troops and the terrorist band followed early morning bomb explosions which killed nine men, six women, and three children in the Haifa market place. Twenty-four persons were wounded.

The Haifa telephone exchange and street telephone booths were badly damaged. The explosions threw many persons out of beds in nearby dwellings.

A curfew was imposed at 9 a. m. Stand-to orders were given troops and police in the Haifa district.

Eighty-eight persons were killed in similar explosions and subsequent Arab-Jewish fighting at the Haifa market place in July, 1938.

Wailing Arabs crowded the government hospital morgue in search of relatives among the bomb torn victims of today's explosion.

Authorities said they believed the bombs were brought into the city from outlying districts and concealed in vegetable baskets.

Many Arabs were reported to have massed around the German consulate at Haifa demanding protection from bomb throwers.

An unidentified Jew was beaten and stabbed in a midday street fight.

Additional bombs exploded today in the mixed quarters on the Jaffa-Tel Aviv border, just outside the Jaffa police headquarters.

British Turn Down Plan for World Federation

LONDON, June 19.—(AP)—The British government today rejected a proposal that the United States and other powers be approached to determine their attitudes on the establishment of a federation of nations and a world parliament. Richard Austen Butler, parliamentary undersecretary for foreign affairs, replying to a question by the Rev. R. Sorensen, a Laborite, said: "The present circumstances do not seem propitious for any initiative as suggested."

LATVIA, ESTONIA FEAR FATE THAT BEFELL CZECHS

Believe British May O. K. Seizure by Russia.

BY DONALD DAY.
(Map on Back Page.)

RIGA, Latvia, June 19.—Latvia and Estonia soon may be obliged to wage another war to retain their independence. The conviction is growing in the Baltic states that the British and French governments are willing to grant Dictator Josef Stalin's ambition to extend Russia's frontiers to the Baltic sea, provided Moscow signs a military alliance with them against Germany.

Stalin is reported in Latvia to be eager to stage a war to annex Estonia and Latvia in order to bolster the authority of the soviet government, now experiencing another serious internal crisis, which includes a famine already affecting 20,000,000 persons.

According to an important Moscow diplomat, the fate of the Baltic states not only depends upon the present protracted negotiations between London and Moscow but also upon the negotiations which the soviet government has renewed with Germany.

Envoy Carries New Proposals.

THE TRIBUNE is informed that Count Frederic Werner von Schulenburg, German ambassador at Moscow, carried a new offer from Stalin to Reichsfuehrer Hitler in Berlin.

Stalin is reported to have suggested that Germany and the soviet should make an alliance and coöperate in waging war on Poland to divide her for the fourth time. The soviet proposals include restoration of the prewar German frontiers, while Russia would annex the Ukrainian and White Russian territories now ruled by Poland.

The territory governed by the Poles in November, 1918, would be permitted to remain as a small buffer state, which, together with Lithuania, would in the future separate Russia from Germany. Russia proposes to occupy Estonia and Latvia immediately after Germany begins operations to recover Danzig and the Polish corridor.

Raw Materials Included.

To make this offer more attractive the soviet government, it is claimed, is willing to supply Germany with certain raw materials to strengthen her position against England and France. These supplies are to be paid for with machines which the soviet government needs to complete its third five year plan.

Stalin's latest bid for Hitler's coöperation includes a pledge to remain neutral if the axis powers should become involved in war with the western powers. THE TRIBUNE's informant said Finland is not mentioned in the proposals.

Public indignation is growing in Latvia, Estonia, and Finland against England's apparent willingness to sacrifice these countries to bolshevism, which they say entails extermination of a large percentage of their populations by communist purges. Disgust with the British has reached such intensity in Finland that Sir W. M. Kirke, general inspector of the British territorial army, has flown from London to Helsingfors to confer with the Finnish war minister.

Needed Munitions Withheld.

While British diplomatic representatives have assured Latvia and Estonia that London will respect their wishes to remain neutral, still the general staffs of these two countries report their inability to obtain badly needed munitions from England, even for cash.

Important officials of the Baltic states declare that the moment any Russian-British move threatens their independence they will ask Berlin for help. They believe their armies can hold any force Russia might send against them until German help arrives. They also are confident it will be forthcoming.

FRANK MORGAN TELLS BUCKNER PLEA FOR CASH

Asked to Give $6,000, Actor Testifies.

New York, June 19.—(AP)—Bumbling Frank Morgan, whose inane dialog has brought him fame on radio and screen, testified in federal court today that he refused to invest in a scheme to redeem Philippine railway bonds because it "sounded fantastic."

Frank Morgan.

Although Morgan was the only movie celebrity to make an appearance at the trial of William P. Buckner Jr. and four others accused of mail fraud, spectators sat alert as the names of Loretta Young and Miriam Hopkins were drawn into testimony, along with those of Actors Ronald Colman, Herbert Marshall, and Leon Errol.

The gray-haired, moustached Morgan, fiddling with a cornflower in his buttonhole and rambling along in a monotone, said he was approached in 1938 by two defendants, John Stuart Hyde, British actor, and Charles Wesley Turner, a broker.

Recalls Request for $6,000.

"From what I gathered," related Morgan, "there was some sort of proposition of Philippine railway bonds which were then selling at about 11 and which I was informed were going to be redeemed by the Philippine government at 65. They asked me for $6,000 to finance a trip by Mr. Buckner to the Philippines."

The comedian said Turner spoke of an executive who could be influenced and he said this executive was identified by Turner as President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines, and not the Filipino senator, Felipe Buencamino, who is a defendant on trial.

Morgan said Turner gave him to understand that for a $6,000 investment he would get back $50,000 or $60,000.

Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard overruled defense objections to mention of Quezon.

Mention of Millions Told.

"Did Mr. Turner put on paper how much money could be made?" asked Assistant United States Attorney William Power Maloney.

"Well," Morgan chuckled, "two or three or up to seven million dollars, but I made up my mind I wouldn't go into the deal because I thought their story sounded fantastic."

Morgan's appearance contributed afresh to the almost theatrical change of pace which has marked the Buckner trial.

The hearing opened last week with testimony by women from the stage and café society that they were taken to Washington by the dapper promoter. The government, accusing Buckner of dissipating the bondholders' money in lavish living, has dubbed this a "beauty lobby."

Bond Deal Described.

James W. Liddle, Buffalo, N. Y., theatrical producer, testified today that Buckner induced him to buy four of the $1,000 bonds at 30.25 in February, 1938, but that they soon dropped precipitously.

Then, to save his investment, he testified, he put up about $10,000 for the campaign to persuade the Philippine government to redeem the bonds at 65. A fourth of this, he said, was intended for Buencamino, who the government charges was to be paid to push redemption legislation.

Liddle said the Buckner group kept him informed by telegraph of efforts to interest movie stars in the bond proposition.

One of these, dated last Sept. 12 and bearing Turner's name, read: "Bill [Buckner] has been with Loretta Young all the time; don't know whether he will marry her or not."

Miss Young had been reported as a likely defense witness for Buckner, who said at the time of his arrest that they were engaged to be married.

Ronald Colman, Herbert Marshall, Miriam Hopkins and Leon Errol were mentioned in other telegrams as movie people to whom Buckner or his aids appealed.

DENIES STRIKING WIFE; DECLARES HE SOCKED SELF

The divorce case of Mrs. Erika Spielvogel against Rudolph Spielvogel, a draftsman, was proceeding without excitement yesterday before Judge Rudolph F. Desort. Mrs. Spielvogel, a slim brunette of 24, testified they were married in her home town, Leipzig, Germany, in 1937.

Questioned by her attorney, William L. Kelly, Mrs. Spielvogel said her husband struck her twice, once with a coffee pot and once with his fist. Then Spielvogel rushed to the bench.

"I love her and won't give her up," he said. "I spent all my money on her."

"If she pays you $500 would you feel better?" asked the judge. Spielvogel, after several minutes of calculation, demanded $5,000. "And I never hit her," he added. "When I felt like hitting her, I used to sock myself!"

Judge Desort told Spielvogel he was too late and that the divorce would go through. Mrs. Spielvogel lives at 220 St. Paul avenue and Spielvogel at 500 West 59th street.

ENJOINS MAYOR OF RIVER FOREST FROM TAKING PAY

An injunction preventing John L. Brink, village president of River Forest, from collecting his $2,000 annual salary was signed in Circuit court yesterday by Judge John Prystalski.

The office of village president paid no salary until Aug. 2, 1937, when the $2,000 remuneration was established. Brink has been president since 1935. Judge Prystalski ruled that the village trustees, in paying Brink, violated the provision of the state constitution that prohibits an increase in the salary of a municipal officer during his term of office.

The injunction suit was filed in behalf of Charles F. Baumrucker, 750 Forest avenue, River Forest, a former village president acting as a taxpayer. Baumrucker said outside court he intended to file another suit to recover nearly $4,000 already paid to Brink.

Correct Constipation Before—Not After!

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation, why bring on the need for emergency medicines, when there may be a far better way? That way is to KEEP regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.

If it's common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, a pleasant, nutritious, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—goes straight to the cause by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this crunchy toasted cereal every day—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

THE POWER TO TAX AND DESTROY.

The depression gave the Illinois New Dealers the opportunity to apply a new form of taxation not before used in the state. The sales tax was imposed for the relief of the destitute in an emergency which was confidently expected to disappear when Mr. Roosevelt had played with it two or three years. The legislators at Springfield might not have known that the planned society intended to make dependency a permanent institution. They took a more cheerful view of the future and provided for a quick diversion of a large percentage of the sales tax revenue from relief into the general state fund, substituting the new tax for the old state levy.

Now the proposal is to take a chance with constitutional requirements and impose an income tax as a substitute, it is promised, for the sales tax. The natural history of government is found in taxing programs. Politics lives on public expenditures, always wastefully and frequently corruptly made. Politics is about the only business in the world which can flourish on extravagant costs—that is, until the source from which it extorts its income dries up. Political profits are in ratio to money badly used.

Political expenditures are increased, not to produce public benefits but political advantages. The politicians are constantly on the lookout for new sources of revenue upon which to base more dishonest waste of money. Lack of sufficient revenue may keep a political organization within bounds. Whenever the money can be had the government will be profligate. The history of the American federal government since the adoption of the income tax amendment has been a curious and a sad record.

It wasn't long from the time citizens made their first income tax payments—very small they seem now—until the United States was in its most expensive war, and since that time it has never ceased enlarging the scope of its existing departmental activities and piling upon them the adventures and costs of the ever growing extra departmental corporations.

The workaday government of modest, serviceable proportions became the gold plated giant which has spread itself all over the country as boss of everybody. As soon as the federal government found the money the ambitions of the political class were released in full. Now the American people wonder how they can ever deflate the thing, curb its powers, and reduce it from master to servant.

All governments rule by the money power. It gives them the force they need. The exaction of it weakens the populace. Sometimes rulers have taken wealth from conquered people and degraded their own subjects with it; sometimes they extort it from their own subjects and degrade them by taking away their property and in consequence their independence. The more money a government can extort the more powerful it will be and the fewer liberties the people will have.

IN MR. BOWEN'S LAP.

Gov. Horner signed an act on May 22 appropriating $40,000 to build a fence and install lights at the St. Charles School for Boys. The act was passed at the urgent demand of Fox river valley communities that had been terrorized by young hoodlums who escaped from the school.

A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare, has had four weeks in which to get the fence up. Nothing has been done. Mr. Bowen has said that nothing will be done. He is not going to build the fence. He gave as his reason the fact that there had been no escapes from the school for ten weeks.

Five inmates escaped from the school on Saturday. Those escapes are in Mr. Bowen's lap. He was given the means of preventing them and refused to use those means. If the fugitives emulate other young criminals who have escaped from the home and commit robberies or murderous assaults, those crimes will be in Mr. Bowen's lap, too. And Mr. Bowen's lap is Mr. Horner's lap.

WHERE AMERICA LAGS.

In the lower right-hand corner of this page today will be found a photograph of a new power boat designed for the British navy. The boat is 70 feet long, and its engines, which develop 3,000 horse power, drive it at 48 miles an hour. Two 21-inch or four 18-inch torpedo tubes are provided in ships of this type. In addition there are two or three turrets, power operated and mounting machine guns.

In the recent appropriation for our navy several million dollars were allotted for experiment with this type of vessel. We need such boats. They should prove of immense value in operating among islands and shoals, and particularly when visibility is low. They are highly maneuverable, present a small target, and their great speed will make them difficult to hit even under favorable conditions. We could afford to lose a number of them if only one or two should get close enough to a battleship to score a hit with a torpedo.

By no means the least merit of the little high speed torpedo boats is the rapidity and safety with which they can be constructed. The larger naval vessels must be built on the seaboard, but the shipyards on the Great Lakes and other interior waters can be used for motor boats. The little ships can then be moved under their own power through the St. Lawrence locks, which are more than large enough to handle them, or, alternatively, through the New York barge canal or the Mississippi. The interior shipyards are safe from enemy attack and close to the motor factories and the sources of raw material.

For reasons more or less peculiar to America the need for motor boats for our navy is great. In time of war it will not be easy to obtain crews of the proper type to man larger vessels because our merchant marine has been so heavily infiltrated by communists that men trained in commercial vessels can no longer be regarded as reliable for naval service. We do have thousands of sportsmen and fishermen accustomed to handling motor boats and from this group ideal crews can be recruited for the mosquito fleet.

FORD AND DOUGLAS HAD BACKERS.

This piece is not intended to minimize what big business has done for the people of this country. For making new products and improving old ones and making them available at lower prices the country is in the debt of our large scale enterprises. But too much can be expected of our biggest corporations. They cannot be depended upon to provide all of the progress—so much in the past came from the little concerns.

Not the billion dollar corporations, but poor men of genius, who were able to persuade men of means to back them with modest amounts of capital, brought the automobile to the stage of development where its importance and appeal were widely recognized. Henry Ford, who had more to do with the growth of the automobile industry than any other one man, needed $28,000 to get his business started. But he was able to find backers with that much money and willing to risk it on his idea. He was able to get that support because capitalists in 1903 could count on receiving and retaining their full share of profits if a venture they backed proved successful. They can no longer count upon any such thing.

If he were starting now [assuming that the automobile now was at the 1903 stage], Mr. Ford probably couldn't get the capital assistance to launch his little company. If there are profits now, they don't go proportionately to those who take the risk, but in largest part to the government. It collects a good share of what the corporations earn, taxes them to force the disbursement of the earnings, and takes a large share of what the stockholders receive.

Consider the facts available in a recent government report. Between 1934 and 1937 seven leading automobile companies paid as taxes 32 per cent of their profits. Of the amount which remained 75 per cent was paid out as dividends. On this the government levied the personal income tax, on which the rate rises to 79 per cent. Whatever remains after all this is taken out the stockholders may spend. But of any amount which remains unexpended at the time of the stockholder's death the government demands a cut running up to 70 per cent. This is in addition to large amounts demanded by the states.

With these huge bites out of profits, if there are any, no capitalist in his right mind will assume the risk of loss which lies in any new venture. That is why fewer new corporations are being formed than in any period for which there are records.

After Mr. Ford ran a $28,000 automobile business into a billion he tried to repeat his success with the airplane. Though he then possessed unlimited means and could hire the ablest engineers, he failed dismally. But another poor man, Donald Douglas, starting in 1921 with $15,000 of capital which Los Angeles capitalists loaned him, has been able to develop the greatest airplanes and the most successful airplane business in the world. Douglas needed only $15,000, only a little more than half as much as Henry Ford had to launch his business, but he was able to persuade men to risk that money because in 1921, although there were income taxes, the rates were kept within limits, and were levied to raise revenue solely, never to "soak the rich."

A metallurgical engineer who develops a new alloy of large commercial promise can find the necessary capital to exploit his discovery only by turning it over to a large corporation which is possessed of substantial idle funds. An experienced marine engineer and business man found it impossible during the last three years to find private capital in Chicago to finance a ferry service to St. Joe, which had attractive possibilities. In the New Deal there is no place for such a man as Ford was in 1903 and Douglas was in 1921.

Big companies cannot be depended upon to produce successfully all the new things. Ford and the airplane proved that. And over the years a long list of articles of present day importance have been developed by poor men who were able to get risk capital to back them. If the other Roosevelt when he succeeded the murdered McKinley had put the New Deal into effect, Henry Ford might have remained a blacksmith and horses might still be the principal source of power for vehicular transportation.

Not a dearth of authors and actors, but of Broadway angels subject to tax laws, keeps the theaters dark. In industry the present level of taxes on new risk capital gives a protection to large corporations which already have all the capital they can use. This is not only unfair to inventors but is unfair to the public in denying access to the products of present day obscure Fords and Douglases who cannot get capital to back them.

MECHANICAL CROP PROPHETS.

[Bloomington (Ill.) Daily Pantagraph.]

A crop prediction machine which may eventually replace the 300,000 crop reporters who serve the department of agriculture is being tested by the bureau of agricultural economics.

Over the dusty back roads of Oklahoma and Kansas this week three men drove automobiles having curious contraptions on the dashboards. These are "cropmeters." They have a double row of twelve push-buttons wired to the speedometer.

When the machine reaches a wheat field the operator pushes the certain button.

After passing two miles of wheat fields the car stops, the driver gets out and consults a table. He finds a certain number. He steps off a certain distance in the field, throws a wire hoop over a yard of wheat. He plucks heads of wheat at random.

He does the same thing in other parts of the field. The sample wheat heads are sent to the Kansas State college.

There the grain is subjected to chemical tests. From the small amount of samples estimates are made as to the weight per bushel, and from that the yield per acre.

Curator Goes 'Round the Mulberry Bush.

Russell Anderson, curator of agriculture, textiles, and forestry at the Rosenwald Museum of Science and Industry, carries a sack or a briefcase stuffed with mulberry leaves every morning when he boards the I. C. The mulberry leaves are for the silkworms in the recently added silkworm exhibit at the museum. The curator begs the leaves from neighbors in Homewood who have mulberry trees, for a silkworm that once has tasted a mulberry leaf won't eat anything else, it is said. It's quite a responsibility finding enough leaves.

The silkworms, which were the gift of Mrs. Carl Medinus of Edison Park, are 42 days old today. They began to spin silk last week and now are pretty well wrapped in their cocoons. Some of them will be allowed to hatch out and their eggs probably will be put in the refrigerator until next year. Mr. Anderson doesn't want to have to provide mulberry leaves for another generation of silkworms this year.

Solution Correction.

There was a mistake in one of the words listed in Friday's printed solution of the word puzzle. Est-a-tes was given as a word with the same letters, in reverse order, at beginning and end. That is incorrect, as the letter writers are pointing out in each incoming mail. William S. Taussig offers another word to replace it, ci-v-ic.

Silly Story.

It's Ernest Byfield's story, brought back from Bermuda:

A man went into a sporting goods store and said he wanted to order a billiard table. A very special billiard table, he explained. He wanted it elliptical in shape, "and none of that green baize on it," he continued. "I want it covered with leopard skin. I want an elliptical pocket in the center of the table instead of the usual pockets at sides and ends. And none of those ugly, cumbersome wooden legs," he added. "I want slender chromium legs."

The firm finally agreed to make up a table according to his specifications, to be ready in six weeks. The man said he was sailing for South America and would be back in six weeks. But he died in South America.

Do you know any one who wants an elliptical billiard table?

EGYPT GUARDS WATER SUPPLY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAIRO, Egypt.—A survey of the possibility of providing Egypt with a substitute volume of water should it ever be deprived of the floodwaters of the Blue Nile river is being speeded up by order of the Egyptian government. The reason is the present Italo-British tension.

The source of the Blue Nile is Lake Tsana in Ethiopia. Its significance is dual; it irrigates the great cotton lands of Gezira, in southeastern Sudan, and, when swollen by its tributaries, it precipitates, together with the White Nile which it joins at Khartoum, the annual Nile flood in Egypt.

The erratic annual level of the flood and the need for controling high floods render it imperative for Egypt and Sudan to maintain control of the Nile waters.

"The Nile is Egypt and Egypt is the Nile" is an axiom of the land of the Pharaohs, for without it there would be nothing to distinguish it from the Sahara, and all that ancient civilization which archæologists are taking such pains to bring to light would never have existed.

These considerations give enormous potential importance to the survey being conducted by the Egyptian government. If the project emerges as envisaged it will involve the construction of a tremendous dam at the northern end of Lake Albert in northwestern Uganda and the raising of the lake's water level to twenty-seven feet, thus vastly enhancing its holding capacity.

Also projected as part of the scheme is the canalizing of the great Sudd marshes with the consequent saving of tremendous water resources at present going to waste.

As a result of these plans Egypt would be assured of a volume of water which, controled and regulated by means of dams constructed between Lake Albert and the Mediterranean, largely would replace the flood waters of the Nile should the sources of the Blue Nile be blocked.

While all quarters in Egypt and Sudan are unanimous as to the essential need of taking every possible measure to safeguard the flow of the Nile, certain advisers of the Egyptian government are less concerned about the dangers of Italian interference with Lake Tsana. They point out that only a small proportion of the Nile water comes from the lake itself, while after it leaves Tsana the Blue Nile at once enters a region of precipitous ravines that make diversion almost impossible.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

"TOUCH ME NOT" MEANS NEURALGIA.

IT is common practice to refer to any type of distress about the head or face as neuralgia. While the term itself signifies an angry, rebellious nerve, medical usage confines its application to special areas such as cardiac neuralgia—angina pectoris; intercostal neuralgia—pain in the side; sciatic neuralgia—trouble along the sciatic trunk.

The most common offender, however, is the fifth nerve with its three branches—one to the region of the eye, another to the upper jaw, and the third to the mandible [lower jaw]. More often than not wholly innocent teeth are blamed for this condition. The patient may be so sure of his own diagnosis that he will demand the removal of one molar after another—all without avail. This may be insisted upon against the dentist's better judgment. We can explain useless extractions because of the fact that ofttimes the soreness is referred to the mouth, its contents, and the neighboring localities.

For the most part the true nature of trigeminal neuralgia is not difficult to identify. The agony is spasmodic, lasts only a few seconds, and comes and goes with the speed of lightning. The slightest movement—such as chewing, taking a swallow of water, talking, touching the affected side of the face, brushing the teeth or the hair, or shaving—may bring on an attack. There is a sharp, shooting, electric shock as though a hot iron were forced suddenly through the tissues. The suffering of these victims is intense. They are never sure of themselves. Scheduled for a public appearance a paralyzing episode may occur. A seizure may cease as quickly as it appeared, and if the patient is free from all discomfort between paroxysms we may be certain that the fifth nerve is at fault. Periods of complete comfort may vary from weeks to many months—occasionally a year or two—but once the disease has become manifest the intervals will be shorter until scarcely a day will pass without a pang.

The starting point may be a local patch no larger than a dime. These are called trigger zones and were first described by Hugh Patrick. The very touch of a wisp of cotton to the skin over one of these spots will set off the fireworks. Many patients recognize these sites accurately and they will go to any lengths to protect them.

To the question, "What is the cause?" no reasonable answer can be made. Decaying teeth, sinus infections, and all sorts of irritations may be disregarded. We can look upon the phenomenon as a sympathetic nerve explosion with some anemia of the main depot. As has been pointed out repeatedly, whenever the blood supply is deficient, pain is a prominent symptom.

Treatment has been a matter of grave concern for centuries. Twigs of the main structure have been injected with some chemical and alcohol has proved sufficiently deadening. Recently a more satisfactory solution has been suggested—one that contains a small amount of novocaine and chloroform as well as alcohol. Cutting a portion of the nerve as it exits from the skull has also been resorted to, but after a time the filaments regenerate and back come the jabs. As with the injection plan, this method will be helpful for a period of a few months.

Permanent cure can be effected through a relatively safe surgical process which involves severing the sensory root within the skull. This requires an expert—one highly skilled in the procedure. This so-called Gasserian ganglion operation—first performed in 1900—has been perfected until it is almost 100 per cent sure.

For temporary ease, trichlorethylene administered cautiously may be suggested by the physician. Twenty drops are poured on a bit of gauze and the drug inhaled until no more odor remains. While it will not abate the immediate spasm, the vapor may be breathed two or three times daily for a short period with marked benefit.

REPLY.

Cow's milk and its products should be omitted entirely for at least a year or two. You may be able, however, to substitute the canned evaporated preparations. Have you tried goat's milk? This is well borne frequently by such children. The youngster will need additional sources of calcium. Fresh vegetables should be used abundantly and some drug, such as calcium glycerophosphate, will supply the lacking mineral.

V. V. writes: How can varicose veins be cured? Can they come back?

REPLY.

The most effective method is the obliteration of the veins by the injection of some material which closes or blocks the channels. If the procedure is carried out skillfully return will be unlikely. In some cases it is necessary to either tie off or remove them surgically.

PSORIASIS.

N. O. writes: I am troubled with psoriasis and find that it is much better in warm weather. Is the sun or the heat supposed to be a beneficial factor?

REPLY.

Ultraviolet—artificial or natural—helps many patients. Others do well on a fat free diet. Send a stamped addressed envelope for leaflet on psoriasis.

IT MEANS YOU SAVE MONEY.

S. P. writes: My hair and nails grow very slowly. What does this signify?

REPLY.

A chance to present friend wife with what you save on haircuts and manicures.

JUST WHAT IS A DEMOCRACY?

Chicago, June 17.—Raising questions embarrassing to their Brittanic majesties—representatives of a sister "democracy"—might have been considered ungracious while they were being fêted in Washington and New York. Now, however, it may be permissible to inquire whether the British empire is a "democracy." Despite its many mutations, it does not appear possible that the English language has so changed that "empire" and "democracy" have become synonymous terms.

Do not the people rule in a "democracy," locally as well as nationally? Is not fair representation inherent in true democracy? Judged by this standard, at least one part of the British empire—Northern Ireland—certainly cannot be classed as a "democracy."

BERNARD MACGILLIAN,
President, Ulster Irish Liberty Legion.

A JOKER IN DRUG BILL.

Memphis, Tenn., June 17.—Our attention has been directed to house bill 752 in the Illinois assembly against which we wish to protest on the following basis:

There is a "joker" in the bill which jeopardizes business in all proprietary preparations, such as headache remedies, cold remedies, many of the tonics, etc.

This bill relates to the registration of pharmacists and the operation of drug stores, and it would seem from first reading that the exemption provided permits the sale of patent or proprietary preparations in the original unbroken packages in all types of retail stores, but in defining "patent or proprietary remedies" the bill eliminates such medicines as contain quinine, aspirin, ephedrine [nose drops], etc.; from sale by any store other than a drug store. The wording is also broad enough to prohibit the sale of any medicine listed in the Pharmacopœias by any store except a drug store.

This provision is a restrictive sales measure, and in view of this we feel that the definition of proprietary remedies and package medicines be stricken from the bill. Courts should be allowed to decide what actually constitutes a package or proprietary medicine.

"DEMOCRACY" ON THE BRAIN.

Chicago, June 16.—I take this opportunity to congratulate you on the stand you took when the king and queen of England were here. Your paper was the most wonderful to point out their trip and the occasion of it.

I have noticed that some propaganda is going on in this country. I wonder if I am befuddled. Dr. Fosdick, when he closes his sermons nowadays, at times prays to God that he may die in a democracy, whereas in the old times the preacher prayed that they land in heaven when they die.

When Cordell Hull was at the Sunday Evening club even Judge Barnes hoped to be saved by a democracy. I think that the church and everybody is just saturated with this propaganda, knowingly or unknowingly, and I am glad there is such a paper as THE TRIBUNE exposing such talk.

ANDREW RINGMAN.

USING PROF. LINN AS CAMOUFLAGE.

Chicago, June 19.—I suppose Prof. Linn thinks that the slot machines are running because the League of Women Voters, Crime Commission, and 100 other fronts for paid secretaries want them to run.

The professor is in the legislature because he is a useful piece of camouflage for the alliance of crime and politics.

As I am not seeking publicity, please use my initials.

TWIDDLE-TWADDLE FROM LUCAS.

Chicago, June 16.—I tuned in the other night on the Washington Star forum and heard Senator Scott W. Lucas of Illinois portray the plight of the farmers for the last twenty years. After quoting the present low farm prices for farm commodities, including dairy products, the senator said: "The United States Supreme court's adverse decision invalidating the 1936 triple AAA caused all the present low prices; the decision of the said court validating the triple AAA of 1938 will help to raise prices again. A great number of farmers have signed to receive these benefits, which will no doubt put them on the road to complete recovery."

I would like to comment that they are a long way from crossing the Red Sea of Recession into the Promised Land of New Deal Recovery.

The senator said nothing about 2½ million of his constituents in Chicago, who have an annual income of $1,450, and some much less. If he raises the price of milk for the farmers from 3 and 4 to 5 and 6 cents a quart, then the distributers will raise their prices to the consumer, who holds the bag and does the paying. Live stock is at a low price, but still meat is high. Raise the price of live stock and the price of meat goes up. Maybe he thinks he can get the city votes, regardless.

The senator also advised his constituents of a lot of twiddle they would hear in 1940 from opposing groups and admonished them to pay no attention to any promises of a short cut to prosperity. We have heard a lot of crackpot New Deal twiddle-twaddle for the last six years and would like a diversion.

ERNEST T. ALCORN.

TO ENGLAND'S APRON STRINGS.

Chicago, June 17.—Now that the king and queen have gone and the bowing ceased, perhaps we should pause and ask: "Where do we go from here?"

The Roosevelts, the Garners, the Hulls, the Supreme courters, the Morgans, the Rockefellers, the senators' wives, and, last and least, the senators themselves have securely tied this country to England's apron strings again. When has there been a greater spectacle of official America losing its head? Our government down east almost ceased to function for some ten days or more preparing for the "visit"—nothing left undone to please.

We have been importing many things recently, the latest being the English caste system. After Mr. Roosevelt sleeps in Buckingham palace on the return visit George Washington's efforts will be largely nullified.

J. W. REEVES.

CRAWFORD AVENUE AND DANZIG.

Chicago, June 17.—Chicagoans who have seen the arrogance and deception with which the Poles seized Crawford avenue from its owners will understand how the Germans in Danzig and East Prussia suffer under Polish oppression.

Return Crawford avenue to its owners. Return Danzig to its owners also.

RIGHT TO ESTATE.

Chicago, June 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would like to know the rights of a widow and four children to an estate consisting of real estate valued at less than $6,000 where there is no will.

1 At the death of the husband no settlement was made. The widow was allowed to retain control of the house, collect rent, pay taxes, etc. By not having a written agreement as to each child's share did this in any way prevent the children from entering claims?

2. Would it be necessary to go to court to protect the children's rights for the next ten years?

3. If the widow remarries will this change the children's rights in any way?

4. What would be the husband's rights?

5. In what way can the children safeguard their part of the estate?

6. Is it necessary to take any action to protect the children [all of age] or is there a law?

1. No.
2. No.
3. No.
4. He would acquire no rights in the share of his stepchildren.
5. It is not clear that any steps on their part are called for, unless they desire to share in the income now.
6. We have answered the preceding question on the belief that the children are minors. If they are adults and the widow is in adverse possession, then it might be advisable for them to act, although in general one of several co-owners is not permitted to assert a limitation title against the others. The fact that the widow is apparently asserting complete ownership leads us to suspect that the title may have been in joint tenancy. We suggest that you look this up on the tract index in the recorder's office.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MOTOR VEHICLE LAWS.

Chicago, June 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Section 30f of the Illinois motor vehicle laws provides that the operator's license is acceptable in lieu of bail, cash or other security, in certain offenses. I went to the library to look up the law and found no provision wherein a judge is entitled to a bond fee [$2.00] for putting up the driver's card. How does he get away with it? Will you please advise me as well as your readers if a judge or magistrate can charge a fee for making such a bond and if not why do such conditions exist? I got an "Arrest Notification" from a policeman whose star read "State License Investigator." I paid $4.00 as penalty and I want to know who gets that money and if any accounting is made of it to the state or any one else? Please do not mention my name or the source city. I will gladly give you more information if you will mention it in your column.

J. J.

Please give us a narrative statement of when and where the arrest took place, in what court the case was handled, the nature of the charge, etc.

LAUNCH ELECTION FRAUDS INQUIRY IN WILL COUNTY

Judge Wilson's Successor Calls Grand Jury.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Will county officials prepared yesterday for a grand jury investigation of alleged ballot box frauds by Democrats in the June 5 judicial election. Chief issue in the campaign was the record of Judge Edwin L. Wilson in issuing injunctions protecting slot machines and law breaking saloons. He was defeated.

Judge James V. Bartley of Joliet, one of the three newly elected judges in the 12th circuit, was inaugurated yesterday morning. He headed the Republican ticket and he succeeds Judge Wilson as Will county member of the 12th circuit bench.

Summons Grand Jury.

Judge Bartley immediately summoned a grand jury for July 3, at the request of State's Attorney James E. Burke. The jury is to deal especially with charges of election frauds. It is alleged that squads of floaters were imported from outside the district for election purposes and that repeaters voted in a series of precincts to aid the Democratic ticket.

"I shall investigate all charges of election frauds in the recent judicial election," Burke said. "If anything is disclosed and the grand jury returns indictments, I shall prosecute to the limit."

Already vote scandals have been brought to light in the County court in Will county. But jurisdiction was in doubt. The action of Judge Bartley and Burke was the first inkling the courthouse in Joliet had that grand jury action was coming.

Twelve Arrested at Polls.

Twelve men were arrested at the polls June 5 on charges of illegal voting. They were accused by Republican watchers. Ten of them told the police they were from Chicago. Five pleaded guilty before County Judge Glen L. Cowing. They were not sentenced, the County court being without jurisdiction. Three of the men are still in jail.

Republican workers say that on election day racketeers from Chicago Heights came into the district in numbers and moved from precinct to precinct casting illegal votes for the Democratic judicial ticket.

A. F. Schupp, Republican county chairman, said yesterday: "The investigation in the County court revealed the methods, but as yet the surface has only been scratched. Will county officials, through grand jury action, are determined to get honest elections and to investigate illegal voting two weeks ago."

U. OF W. HONORS MAYOR HOAN AND NORWAY'S PRINCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., June 19.—[Special.]—Crown Prince Olav of Norway and Daniel W. Hoan, Socialist mayor of Milwaukee who once was quoted as saying "to hell with kings," were among five who received honorary degrees at the University of Wisconsin's 86th annual commencement today.

The others honored were Roy Cummings Muir, Wisconsin native who became vice president of the General Electric company; H. V. Kaltenborn, radio news commentator, and Arthur Joseph Altmeyer, former secretary of the Wisconsin industrial commission, now chairman of the social security board. President Clarence A. Dykstra presented the degrees.

Nearly 2,000 graduates and post graduates received their degrees at the two hour commencement ceremonies. Of this number, 1,500 received bachelors' degrees.

Angler Drowns in Lake; Body Is Soon Recovered

Police believe he had been fishing and that he accidentally fell from a pier. Chlada lived at 2527 South 60th court, Cicero, and was employed as a railway freight clerk. His widow identified his body early today.

Picture which Mrs. Marguerite Reilley, reformatory superintendent, autographed to Velma West, hammer murderer. Mrs. West escaped yesterday from the institution.

Marysville, O., June 19.—[Special.]—Officials throughout Ohio tonight were searching for Mrs. Velma West, Painesville, O., woman who hammered her husband to death in December, 1927, and then went alone to a bridge party. Mrs. West, with three other women convicts, escaped about 5 o'clock this morning from the state reformatory for women here.

Mrs. West was serving a life sentence for second degree murder and was an honor inmate of the institution.

Those who escaped with her were Mary Ellen Richards, 23 years old, of Cincinnati, held for robbery; Virginia Brawdy, 19, of Akron, convicted of incorrigibility, and Florence Sheline, 23 years old, of Gallipolis, imprisoned on a breaking and entering charge.

Mrs. West, now 33 years old, confessed slaying her husband, Thomas Edward West, son of T. B. West, wealthy nurseryman, after he refused to accompany her to a party.

HASTEN EFFORTS TO AID HOMELESS IN TORNADO ZONE

Minneapolis, Minn., July 19.—(AP)—National Guardsmen, WPA workers and volunteers doubled their efforts tonight to care for scores of homeless persons left destitute by a tornado that ravaged seven small towns near here yesterday.

Nine persons were known dead, the list of injured mounted upward toward 150, and property damage was estimated by a citizens' survey committee at more than $1,000,000. In Anoka, where the twister reached its greatest fury, sixty-eight homes and half a dozen other buildings were wrecked or damaged. Uprooted trees blocked roads and streets and fallen telegraph and telephone poles disrupted communication.

Twister Hits Illinois Town.

Delavan, Ill., June 19.—[Special.]—More than twenty homes were unroofed today when a tornado ripped through the northwest section of Delavan. Telephone and public service line poles were felled. A downpour followed the wind. Heavy rains accompanied by high winds struck in various other areas throughout central Illinois during the day.

LIQUOR CONTROL CHIEF JOINS WAR ON SLOT DEVICES

Plans Tavern Closing if Citizens Aid.

Chairman Arthur S. Smith of the Illinois liquor control commission said yesterday he is ready to help Cook county eradicate the slot machine syndicate. But, he said, five citizens of Cook county must be willing to do their part.

Chairman Smith and Chief Walter Williams of the Illinois state highway police are allies of Attorney General John E. Cassidy, who has announced he will drive slot machines out of Illinois as devices operated by criminals who aim to corrupt public officials. Up to Sunday night he thought he had succeeded.

Then came reports that the machines were operating again in Cook county. Some one had given the word and hundreds of slot machines came out of cellars in the county outside Chicago.

State's Attorney Courtney started a drive against slot machines in the fall of 1937. Last year he spent months chopping up handbooks. Yesterday he said he had no news concerning slot machines. Sherif O'Brien was variously reported as being away on vacation and attending picnics staged by local ward leaders.

"I would like to revoke the license of every tavern operating a slot machine," said Smith, whose board issues and revokes state liquor permits. "But the procedure must be proper and we can't act on our own initiative.

Five Citizens Must Act.

"The law states that licenses may be revoked upon application of five citizens of the county or city in which an offending tavern is located. The citizens must make affidavits stating in what manner the tavern owner disobeys the law or rules of the liquor control commission.

"If any five citizens will make the necessary affidavits they may be presented to the president of the Cook county board of commissioners. He is chairman of the liquor control commission for that territory. If after twenty days the local commission has not revoked the license then we have authority to act.

"We are not afraid of Cook county hoodlums. We had tougher gangsters than the Capone crowd downstate and we made them obey the laws. Cook county citizens need not be afraid to make affidavits against the slot machine gang."

Cassidy said he has a bill pending in the legislature to amend the present law so that he or any state's attorney could act instead of the five citizens. Meanwhile any five citizens may initiate slot machine cleanups in taverns by complaining to President Clayton F. Smith of the county board.

RETURNS AFTER FUTILE HUNT FOR ESCAPED FELON

Policeman Stephen Ploszaj of the Chicago Lawn station returned yesterday after a futile five day hunt for a parolee who leaped from a washroom window of a speeding train near Cokeville, Wyo. The prisoner, George Burka, 29 years old, was being returned from Seattle, Wash., where he had been arrested after an eight year hunt by the Chicago police. Burka was sent to Pontiac for larceny in 1927 and was paroled in May, 1930. Two months later he robbed two gas stations.

Policeman Ploszaj removed leg irons and handcuffs when the prisoner asked to go to the washroom.

"What of Tomorrow?"

No one knows. New York and London are already broadcasting. General Electric expects to open a station near Schenectady this Fall. However, T. A. M. Craven, member of the Federal Communications Commission, says: "It would be foolhardy for the industry to lead the public into the belief that television is here as a practical reality, as a stable service to the public on a national or even regional scale."

A. S. Wells, President of the Radio Manufacturers Association, says: "We would like to present television to the whole country, but because of the many problems involved it will be a long time before such a reality can be achieved."

So television's future lies on the lap of the gods. Innumerable challenges to the utmost resources and engineering skill of America's corporations which have pioneered the new industry thus far, are still to be met and mastered.

Our faith in the ability of television scientists and in the courage of the industry is great. We are confident that progress in solving transmission difficulties will be rapid and steady.

AFTER waiting through all these years of experiment . . . you can now see and hear for yourself this topmost triumph of the times. Officially launched in New York by the Radio Corporation of America on the opening day of the "World of Tomorrow" Fair, Television now makes its first Chicago public appearance in our fourth floor Radio Section. Programs will be produced and received in adjoining studios. Transmission is by co-axial cable.

Since Television's very inception, Marshall Field & Company has followed every detail of its development. With alert regard for the consequences of public display and demonstration, we have not desired to sponsor an exhibit until a system satisfactory to the electrical industry had been developed. That moment has dramatically arrived . . . Field's shows you the results!

These results merely approximate the perfection of performance that Television will ultimately achieve. But here is already an uncanny magic that will amaze you!

It is a unique tribute to American inventive genius and intensive engineering that after so relatively short a period of development you can see and hear, in the actual making, the electronic miracle of voice and image telecast simultaneously. An experience that sends astonished shivers down the observer's spine! . . . It's a question which you will study more fascinatedly: the intriguing technique of RCA Television cameras in action, or the audible-visible reincarnations flashed on the enchanted screen!

Don't fail, therefore, to enjoy personally this truly sensational experience. Words cannot convey it—and you'll forever remember your visit as that of an actual eyewitness at the birth of a new industry! For TELEVISION—whatever the technical problems it must still surmount—will go down in history as one of the greatest inventive triumphs realized during the first half of the Twentieth Century. Indeed, it may well prove to be the greatest advancement of civilization's objectives in modern times!

Our television sets are not for sale. Marshall Field & Company is keeping in close touch with television development and when practical broadcasting begins in the Chicago area, this store will be ready with the very best in television equipment and service.

GRACE ABBOTT, NOTED WELFARE WORKER, IS DEAD

Chief of U. S. Children's Bureau for 13 Years.

Grace Abbott.

Miss Grace Abbott, noted welfare worker and University of Chicago professor, died of anemia last night in the Albert Merritt Billings hospital. She was 60 years old.

Miss Abbott had been ill for several weeks. Present when she died were her sister, Dr. Edith Abbott, with whom she lived at 5544 Woodlawn avenue, and Dr. Sophonisba Breckinridge, professor of public welfare administration at the university.

Throughout her lifetime Miss Abbott was known for her welfare work among women and children. She was born in Grand Island, Neb., but spent most of her early life in Chicago, first as a graduate student at the University of Chicago, later as director of the Immigrants' Protective league.

While director of the league she lived at Hull House and was a close friend of the late Jane Addams. Her first national service for children was as director of the child labor division of the children's bureau, to which she was appointed in 1917.

Heads Children's Bureau.

Four years later, President Harding named her chief of the children's bureau and she remained in the post for the next thirteen years. In this time she became known to millions of American mothers through guidance of the character development of their adolescents by the advice contained in the bureau bulletins.

In 1931, Miss Abbott was named in a national magazine poll as one of America's twelve most notable women for her battles against infant and maternity mortality, child labor, and juvenile delinquency.

Miss Abbott resigned her post as chief of the children's bureau in 1934 and returned to the University of Chicago as professor of public welfare administration. Her sister Edith is dean of the graduate school of social service administration at the university.

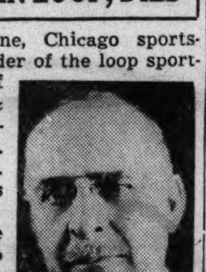
Wrote Numerous Books.

Aside from editing the Social Service Review, Miss Abbott also wrote numerous books and articles dealing with social work and immigrant problems. Among these were "The Immigrant and the Community," "The Immigrant in Massachusetts," and contributions to the Annals of the American Academy, Current History, and other magazines.

Last September, Elmer F. Andrews, administrator of the wage and hour law, named Miss Abbott as one of twenty-one members of industry committee No. 1, selected to establish minimum wages for branches of the textile industry.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Vital Ballistics

CHARLES ANTOINE, 79, LONG SPORTING GOODS DEALER IN LOOP, DIES



Charles Antoine.

Charles Antoine, Chicago sportsman and co-founder of the loop sporting goods firm of Von Lengerke & Antoine, died yesterday in St. Luke's hospital. He was 79 years old.

Mr. Antoine came to Chicago in 1891 when preparations were being made for the World's Columbian exposition. He went into the sporting goods business with his boyhood friend and fishing companion, Oswald Von Lengerke. In later years it was said that he knew the back roads and trails of northern Wisconsin better than most men knew the streets of their home town. He was one of the 54 founders of the Isaak Walton league. Mr. Antoine retired from business 11 years ago, selling his interests to Abercrombie & Fitch of New York. He lived at 5555 Everett avenue. Surviving is a daughter, Mrs. Jacques De La Chapelle.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow in the Church of St. Thomas the Apostle, 55th street and Kimbark avenue.

Former Appleton School Board Member Is Dead

ALLMAN ORDERS A TIGHT LID ON FIREWORKS USE

Mayor Calls for Safe Celebration.

Police Commissioner James P. Allman yesterday issued an order to commanding officers directing them to keep the lid on the use of fireworks in line with a proclamation issued yesterday by Mayor Kelly in which he urged citizens to make this Fourth of July the safest in the city's history.

"I earnestly request that parents and guardians coöperate to make sure that their children do not use dangerous articles which have saddened many a home on July 4," said Mayor Kelly. "I suggest that, instead, as many citizens as possible participate in community and city-wide celebrations of the holiday."

Last year Chicago was fifth among cities in injuries resulting from fireworks, with a total of 176. New York had 1,008 casualties; St. Louis, 895; Philadelphia, 418, and Los Angeles, 180.

Violators Face Prosecution.

Police were instructed to notify storekeepers that they will be prosecuted vigorously if they sell or exhibit fireworks, toy guns, toy pistols, or other devices prohibited by law.

Children found with these articles are to be taken to their parents. The parents are to be told that the law has been violated and that they are responsible for their children's conduct.

Sherif Thomas J. O'Brien was out of town and his aids said that no instructions had been issued as yet. However, it is outside of Chicago in unincorporated territory that most fireworks sales are made. Roadside stands are expected to appear in their annual mushroom manner within the next two weeks, unless the sherif takes a strong stand.

Lake County Board Acts.

The Lake county board last week took cognizance of the danger to the extent of prohibiting the sale of fireworks within 100 feet of taverns, as well as within 100 feet of gasoline filling stations.

The state law prohibits the sale of fireworks except between June 27 and July 4. It also is intended to ban the sale at any time to children under 12 years of age. A resolution expected to be adopted in the legislature next week demands that all law enforcing agencies be alert to see that the statute is observed.

Representative Charles J. Jenkins [R., Chicago] introduced a bill to provide for $100 fine for any one convicted of selling or discharging fireworks in the state capitol building. His proposal was based on the practice of many members shooting off giant crackers in the house chamber the final night of the session, June 30. The bill was killed last week.

OAK PARK YOUTH DROWNS IN LAKE; BODY IS HUNTED

County highway police from Morton Grove still were searching late last night for the body of Roy Ralston Jr., 17 years old, 444 Pleasant avenue, Oak Park, who was drowned late in the afternoon off No Man's Land. The boy, son of an Oak Park wholesale confectioner, had gone to Sandlo Beach with six young friends. Ralston was seen to sink in deep water. The six youths failed in their efforts to find him and reported to Wilmette police, who called county highway officers.

CHICAGO REGION ONCE BLANKETED BY DEEP WATER

Geological Proof Given to Science Group.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 19.—(AP)—Water high enough to bury all except the tops of the skyscrapers of the cities now bordering the upper Great Lakes existed only a few thousand years ago.

Evidence of fluctuations of hundreds of feet in the levels of Lakes Michigan, Superior, Huron, and St. Clair was given to the geological and geography sections of the American Association for the Advancement of Science here today by Prof. George M. Stanley of the University of Michigan.

The geological testimony is in beaches built during the ancient rises. Prof. Stanley said glaciers dammed up the outlets of the lakes, causing rises of hundreds of feet.

Mastodons in Chicago Area.

There was fine hunting, not so long ago, near Chicago, especially in the vicinity of Aurora, where mastodons, giant beaver, Virginia deer, elk, and trumpeter swans abounded. Clarence R. Smith of Aurora told the association how studies of the geologic layers in which bones of all these have been found showed these animals ranged the Chicago district together.

William E. Barron of the United States weather bureau at Cairo, Ill., told the association that no two floods on the lower Ohio river are alike. Earlier records have become of little value for forecasting floods there, he said, because of changing bank conditions through practical completion of the Mississippi levee system.

New Cancer Theory Given.

A new theory of the cause and growth of cancer was announced by Drs. J. E. Davis and H. E. Schmitz of Mercy hospital in Chicago. They said they have discovered the well known dye, indigo blue, and the poisonous gas, cyanogen, in internal human cancers.

They told of tests indicating that every one has a little indigo blue in his system. It exists usually in the form of indigo white.

The way the dye and the gas cause cancer, the Chicago doctors said, is by reducing the amount of oxygen used by cancer tissues. This lowered oxygen, they pointed out, along with excess use of sugar, is the most characteristic chemical symptom of cancer, and a fact that has been verified widely and often.

CCC FORCE JOINS HUNT FOR HAVANA PHYSICIAN GONE SINCE THURSDAY

Dr. Glover Hanson.

Havana, Ill., June 19.—(AP)—Mason county officers, assisted by 100 members of the Civilian Conservation corps, today began a systematic search for Dr. Glover Hanson, 30 years old, in the area between this town and Canton, Ill. Dr. Hanson, a Havana physician, has been missing since last Thursday.

State's Attorney Lyle R. Wheeler said searchers still were without clews which would give a hint of what had happened to the physician. Wheeler said: "We are studying all possible theories." These, he added, included kidnaping, murder, suicide, and accident or amnesia. Deputy Sherif E. J. Munsch said federal bureau of investigation agents had been notified.

Dr. Hanson's disappearance first was noted Thursday by his wife, Agnes, 26 years old, when she returned from a week's visit in McHenry, Ill.

Flower Gardens Sprayed.

June 19, 1939.

SPRAY guns are being used regularly in the flower gardens at the farm. The gardeners are trying to avoid trouble with insects and diseases that attack plants this time of year unless preventive sprays are used. Experience has shown that it is far easier and more satisfactory to keep pests under control by regular spraying than to destroy them after the plants are badly infested.

The gladiolus plants are sprayed each week and after every rain with paris green to control thrips, tiny insects that often injure or destroy gladioli. The spray material is made by mixing two tablespoonfuls of paris green, one cup of brown sugar, and four gallons of water. The plants are sprayed regularly from the time they start breaking through the ground.

The gladiolus bulbs were soaked in a corrosive sublimate solution before they were planted to kill thrips that had lived over winter on the bulbs. The solution was made by adding one ounce of corrosive sublimate to eight gallons of water.

Combination Spray Used.

The rose bushes are sprayed every two weeks and after each rain. A combination spray is used. It contains a stomach poison to kill eating insects, a contact poison for sucking insects, and a fungicide to control diseases. Most trouble in the rose gardens is caused by black spot, a disease that attacks the leaves of roses and causes them to turn yellow and drop.

The red spiders are one of the worst insect pests. They are tiny sucking insects that attack evergreen trees and many kinds of garden flowers, including phlox and sweet peas. There are several methods of control. The one now being used at the farm is dusting with sulphur. There are commercial sprays that give good results.

Sulphur is effective, but the gardeners say it should not be applied on hot days or to young, tender plants. There is danger of burning the foliage. The practice is to dust often with the sulphur and make light applications. This controls red spiders without injuring the plants.

Dust Inside Branches.

For best results on evergreens, the gardeners recommend applying the sulphur dust to the inside of the branches. Most of the insects are on the inner foliage and are likely to be missed if only the outside of the tree is dusted.

Another way to rid evergreens of red spiders is to knock the insects off with water under pressure. It takes 50 to 75 pounds of pressure to do a good job. The pressure method of control is used during hot weather when there is danger of sulphur burning the foliage.

The water is applied after sundown or on cloudy days. This method is not used during rainy weather, because too much water often encourages fungus diseases.

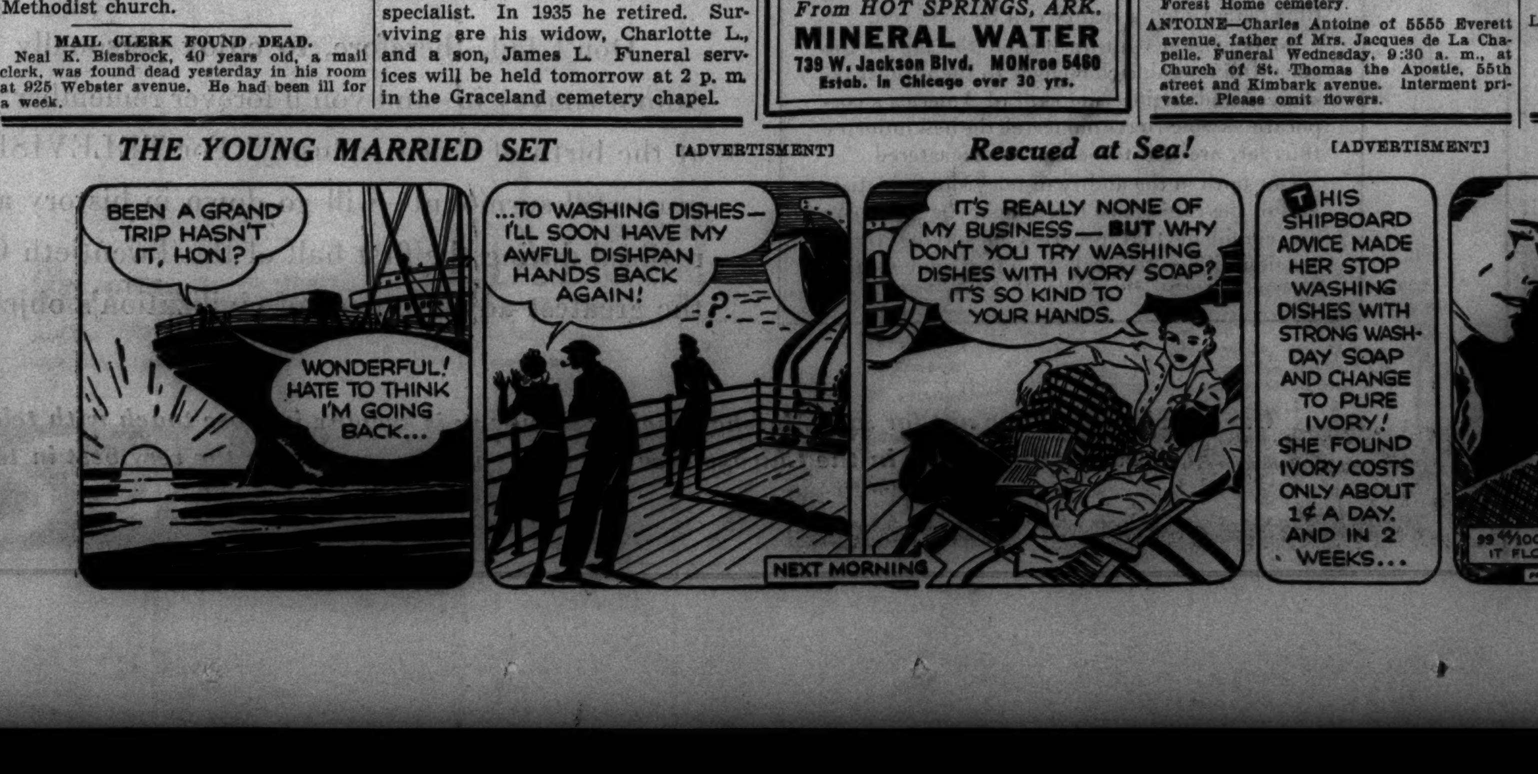
THE YOUNG MARRIED SET [ADVERTISMENT] Rescued at Sea! [ADVERTISMENT] By Urfer



Gay Hawaiian Party Planned at Lake Forest

BY JUDITH CASS.

ONLY those with a knowledge of the language and customs of the Hawaiian Islands could translate the hand-done invitations with a hula girl painted on the front that have been received in Lake Forest.

They read: "Wahini [Florentine] Barr and Wahini [Eleanor] Prosser invite you to a Hawaiian evening on Thursday, June 29, at 1547 Sheridan road, Lake Forest. Lots of welakahao and no hana hana. Okolehao will be served on the lanai at 7:15. The luau will be served from the imu at 8:30. Kanaka serenaders will entertain you until all is pau. R. S. V. P. wiki wiki. Mahalo."

Welakahao means fun, and hana hana means work, so those invited should be prepared for a gay evening. Undoubtedly every one at the luau, which is a native feast, will come away with his vocabulary of foreign words enlarged, and a desire to go to Honolulu.

To entertain at a luau in Hawaii the hosts usually cover long tables with glossy green ti leaves, and over them stretch a red fishnet. Among the most popular native dishes are poi, which is served in consistencies that vary, to be eaten with one, two, or three fingers; chicken cooked in coconut milk, and squid, which is the white meat of octopus.

A liquor resembling whisky is the okolehao that will be served on the porch [lanai]; the food will be served from a big stove, or imu; the kanaka, or native, serenaders will play until everything is over, or pau. So, if the night is a pleasant one, Wahini Barr's garden will present a festive sight. Wahini means woman.

Chuck Wagon Dinner at Walnut Gables Farm

A party that the Stevens Hammonds are giving on the picnic grounds of the Hammond estate, Walnut Gables farm, near Aurora, on Saturday night, July 1, will have a menu that is purely American and one that will appeal to every western enthusiast. It will be a chuck wagon dinner, served by Arizona Dan Kennedy and his assistant, Sun Valley Slim, who have arrived in Chicago with their motorized chuck wagon to spend a month.

All of the cooking is done over open fires. A typical dinner consists of steer tenderloin steaks, ranch fried potatoes, frijoles, which are a Mexican or southwest type of bean served with western sauces; Dutch oven biscuits, salad, and coffee which is cooked in a big, black, open top pot. The salad is not strictly a western part of the mean, but is added to suit the taste of the "dudes" who enjoy this sort of a party.

Young People to Dance at Dunham Woods Club

The young men and girls who are invited to a dinner-dance the Robert Stevens Hammonds and the Walter Straubs of Winnetka are giving tomorrow night for their daughters, Mary Hammond and Anita Straub, will dance to Hungarian gypsy music, which practically insures a successful party. It is to be given in the coach house at the Dunham Woods club. Both of the young guests of honor are just back from their first year at college.

Miss Hammond, who goes to Bennington, will leave with her parents the first of next week to spend the summer at their country place at Glen Lake in northern Michigan. Miss Straub, who is a student at Vassar, will take a trip west a bit later in the summer.

Twin Daughters Born to Bayne O'Briens

Kathleen and Sheila O'Brien made their debut in the world on Father's day, the very nicest sort of present Mrs. Bayne O'Brien could have made to her husband and to his father, Howard Vincent O'Brien. Mrs. O'Brien, the former Ellen Prindiville Bull, and the young ladies "are doing nicely, thank you."

The babies are the first grandchildren of Mrs. Richard Sutton Bull; the O'Briens already had one granddaughter, Joan, the year old daughter of the junior Frederick P. Hamiltons of Omaha.

The babies have a great-grandmother, Mrs. Charles H. Hamill [Mrs. Bull's mother], and two great-grandfathers, William V. O'Brien and Charles F. Mather-Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien and their son, Donel, will go to their summer home at Harbor Springs, Mich., on June 29. The Hamiltons and their

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

For your summer face, with sports clothes or dress clothes, we can recommend a new, different lipstick shade. It's the brilliant, electric shade of a hunter's coat.

The glorious, electric red of hunters' coats has inspired the newest lipstick shades. Hunters always refer to this color as pink; it isn't really. Pink is an innocuous color compared to the blazing, roaring red of the coats.

And the lipstick, you may be sure, is no sissy pink, either. It's a wonderful dramatic shade. You look at it once, you look at it twice, and you can't quite believe your eyes. You can't decide what kind of red it is. There's yellow in it, but not enough to recognize—just enough to make it a swell shade with summer complexions.

This new color is grand with white, with black, with pastels, and with strong colors. We've tried it against every blessed piece of colored fabric we could lay our hands on and it's a honey with everything.

It isn't a deep red or, rather, it isn't a dark red. It's light, bright, and strong—and that's an achievement in color blending.

As far as we could decide it's as good for the lily fair as it is for the tanned. There is a nail groom to match—and the color of it on your nails is not exactly the same as it looks in the bottle. It looks softer in the bottle than it really is. On the nails it's the same brilliant, "really red" red of the lipstick.

You'll find this a fine brightener for your face and your clothes this summer. It's got pep and character and its different!

And as for texture—it's perfect!

If You Must Dye, Choose Good Operator

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Remember 'way back when a dyed head of hair was the sign of a lost sister? Fast was that critter! It her cheeks were red and her lips ditto, not all the powers of missionary zeal could hope to save the hussy. Funny now to think of, yes?

But we think it was the hideousness of past hair dyeing jobs, the crudeness of the makeup work that was responsible for the status of the outcast.

Just think of the difference in hair dyeing and tinting measures employed today. You see comparatively few eye assaulting heads of hair today. Sometimes, true, you do, and because of their obvious amateurishness and utter crudeness you are entitled to be shocked at the mess.

In this field of restoring to dingy, rusty, homely hair a semblance of youthfulness, there has been a most notable advance. The young in spirit no longer need rebel as the dreary, faded locks come to pester before they are due. For modern hair tints are a skilful blend of coloring matter, reconditioning oils, and other ingredients. With the modern methods the hair need not have that old-fashioned dyed look, if normal care is taken and average intelligence applied.

Intelligence means the wise choice of your operator, and we repeat what we have always warned in this connection.

If you want a good job, and nothing less should be considered, be willing to pay for professional skill. The difference between a well turned out head of hair and a poor one, you know, lies in the degree or intensity of color imparted. It takes experience, you must believe, to know exactly what should be done for your individual type of hair. Better leave the hair "as is" than to go in for rigid economy.

Summer Travel Lingerie Smart and Inexpensive

BY RHEA SEEGER.

With all the world planning to go places, travel togs and travel lingerie and negligees become most important finds. Everything that will pack and tub easily is out now, ready for the gadabouts, vacationists and globe trotters.

One travel duet of sleek untrimmed nightgown and a tailored robe to match uses pin point dots for accent. The gowns come in two assortments—one with a clear white background liberally spattered with either navy blue or wine red dots, the other with a navy or wine red background with millions of tiny white dots. The companion pullman robe is of either navy or wine red with the white dots.

Contrast or match the gowns as you wish. Each gown and each robe is priced around $3 and they're unquestionably the finds of the week. The material is a novelty weave with a cool, smooth texture. The nightgown is a tailored beauty that fits with exceptional swank. The robes are well pocketed, cut with a fitted collar and notched lapels.

Lingerie to go on tour is made expressly for quick laundering. Extremely soft fine crinkled cotton seersucker is used for some smartly tailored nightgowns, costume slips, petticoats, and matching panties. Some have narrow frills of white embroidery and the inevitable 1939 beading trim through which is laced pink or pale blue ribbon. Others are circumspectly plain, ready for service anywhere with just the necessary dip in the soap suds.

None of this loot is expensive. You'll probably gasp at the price marks. Snowy white and pastel pink seersucker is obtainable and the career girls compelled to stay in town throughout the summer will also buy a supply of this cotton stuff to keep them cool, calm, and free from laundering chores all season.

Old fashioned batiste or long cloth [this needs an iron] comes in smooth fitted petticoats, grand costume slips with entire camisole tops of eyelet embroidery and a flounce for amazingly low prices.

WEDDINGS

Mrs. Frederick J. Conover of 725 Sheridan road announces the marriage on June 10 of her daughter, Virginia Ann, to Dr. Henry Lawrence Reichert. The former Miss Conover is a graduate of Rosary college in River Forest. Dr. Reichert, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Reichert of Dickinson, N. D., was graduated from Creighton university in Omaha, Neb., and from the New York Polyclinic.

The wedding of Miss Adah Ruth Jacobs and Charles Edwin Kelley Jr. took place on June 16 in Shatto chapel, First Congregational church. The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene M. Jacobs of Los Angeles, attended the University of Southern California, as did Mr. Kelley, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edwin Kelley Sr. of Chicago. The couple will make their home in Chicago.

Miss Marguerite Ziegler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob B. Ziegler of 3837 North Ridgeway avenue, became the bride of Wyatt B. Tingle Jr. on June 10. Mr. Tingle is the son of Mrs. N. O. Shively and Wyatt B. Tingle of Chicago.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Behind the Barrymore Scenes

Hollywood, Cal., June 19.—They've got Lionel Barrymore's dressing room on the first floor of the M.-G.-M. bungalow, where all the glamor boys are housed, and the veteran's presence in this dormitory of youthful heroes is as startling as if you were to find the admiral of the United States navy holding office on a Kansas creek or if you were to find a church tucked in between Leon and Eddie's and Jack White's Club 18 on rowdy 22d street. Perhaps Lionel was placed on the first floor of this bungalow of glamor boys to give a note of respectability and solidity to the joint, to see that the young bloods get in at a decent hour, and to serve, ex-officio, as dean of men. The thoughts pass through your mind as you rap on his door.

"What's in a name?" . . . The veteran ponders the question which has been submitted as to how great or how little an effect the name of Barrymore had on his career. The blue eyes in the tired face machete a path through the jungle of eyebrows: "A name means absolutely nothing unless you have made it important yourself. Take the heavyweight champion, Joe Louis. Suppose another fighter were to come along and his name were Jeff Louis or Charlie Louis or Tom Louis. It wouldn't mean anything, would it? The Louis that means something is Joe, because he's made the name significant. The Barrymore name was no help to me because I wasn't the Barrymore who made the name represent something. It took me twelve years to get a job in a Broadway show, twelve years of playing stock all over the country, so you see that the Barrymore name didn't carry a lot of weight.

"I don't know how the youngsters of today learn to be actors or actresses," Barrymore continued. "It's like trying to learn to play a piano in a boarding house, but when you sit down to it the piano's locked and the landlady won't give you the key. We had stock companies in which to serve an apprenticeship. They have nothing. Sometimes, when I see a youngster do a fine piece of work on the screen, I am floored by astonishment. Where do they learn? The piano in the boarding house is locked tight."

The cigaret in his hand has gone out, and while he discards it to light another you ask him to tell the youngsters of the country something about the art of acting: "I'll tell you what is least important," he says, "a performer's voice. Joe Jefferson, one of the greatest performers we ever had, said: 'A great voice has ruined more actors than liquor,' and he was right. Give me an actor who can be heard in a theater. Beyond that point the voice means nothing. I'll tell you, too, what is most important—the parts you get to play. Even Paderewski has to have music. He'd get tiresome playing scales. It's the same with actors.

"In the old days," he renewed, "a show would open in New York, a great show. The critics would write that the leading man, playing the part of Goofus, was undoubtedly a genius of the theater because of the overtones and undertones of his interpretation. Hats would be tossed into the air and they'd ring bells in his honor and the Lambs' club would serve a special buffet. Then the first road company would open in Chicago. Again we would hear that another actor playing the part of Goofus had scored a memorable hit. From Atlanta would come word that the actor in the third road company had done likewise. San Francisco simultaneously was acclaiming the actor playing the rôle, and Denver, Omaha, and Boston likewise were turning municipal handsprings in honor of their men. Apparently a flood of great actors had deluged the country, but it wasn't the actor—it was the part of Goofus.

"Nat Goodwin said it all. 'When you get a great part, just remember not to let your understudy play it.'" . . . He looked in exasperation at the third cigaret which had expired, lighted a fresh one. . . . "That's what always annoys me when I read that an actor or an actress has gone back. They never go back: They just don't get the great parts that made them famous in the first place. No doubt that a great actor will get more out of a great part than an inferior actor, just as one doctor will get more out of an X-ray plate than another doctor, but this is true: Any good actor will be a hit in a great part."

The greatest part he'd ever played, he thought, was in "The Copperhead," and the eighteen minute monologue he had to repeat, night after night, was the most exhausting thing he's ever done. . . . "Words lose their meaning when you repeat them over and over and over. Have you ever got stuck halfway through the Lord's prayer and had to start at the beginning because the pause completely blanked out the rest of it? Well, it was the same with that long monologue." . . . It was in the coast company of "The Copperhead" that Lionel discovered Clark Gable. . . . "It seems to me that any one could have seen that he was a great personality," said the veteran. "But that's the thrill of this business: One Thursday night a performer can't get pork chops for salary; next Thursday he's a star and suffering from indigestion." . . . On the way out, I looked at the list of bungalow tenants, and the veteran was right.

Good-bye To Vienna

By Olga L. Rosmanith

(Copyright: 1939: By News Syndicate Company, Inc.)

SYNOPSIS.

An American girl and her Viennese sweetheart, Franz Gruenwald, in a café in Vienna, hear the radio announcement of Hitler's entry into Austria. The girl, Marian, has been staying in Franz's home, studying voice. Franz fears for his foster father, Prof. Josef von Plasy, author of a recent anti-Nazi book. He refuses to flee the country and leave his wife, Gisela, and son, Johann, who has the mind of a child. Leopoldine, a pro-Nazi woman surgeon, in love with Franz, sends for him and asks him to send the American girl home, threatening him if she doesn't go. Her brother, Karl, is a Storm Trooper. Gisela confides in Marian that she is worried about getting her money out of the country. Marian promises to take it out for her and deliver it to Emil Wiedermann, a friend, in Riga.

INSTALMENT VIII.

IN CUSTODY.

Marian and Franz went out to dinner together to a hotel in the Neuermarket which still held the atmosphere of Imperial Vienna. It was on the expensive side for Franz's pocket, but Marian neither offered to share the bill nor showed her surprise. "It's quiet here," Franz explained, "no American swing to bombard the nerves. We can think and talk."

They talked in their little alcove in cautiously lowered voices. Marian was already won to the idea of going to live elsewhere, but Franz continued to insist on the necessity for it. "It isn't as if the old man exposed the race theory scientifically and left it at that. He held the Fuehrer himself up to ridicule and said some extremely withering things about him. The charge will almost certainly be treason."

"He should have gone. He should have gone," she said impetuously.

"Not so loud, darling. No, of course, he shouldn't. He knows how to love. He would die in torture before a hair of her head was hurt because of him." Marian looked down at the damask tablecloth in silence. Franz added, "I understand him because that is the way I love you."

The waiter came and put wiener schnitzel before them and poured out a cool gold wine. Marian was hungry, but almost unable to eat. She had hardly eaten all day, now she came to think of it. Franz noticed. He said: "You must eat. How can you work at your singing if you are not strong?"

They discussed the problem of where she should go and stay. There was a very nice pension where some of the foreign students stayed. They always spoke of it in glowing terms. But when Marian mentioned the name of the family Franz shook his head. "More complications. I know they are marvelous people, but heaven knows what the future has in store for them. They are Jews."

She said thoughtfully: "Maybe it would be better in every way if I went to some nice little inexpensive hotel."

"It would for the time being. There's the Tegethoff just off the Seilerstaette. We'll go round when we're through and has a look."

The dining room was filling up now. A German officer entered and was instantly surrounded by four eager waiters. An airman in dazzling uniform with medal ribbons and silver wings. Now another officer with hard bitten face severely gashed with the sword scars of many duels. He stared at the head waiter haughtily through a monocle, expressing his dislike of being kept waiting. The regular patrons were being shamelessly neglected.

Franz's young face was stern. Without waiting for coffee he rose to his lean height. "Let's go. I've had enough of this."

They walked through a side street into the Kaerntnerstrasse, across it, and through another side street to the Seilerstaette beyond. The foyer of the Tegethoff was filled with officers in uniform. Not a room to be had.

They stood on the pavement irresolute. Marian said: "I know. There's Frau Radovic. Why didn't I think of her before? She asked me if I knew an American student who wanted a room with her only a few weeks ago."

Frau Radovic lived in an apartment on the Franz Joseph Kai, overlooking the tree lined banks of the Danube canal. She was an Austrian aristocrat in reduced circumstances. She had lived in many countries and spoke many languages. Now she taught them for a living, and taught them well, as Marian's German fluency attested. The little old lady was a martinet.

She had a room for Marian. The place had a decayed elegance that was rather oppressive, but it was clean and comfortable.

Franz arranged everything with polite authority as if they were already married. Marian stood by grateful for his competence. She was exhausted with her emotions and her independence was at a low ebb. She felt almost without thinking it: I don't want to be always managing my own affairs—sometime I shall want to lean on some one strong. On Franz who loves me.

"You'll want to come soon?" inquired Frau Radovic. "Tomorrow when you come in for your German lesson?"

"Sooner," said Franz. "We're going back now to get her things. The fraulein had better come tonight."

Frau Radovic asked no questions. She knew the answers to them.

"That is good. That is possible. My maid is out this eventag, but the room needs little but fresh linen. I myself will prepare the place."

In twenty minutes, then, they were back in the street with Marian's immediate future neatly arranged for. Now she realized what it meant for her. She slipped her arm through his. "O, Franz, all this year we have wasted and now that we know we're in love, we're going to be separated."

"Not really, dear. Hardly more than we were already. We'll see each other every day—I promise you."

They cut through the narrow old streets of the city again to reach the girdling Boulevard of the Ring and cross it, but that was not possible. Excitement was at its height. Hitler's army was pouring into the city. Truck after truck thundered over the old cobbled paving, carrying the soldiers, steel helmeted, packed upright like sardines. They passed at high speed, waving and shouting.

Franz and Marian walked behind the backs of the crowd till they passed the Babenberger strasse by the Museum, where the troops were coming in. Then it was possible to cross the Ring and walk down to the Parliament and home. Franz looked anxiously up at the lamplit windows. "I have a premonition," he said unhappily. "Something has gone wrong."

"Not so soon," comforted Marian. "They've had no time to think about such things yet."

But this time they went up in the whining elevator and found that Franz's premonition, prompted by anxious fear, had proved correct. Gisela was not weeping. She was not the woman for that, but in her eyes was something too deep, too terrible, for tears. "They've taken him away," she said stonily.

"Who have, darling?"

"Two Storm Troopers. And his study has been ransacked and plundered by two more."

They went into the professor's tiny study sandwiched between the bedrooms and the living rooms. It looked as if a hurricane had blown through it. The drawers of the bureau had been emptied, their contents scattered on the floor.

Franz took his cue from Gisela's courageous deadly composure.

"Did they make any charge against him?"

"No. They said he must come away to be questioned."

"Did they say where they were going?"

"No. They said I would hear news in their own good time."

"Did—did they handle him roughly?"

"No. He made no resistance. He was his usual gentle self. He knew perfectly well that resistance would do none of us any good."

Marian saw that Gisela's composure was not a matter of superb control. She had been struck so hard and so severely that she was not yet capable of expressing or exhibiting anything she felt.

Franz put his arm round her rigid shoulders. "We mustn't expect the worst because this has happened. He has a disarming personality which does not rouse antagonism. In a day or two he will come back."

"I hope so," said Gisela hopelessly. "And I hope they don't do anything to Johann. He went out after them, shouting and abusing them. I could do nothing to prevent him. I explained to one of the men who searched the study. He was curt, but not too disagreeable. I think he understood."

On the House

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

If you need new screen doors you can save a great deal of labor and trouble, and even money, with the new types which have one frame, but interchangeable panels: Glass and screen.

Flush doors are increasing in vogue and cost little more than paneled doors. They are lighter in weight and while it is true that they are designed for modern type homes primarily, they may be used in practically any traditional style home, especially in kitchens and baths.

Stainless steel is serving many purposes these days. It has been used as wainscoting for bath rooms and kitchens, for kitchen work counters and sinks, and shower stall linings. Now it appears as surfacing for walls. This thin, strong, steel is available in rolls which your builder cuts to fit. It also comes in tile form.

Selections to Brighten Page of Son's Album

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"My dear Mrs. Bevans," begins a letter, "my eldest son is graduating from grammar school. Tomorrow he is getting his autograph album. He asked me [and his dad, too] what we are going to write in it.

"Really, Mrs. Bevans, I couldn't tell him a thing. I am writing to you because I have been reading your column for many years and it has guided me often. I wonder if you could help me in a situation of this kind."

Because, as I said yesterday, this is so much a custom, I decided I would devote a column to helping parents who want to write something lasting and beautiful for their sons and daughters at graduation. The following have been carefully selected, almost all from our finest writers:

Every day is a fresh beginning,
Every morn is a world made new.

If one life shines,
The life next to it
Will catch the light.

Let us be content to work,
To do the thing we can,
And not presume
To fret because it's little.

And each good thought or action moves
The dark world nearer to the sun.
—Whittier.

This above all—to thine own self be true;
And it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man. —Shakespeare.

When Duty whispers low, "Thou must,"
The Youth replies, "I can."
—Emerson.

There's nothing so kingly as kindness,
There's nothing so royal as truth;
He who is honest is noble
Whatever his fortune or birth.

Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul,
As the swift seasons roll!
Leave thy low vaulted past!
Let each new temple, nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast,
Till thou at last art free,
Leaving thine outgrown shell
By life's unresting sea.
—Wordsworth.

To be rich in admiration and free from envy; to rejoice greatly in the good of others; to love with such generosity of heart that your love is still a dear possession in absence or unkindness—these are the gifts of fortune which money cannot buy and without which money can buy nothing. He who has such a treasury of riches, being happy and valiant himself, in his own nature, will enjoy the universe as if it were his own estate, and help the man to whom he lends a hand to enjoy it with him.

From Lay Morals, by Robert Louis Stevenson.

If you would like these selections in leaflet form for present or future reference, send a large, stamped, addressed envelope for them. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Anne Lindbergh Gets Second Honorary Degree in Two Days

Rochester, N. Y., June 19.—(AP)—Anne Morrow Lindbergh received an honorary doctor of letters degree from the University of Rochester today. President Alan Valentine paid tribute to her for conquering "the land, the sea, and air, but your greatest victory has been a victory of the spirit."

President Valentine conferred the degree less than twenty-four hours after the wife of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh received a similar honor from Amherst college—alma mater of her father, the late Dwight Morrow, United States ambassador to Mexico.

President Valentine told the wife of the famous aviator, herself noted as an aerial navigator, poet, and author:

"You have conquered the land, the sea, the air, but your greatest victory has been a victory of the spirit. You have known and given us the heights, but it is your knowledge and mastery of the depths that has won our love.

"Our minds do honor to the skill of your pen, but our hearts pay tribute to your conquest, not of air or machines or even of letters, but of human frailty by indomitable courage."

Good Morning!

The Sonotone theater has, at last, wrested "The Oppenheim Family" from the censors, and sizable audiences greeted it yesterday.

This is an anti-Nazi film, based on Leon Feuchtwanger's novel, "The Oppermanns." Title was changed, I understand, because of objections raised by a Dutch family of the latter name.

The tale told is a bitter and sincerely acted one, dealing with the effect on a wealthy and cultured Jewish family of the recent oppression of non-Aryan residents of Germany by the Nazis. For no apparent reason the Oppenheims draw down upon their heads the wrath of the ruling class. And now for the Openheims there are concentration camp, suicide—exile . . .

The action unfolds believably and very simply, under able direction. Dialog is in Russian, titles are English.

Chauncey McCormicks Return from East.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick arrived at home yesterday from a brief visit in the east where they went for an announcement party on Saturday. The engagement of their middle son, Brooks, to Miss Hope Baldwin of Bedford Hills, N. Y., was announced.

Brooks, and Roger, the youngest son, will come home later in the week, and Deering, who is working in New York, will be here for a week just before the Fourth of July. This will bring the family together on July 6, when the McCormicks will celebrate their silver wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. McCormick are not planning a large celebration, however, just a quiet day with their family and relatives at their farm in Naperville. The McCormicks had an exciting enough time right after their marriage to make them appreciate home and quiet, probably, for it was while they were honeymooning abroad that the world war started. Their marriage had taken place in Paris and they were motoring in Germany when hostilities broke out. After many thrilling experiences they managed to get aboard a small boat sailing from Liverpool for Canada on Aug. 1.

Miss Baldwin and Brooks McCormick will not be married for at least a year for he is going to finish his course at Yale, where he will be a senior next year.

Several Visitors from California.

A sudden influx of visitors from California brings Mrs. John Hooker to spend two weeks with her father, Robert J. Dunham, and Mrs. Dunham. Dr. Cabot Brown and his son Stephen will arrive by airplane on Sunday from San Francisco.

Mrs. Hooker, the former Josephine Dunham Clow, arrives tomorrow. She will spend this week-end with the junior Robert J. Dunhams, in Lake Forest, and then will go to Barrington for a night or two with the Edgerton A. Throckmortons, her sister and brother-in-law. Among the parties planned for Mrs. Hooker is a dinner Mrs. Otis Hubbard will give on Friday night.

Dr. Brown and Stephen will visit Mrs. Brown's sisters, Mrs. Graham Aldis and Mrs. Luther S. Hammond Jr., in Lake Forest. Another son, James Keeley Brown, will come through Chicago next fall when he enters the Middlesex school at the age of 12. He recently was awarded a scholarship to the school.

When the Snelling Robinsons go east in July to spend the summer at their home in Northport, Me., they will stop in New York to meet young Snelling when he arrives from England.

Snelling, who is a student at the Milton academy, was chosen exchange student to the Westminster school for the spring term, which started May 1. Next year will be his last at Milton.

Mrs. John T. Metcalf Will See Son Sail.

Mrs. John T. Metcalf of Winnetka has gone to New York to say au revoir to her son, Jack, who sails in a freighter on Thursday for South America. Young Mr. Metcalf has completed his sophomore year at Williams. His younger sister, Eleanor, is leaving for camp on the 29th. After camp she and her father will join Mrs. Metcalf at his mother's, Mrs. Harold Metcalf, home in Wickford, R. I. The Metcalf home in Winnetka has been rented until after Labor day.

Sailing for Europe in the Pilsudski last midnight were Count and Countess Antoni Potocki [Gloria Griffiths], who will spend two months in his native Poland. Countess Potocki will meet her husband's family. The Potockis plan to hunt bears during part of their vacation.

Herman Andrew Dudley went to Norfolk, Va., last week to be an usher on Saturday at the wedding of his brother, Bernard Francis Dudley of Springfield, Vt., and Miss Anne Elizabeth Butler, daughter of the Theodore Butlers of Norfolk.

Mrs. Joseph Magnus is opening her home at 919 Hill road, Winnetka, from 10 until 5 o'clock today for a sale of the Vocational Society for Shut-ins. Among the hand work to be shown will be a number of fancy aprons, some of which will be modeled by Mrs. Edwin E. Tullis, Mrs. John Dern, Mrs. James Garard, and Mrs. John N. Ott.

Mrs. Magnus is giving a luncheon for some of the women who will assist with the selling. Mrs. Henry F. Tenney is giving a luncheon for some of the officers and directors of the society.

Designed for Mature Figures

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

This frock is attractive on slim figures, true, but it was designed primarily for the mature silhouette, since its lines minimize overweight and create a long, slim effect. The neckline is V, and may be left plain or be given a rever collar daintily edged in lace. The simple sleeves are not puffed. There is a sort of yoke effect on the shoulders which creates an illusion of slenderness. The soft shirring in the bodice is just enough for gracefulness. The waistline is pointed up into the bodice, and the skirt is slightly flared. A belt, if you wish one, should extend only from the panel seams around to the back, since you wouldn't wish to break the long, slim line of the skirt.

Soft materials are the best mediums for this model, and sheers are ace possibilities. Plain shades and figures share popularity, and dark colors are just as important as light ones for summer.

Style No. 2918 is designed for size 16 and for 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

A hand played in a recent contest between Scotland and northern Ireland brings up an interesting point and, at the same time, shows just how fallible bridge commentators can be.

At one table the North-South team reached a six spade contract via the following bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	4 spades	Pass
5 clubs	Pass	5 hearts	Pass
6 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

Obviously, these North-South players [representing Ireland] play a system far different from our own, and the final contract was something less than perfect. In the other room Scotland did much better, as follows:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	4 no trump	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	6 hearts	Pass
7 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

Here North and South seem to have been Culbertson disciples. They not only reached the correct grand slam contract but, what is more, selected the proper trump suit. As I have written on a great many occasions, when a partnership has one suit distributed 5-4 between the two hands [in this case spades], and another suit distributed 4-4 [hearts], it is the latter suit that should be made trump. The beginner has great trouble in digesting this advice and, even more, in seeing the reason for it. Yet it is simple: When the 4-4 suit is trumps the fifth card in the five card suit provides a discard for a loser in the other hand, and then a ruff can be obtained for the extra trick.

Strangely enough, however, in writing up this hand in an English newspaper a distinguished bridge commentator observed that, with hearts as trump, South could discard one of dummy's clubs on the fifth spade and later ruff the six of clubs in dummy. I am far too fallible myself to bear down on another bridge writer, but it just goes to show that snap analyses are dangerous things. South most certainly cannot discard a club from dummy on his own fifth spade and then ruff a club, because the trumps do not break and all of West's trumps must be drawn before the spade suit can be run. As it happens, however, this does not blight the grand slam contract at hearts, because, after drawing two rounds of trumps and seeing the break, South merely cashes two rounds of diamonds and ruffs a third round in his own hand, thereby getting the extra trick. Later he discards his own six of clubs on dummy's long trump and finally runs the spade suit.

Undiplomatic to Say Girl Lacks Appeal

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

One who signs herself "Toots" reports that a so-called boy friend informed her on a recent evening out with him that she had no appeal whatever for a man. "Toots" pronounces that verdict a terrific blow to a girl.

"I'm fair looking, fun, a good dancer, good at athletic sports, wear good clothes and am not so different from girls whom my beau said had plenty of appeal," Toots explains.

We wouldn't attach much weight to the beau's remark, Toots. That unknown quantity is such an indefinable thing, its appeal to this man and that equally indecipherable what is appeal to one man may be bitter medicine to another.

Just listen to a discussion of some girls heralded as being overladen with the X quality. Hear the men say that she hasn't any more of it than a head of cabbage.

Your escort, Toots merely, lacks the instincts of a diplomat for, as you say, no daughter of Eve likes to be told that she is without the asset. Nor is she without it—to some man.

However, Toots, we wouldn't pursue the subject with a view to acquiring the style and manner of one who seems to you equipped with the appeal under discussion. If it is something you are born with, you have it. But for your purposes you can put up an excellent substitute, which by some other chap will be taken for the original thing, by being a darned good companion and as charmingly feminine as you can make yourself.

In fact, if any recipe for the formula were available, we think being the feminine type would get you further along the way than any other practiced quality. That means in manner more than in dress, even. We have noticed this in screen professionals with a reputation for that appeal. They are feminine all the way through, and clever enough not to let a man think they can play a better game of tennis than he, hold a better job, earn a bigger salary, etc.

If anything in the fruit and vegetable kingdom is cooler than a cucumber, it must be a melon. A melon's cool, refreshing qualities are more apparent to us, for melon is eaten in large pieces, while nobody would think of serving large chunks of raw cucumber solo as cocktail, salad, or dessert.

Honeydew or cantaloupe, served alone, is best accented by a tart or sharp flavor. Lemon or lime juice, preserved ginger, and lemon French dressing are favorite accompaniments. Watermelon doesn't require a flavor accent. Any of the melons may be combined with any other fruit you choose, for cocktail, salad, or dessert.

MELON CUP COCKTAIL.

A cantaloupe will serve two persons, unless it is very small, in which case allow one per person. Cut cantaloupe through the center, if two are to be served. Cut off the top, if the melon is to make only one portion. Scoop out seeds and remove pulp. Slice pulp and combine with sliced banana and grapefruit segments. Refill shells and garnish each serving with a maraschino or seeded sweet cherry. Have all fruit very cold.

Sliced avocado dipped in lemon juice may be added to this combination for more color.

HONEYDEW, CHERRY, AND PINEAPPLE SALAD.

Place a ring of canned pineapple on fresh, crisp watercress, and fill center with balls of honeydew melon and halved, pitted sweet cherries. Serve with lemon French dressing.

Melon Ambrosia.

[Serves six.]
1 cup honeydew or cantaloupe balls
1 cup watermelon balls
1 cup sliced banana
¼ cup sugar
1 cup shredded coconut

Combine ingredients and serve cold in sherbet cups.

Melon-Berry Salad.

[Serves six.]
1 package lemon flavored gelatin
2 cups pineapple juice
1 cup honeydew or cantaloupe balls, cubes, or slices
1 cup whole fresh raspberries

Heat a cup of the pineapple juice and dissolve gelatin in it. Add remaining cup of cold juice, chill until slightly thick, and fold in fruit. Chill until firm in ring mold or individual molds. Serve with mayonnaise into which cream cheese has been beaten.

HONEYDEW WITH GINGER.
[Dessert.]

The melon may be cut into balls, slices, or cubes for this simple dessert. Put the chilled melon into sherbet glasses and pour a teaspoon of ginger sirup over each serving. Garnish with finely chopped preserved ginger. Sections cut from the whole melon may be basted with ginger sirup and sprinkled with finely chopped ginger, too.

FIG AND MELON COCKTAIL.

Combine diced honeydew or cantaloupe with diced fresh or drained canned figs, and pour a little maraschino or grenadine sirup over the combination. Garnish each serving with a sprig of mint.

MELON AND SHERBET DESSERT.

Cut small melons in halves and remove pulp. Slice or cut into balls and combine, just before serving, with spoonfuls of fruit sherbet, placing melon and sherbet alternately in the chilled melon shells. Grape, lime, or raspberry sherbet may be used for color contrast. Lemon, orange, or pineapple sherbets blend well in flavor. Sections cut from watermelon may be used for the basis of this dessert, if the melon balls and sherbet are carefully piled so that they do not fall out onto the dessert plate.

Transfer Pattern Assists in Making Felt Wall Hanging

BY NANCY CABOT.

Felt wall hangings are gaining wide popularity because of their color and charm. The simple figures in Noah's ark are easy to cut out and may be appliqued or pasted upon a felt background. These same figures may be used for a child's bedspread and appliqued of multicolored ginghams. If the figures are used for a picture, the finished design should measure about 15 by 18 inches before being mounted in a frame.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the felt Noah's ark cutouts, No. X-592, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

120 Mothers, Babies to Open Algonquin Camp Season Today

The first contingent of Algonquin campers, a party of 120 mothers and babies, will leave at 2:25 p. m. today from the North Western station. Another band of the same number will follow tomorrow. The summer camp for the city's poor, operated by United Charities, Inc., with the help of TRIBUNE readers, is on the Fox river.

A contribution for Camp Algonquin of $151.57 was sent to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Charities, Inc., yesterday by the Abbie E. Tyrrell fund, Chicago Community trust. An anonymous donation of $6 also was received. Other contributions, previously acknowledged, amount to $58.10, making a total of $215.67.

A vacation of two weeks for a mother and two children can be provided at Camp Algonquin at a cost of $25. A child alone can be given the camp's benefits for $9.10. THE TRIBUNE will acknowledge all gifts for Camp Algonquin.

FIGHT TO SAVE SUPERHIGHWAY BILLS TODAY

Chicago Acts to Strike Out State Funds.

BY HAL FOUST.

The fate of Chicago's superhighway legislation may be determined at a meeting of the roads and bridges committee of the house of representatives this afternoon in Springfield. Any parliamentary delay may be fatal since this session of the legislature ends on July 1.

Amendments are to be presented to the committee to remove objections that threaten to kill the bills. In their present form, the bills would authorize Chicago and Cook county each to issue $30,000,000 in anticipatory notes to be retired from their respective allotments of gasoline tax revenue during the next twenty years. The state is authorized to issue $60,000,000 worth of similar notes, half to be spent on Chicago's superhighway plan and half to be spent on secondary roads downstate.

Would Eliminate State Funds.

A proposed amendment would eliminate state funds from the legislation to meet the objections of Republicans and downstate interests.

Directors of the Chicago Motor club, at a luncheon meeting in the Palmer House yesterday, indorsed such an amendment and urged passage of the enabling legislation for the city and county bond issues. Telegrams were sent members of the house committee.

"The superhighway system is needed to save lives and to relieve congestion," said Charles M. Hayes, president of the club. "While the system might be built with current revenues, the issuance of the $60,000,000 in notes is needed so that these improvements can be completed promptly."

Plan West Side Artery Today.

In the meantime, another meeting important to Chicago's trafic will be held at 10:30 o'clock this morning in the city hall. A subcommittee on trafic, headed by Ald. Robert C. Quirk [48th], will preside at a public hearing on west side one-way street proposals.

Two plans have been pending in the council for the last four years. One would extend the present Warren-Washington one-way system eastward from Union park to the loop by way of Washington boulevard and Randolph street and westward from Garfield park in Washington boulevard and West End avenue. The other would use Jackson boulevard and Monroe street as a one-way trafic system between Grant park and the city limits.

WEDDING PARTY BARMAN JAILED AS TIPSY DRIVER

A shower of sparks shot from a rear wheel of Rocco Ermilio's car early Sunday as policemen pursued him in Augusta boulevard near Cicero avenue. When stopped at Homan avenue police found that the tire and rim had fallen off and Ermilio was driving on the spokes.

Ermilio, 30 years old, 1741 Superior street, a WPA worker, said he was hurrying to attend the wedding of a friend. In the rear of the car was a quarter keg of beer. Ermilio said he was going to be the bartender.

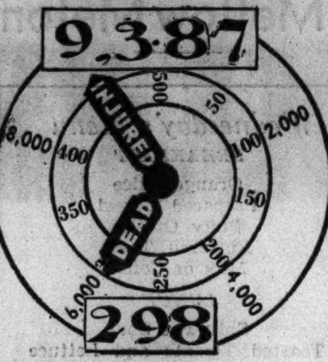
Yesterday, after hearing this account, Judge Thomas Green in the Safety court sentenced Ermilio to thirty days in the county jail for drunken driving. His driver's license was revoked for a year.

Ray Spice, 30, of 2723 Monticello avenue was sentenced to ten days in jai lon the same charge. On Saturday his car rammed another at Humboldt boulevard and Cortland street, injuring two people. Judge Green also ordered that Spice, who has no left arm, be examined in the safety clinic to determine whether he is capable of driving.

JOBLESS, WIDOW KILLS SELF.

Mrs. Irene Robertson, 35 years old, 715 Grace street, a widow, committed suicide yesterday by inhaling gas in her room. She left a note to her parents in which she said she was tired of an unsuccessful search for work.

THE MASSACRE
Chicago's 1939 Trafic Toll



More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

BOY OF 6 KILLED BY A TRUCK ON WAY TO SCHOOL

School safety guards waved back the boys who were with Joseph Kimball yesterday. But police say that Joseph, 6 years old, evidently failed to see the warning and was struck by a truck at Western avenue and Wilcox street. The boy, who lived at 2155 Monroe street, suffered injuries from which he died in the Washington Boulevard hospital. The truck was driven by Mitchell Trussel of Kokomo, Ind.

Harry Hempstaedt, 48 years old, 2108 Dayton street, died yesterday in County hospital of injuries suffered Friday when he was struck by an automobile in front of his home. The driver did not stop.

Stephen Sluka, 55 years old, 10214 Aberdeen street, died in the Little Company of Mary hospital of injuries suffered Sunday in an automobile collision at 87th street and Cicero avenue, Oak Lawn. The driver of the other car was Harry Martin, 9653 South 53d avenue, Oak Lawn.

An inquest into the death of William O. Lambert, 60, of Freeport, Stephenson county, was continued yesterday until June 29. Lambert died early in the day in the Berwyn hospital a few hours after he was struck by a taxi at 52d avenue and 29th place in Cicero. The driver was Frank Kaderka, 3422 59th court, Cicero.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 381 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 298 were killed in Chicago, where 9,387 were injured in the same period.

ENDS LIFE BY GAS ON EVE OF TRIAL AS TIPSY DRIVER

Oscar Jarvis, an unemployed painter, who was to have faced trial today on a charge of drunken driving, killed himself with carbon monoxide fumes yesterday. He was found dead in his car in a wooded tract off U. S. highway 41, southwest of North Chicago. He was 46 years old, and lived at 571 McAlister avenue, Waukegan.

Jarvis wrote a note in Finnish to his wife, Anna, stating: "I am going to kill myself. Don't get too mad, and don't hate me." Mrs. Jarvis told police he had been drinking lately and had threatened to kill himself on those occasions.

He was scheduled to appear before Justice of the Peace Michael Haney in Waukegan today. Friends said he was worried because he had been arrested and fined once before on a drunken driving charge. The inquest verdict was suicide while despondent.

ASKS MOTORISTS TO RESIST AUTO TAX DIVERSION

Taylor G. Soper, executive secretary of the Illinois Road Builders' association, called upon all Illinois motorists last night to help stop the diversion of gasoline tax funds from the purpose for which they were intended—new road construction. He spoke at a dinner of the association in the Drake hotel.

Soper said the state's gasoline tax revenue this year is estimated at $40,000,000. Unless diversion is halted, he warned, less than $9,000,000 of it will be used for new highway building next year.

Constitutional amendment is the one certain way to stop the diversion, Mr. Soper said. Seven states now have such amendments.

BUSINESS GROUPS OPPOSE BILL TO KEEP PULASKI RD.

Measure Slipped Through State Senate.

Representatives of the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday entered the legislative battle over a bill they said would block the plans of businessmen to restore the name of Crawford avenue to the street now designated as Pulaski road.

Robert H. Nau of the A. of C. industrial department said the bill ought to be killed because it would undo the efforts carried on by businessmen since passage of a law to aid them in 1937. James L. Donnelley, executive vice president of the manufacturers' association, said the measure fosters destruction of the paid in interest businessmen have in the name of Crawford avenue, established in 1863.

None Admits Being Sponsor.

Inquiry among Polish leaders last night failed to disclose any who would admit sponsoring the bill which slipped through the state senate without its real purpose becoming known. Foremost among those who brought about the change to Pulaski road was Miss A. Emily Napieralski, a county civil service commissioner and former president of the Polish Women's Alliance of America.

"I am not a sponsor of the bill and I don't know whether I approve of it or not," she said.

She said she had no opinion as to whether the measure provides for rule by a minority. The present law states that the city council shall change a street name upon a petition signed by 60 per cent of property owners on that street. The bill introduced by Senator Peter P. Kielminski gives the council the right to refuse such a request, which in this case has been prepared by the Crawford Avenue association.

Other Comments on Bill.

Other comments follow:

Ald. Alexander J. Sobota [26th], a director of the Polish National alliance: "Absentee property owners may give their consent for a change without knowing conditions in a ward like the alderman. The council should have discretionary power."

Ald. Vincent S. Zwiefka [33d]: "Too much power has been taken away from the city council, and should be given back by the legislature."

John J. Olejniczak, civic leader in the Polish-American community: "I want the bill passed, to keep the name of Pulaski road, but I haven't done anything to help its passage."

Circuit Judge John Prystalski: "I supported the change to Pulaski road but I know nothing of the merits of the bill."

Circuit Judge Walter J. La Buy: "It's news to me and I can't venture an opinion."

PLAN REMOVAL OF MARKET ST. ELEVATED STUB

New Transit Program to Effect Change.

Demolition of the elevated lines' Market street stub is contemplated under the city's plans for unified traction operation, city engineers disclosed yesterday. The branch, three blocks long, is an offshoot of the Lake street west side elevated line. It runs from Lake street south to Madison street.

Engineers said that future subways for which plans now are being drawn will eliminate the necessity for the stub, as well as the entire loop elevated structure. It now is used as a terminal for Lake street elevated cars.

Cars come to and go from the branch during morning and evening rush hours. They are stored there during the day. At present three morning trains from the west side turn into the stub without going around the loop. Four other morning trains circle the loop and then are backed into the stub to await the evening rush.

Riders Save Time.

Eight express trains leave directly from the Market street stub in the evening rush hour. Riders working in or near the west side of the loop save the time of riding around the loop by walking to Market street.

The stub was built as a terminal for the west side line in 1893, a year before the loop elevated structure was built. The Lake street line, including the Market street branch, has a fifty year franchise from the city which expires May 15, 1943. This franchise probably will be superseded by provisions of the unified traction franchise which now is being drawn.

Under future subway plans the Lake street elevated would connect with a subway tunnel west of the loop. The tube would connect at Milwaukee avenue and Lake street with the Dearborn street tube that is being built. Under the second phase of the plan the metropolitan elevated trains running to the west side from the south end of the loop would connect with the Dearborn tunnel under Congress and Dearborn streets.

Wells Street Tube Proposed.

The third subway section would be a Wells street tube through the loop, carrying north and south side elevated trains. The tunnel would connect with the State street tube now being constructed.

Under this system Lake street trains from the west side would go underground before reaching Market street. They would proceed underground to Dearborn street, south in Dearborn street to Congress street, and would make the westbound trip on metropolitan elevated lines. Metropolitan trains entering the loop would turn north in the Dearborn street tunnel and would go west from the loop on the Lake street elevated.

The city's traction proposal, made in November, 1937, called for the use of the Lake street elevated structure as a support for a Lake street elevated highway. Under this program the Market street stub would have been the supporting structure for a motorway ramp leading down from the elevated road.

HOUSING LOTTERY BACKERS PREDICT SENATE PASSAGE

Springfield, Ill., June 19.—[Special.]—Sponsors of bills to legalize lotteries for financing slum clearance housing projects arrived here today a day before the reconvening of the senate to lobby for the unique plan. They predicted the senate will concur this week or next in house passage of the bills.

Representative Carmen Vacco [D., Chicago], a real estate dealer, introduced the scheme as a way to solve the housing problems in his own west side district. He contends it could be used with success in other blighted areas of the city. Attorney Roland F. Libonati drafted the legislation.

Inquiries disclosed that many Chicago Democrats in the senate will support the bills, on the ground that gambling is always present and the profits might as well be turned to some worthwhile purpose. Since the bill affects only Chicago, not much downstate opposition has developed.

RAILWAY MAN KILLS HIMSELF.

Helgy Johnson, 51 years old, 4708 Kinzie street, an electrician for the North Western railway, was found shot to death yesterday in his home. Police said he had committed suicide.

DEATH TO QUIET SONG OF CICADA IN 2 OR 3 WEEKS

The wooded portions of suburban Chicagoland will seem silent in another two or three weeks. By that time nearly all of the millions of periodic cicadae, or seventeen year locusts, will have mated and died.

The cicadas began emerging from the ground about three weeks ago. Their descendants soon will be burrowing into the earth to reappear in 1956. Although the number of cicadas is so large that many persons believe they do great damage to trees and shrubs, the damage actually done is negligible and is confined to nursery stoc and young orchards, according to W. J. Gerhard, curator of insects at Field museum.

The cicada does not, as many people think, eat leaves. Most of the leaves eaten are devoured by the canker worm and other caterpillars, Gerhard said. The cicada lays eggs in terminal twigs of trees and bushes, and some leaves may wither and die because of this. Large trees are undamaged and only young trees suffer.

REVOLTA CARDS 70 FOR LEAD IN STATE PRO GOLF

Metz in Close Pursuit with 71.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., June 19.—John Frank Revolta, the Evanston professional of the Harpo Marx coiffure, has made golf scrambling a fine and profitable art, but today in the first eighteen holes of the seventeenth annual Illinois professional tournament he gave a demonstration of trouble shooting such as he hasn't shown in years.

His performance sent him off the eighteenth green of the Champaign Country club with a 70, two strokes under par and one stroke in front of a field of fifty pros shooting not only for their own state title but also for one of the seven berths allotted to Illinois in the national professional battle which opens July 9 in Flushing, N. Y.

Grabs Lead with Birdie.

Revolta, exempt from sectional qualification in the pros' own big show because he is a former champion and a Ryder cup player, was a tardy arrival today, landing in midafternoon from his joint triumph with Henry Picard in the Inverness four ball matches yesterday in Toledo, O. John dropped a thirty foot putt on the first extra hole there to break up a triple tie.

Today he holed a ten footer at the eighteenth to give him the birdie which sends him into tomorrow's final eighteen one shot in front of Handsome Dick Metz of the Mill Road farm course. Metz, who was runner-up last year, only a few minutes before had dropped an eight foot chance for the bird that gave him a 71.

The cards for Revolta and Metz:

Three Tied at 73.

Revolta and Metz were the only two in the field to break par on an afternoon during which one shower after another drenched the Champaign course. In spite of this, three others slid only a stroke over par with 73s. They included Eddie Williams, Bryn Mawr veteran; Ernie [Dutch] Harrison of Oak Park, quite a fellow in this year's money collecting, and Herb Johnson, Butterfield's rising young pro. Of these, Williams made the best finish, knocking a stroke off of the back nine par for a 35. First round scores follow:

Down at the Garden Gate.

I'm dreaming of the old days, dear, the days of long ago,
When you were then the village belle and I was just your beau.
Forever basking in your smiles and envious of your glance
For all the gallant, stalwart swains down at the village dance.
But, O, that we could parry time and make the years rotate
For the rapturous bliss of a loving kiss
Down at the garden gate.

And, O, to hold your hand, my dear, and linger long and late
While listening to the whippoorwill a-calling to his mate.
And then to fold you in my arms to whisper words of fate
As in the happy yesteryear
Down at the garden gate.

It was good to live in those days, dear,
and dream of things to be,
Of all the future happiness in store for you and me.
For we've been blessed in many ways,
our life's been one of joy,
Our pledge of love and loyalty, no power can e'er destroy.
But all the riches in the world can never compensate
For those sweet hours amid love's bowers
Down at the garden gate.

Football Giants Sign Neilsen, Arizona Back

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—Walt Neilsen, 220 pound full back from the University of Arizona, has been signed by the New York football Giants, John V. Mara, president, announced today. Neilsen comes from Redondo Beach, Cal., and was the first man the Giants signed from their draft list.

SOX OPEN YANKEE SERIES WITHOUT SOUTHPAW TODAY

Dykes Decides Old Strategy Has Failed.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 19.—James Dykes, the White Sox manager, who is fair at thinking up ideas and also good at dropping them if they don't work, has decided to quit trying to trap the champion Yankees by using southpaws. After giving his scheme a fair test — southpaws have started six times in seven games with the world champions — Dykes has discovered that Joe McCarthy's rough housers not only steal the bait, but also the trap. In five of the half dozen starts the southpaws failed.

Dykes' boys, who fear they are gradually being pushed toward the second division, came into the metropolis this afternoon from Philadelphia. It rained there and there wasn't a chance for the final game of the series with the Athletics. It was a break for the treasury departments of the two clubs. A double-header can be played later and Philadelphia, where street vendors sell huge pretzels for three cents [no extra charge for a light frosting of dust], is alive with bargain lovers.

Today It's Knott.

There is some long grass on Dykes' suburban estate and a few door knobs require the services of a mechanic, so the manager didn't accompany his charges. But before their departure, he phoned about his pitching scheme for tomorrow's opener at the Yankee stadium. He called his associate strategists—Billy Webb and Muddy Ruel—and advised them to tell the newspaper men he will not start either of his left handers tomorrow. Instead it will be Jack Knott, whose only previous appearance against the Yankees this season was in a brief relief job on May 7. He fared none too well.

Knott has done mighty well in his last two starts, which is one reason he is getting tomorrow's assignment. He held the Athletics to three hits and the Washington Senators to two. Another reason for the presence of a right hander is that the latter variety—Tom Bridges, Buck Newsom, Bob Feller, and Schoolboy Rowe—were responsible for the Yankees' recent defeats. Of course, for the second of the series, Dykes probably will go back to a southpaw, but that will be because there will be no worthy right hander available.

Hayes May Start.

When the Sox square off at the Yankee stadium tomorrow, it is highly probable that Jack Hayes, long an invalid, will be at second base. He was in there yesterday for three innings, making his second limited appearance of the season. His right knee, which collapsed on July 13 last season and on which an operation was performed last November, isn't what it should be, but the need for hitting is so great that desperate moves are warranted. What Hayes will do as a hitter is doubtful, but his record indicates he may be of some help. If Hayes doesn't hit, or his knee proves unreliable, Eric McNair will go back to second and Marvin Owen to third.

With Johnny Rigney just about helpless as a starter and Bill Dietrich out for a month because of his wrenched left knee, Dykes pitching situation isn't at all comfortable. One of these spots can be filled by Johnny Marcum, who hasn't been started since he escaped from the Browns, but who revealed encouraging symptoms in a relief job against Washington. Vic Frasier has done nothing worth while either as a starter or rescuer, but hardly can be dispensed with unless Rigney should get into a winning stride.

Postpone Angott-Scott Bout Until Tomorrow

Louisville, Ky., June 19.—(AP)—Rain tonight caused postponement until Wednesday night of the 10 round boxing match between Sammy Angott of Louisville and Howard Scott of Washington.

And Somebody Said the Dodgers Had Changed!

This is not a picture of the Brooklyn Dodgers in the old Babe Herman days. It is Pitcher Hugh Casey colliding with Second Baseman Johnny Hudson at first base in the fifth inning of the 3 to 3 tie between the Dodgers and Cubs yesterday. Casey had popped to Dick Bartell and Bartell's throw to double Hudson off base hit the second baseman, caroming off into the Dodger dugout, just before Casey arrived at first. Rip Russell, Cub first baseman, is chasing the ball. [Associated Press Photo.]

Donovan Gets Galento's Vote to Referee Bout

Summit, N. J., June 19.—(AP)—Joe Jacobs, manager of Tony Galento, challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight title, is going to ask the New York state athletic commission to name Arthur Donovan referee for the title fight June 28.

Jacobs announced as much today, though he said he would have to wait until the day of the fight to make his formal request, when the commission holds a meeting at the weighing-in ceremonies.

Louis Likes Donovan, Too.

The announcement came as something of a surprise, since Donovan is well liked by Louis, having refereed practically all of the champion's fights.

Jacobs said: "Galento and I want Donovan because we think he is the most efficient referee in the business. Some time ago he gave out an interview in which he said the easiest fight he had ever worked was one in which Galento was a participant. If he permits Galento to fight his fight as he has done in the past the public will get its money's worth."

Galento did no ring work today. He did a seven mile stretch of road work and will resume boxing tomorrow.

LOUIS SEES TIGERS PLAY.

New York, June 19.—(AP)—Joe Louis watched the New York Yankees today as he left his training camp for the first time since he opened work for his championship bout with Tony Galento three weeks ago. However, it was Joe's favorite team, the Detroit Tigers, and not the Yankees, that brought him to town.

Louis, nearing peak condition, has only five more public workouts scheduled. He will box Tuesday and Thursday and these complete his schedule with three successive days of hard work over the week-end.

Thursday night he will make his only official public appearance away from camp when he seconds his stablemate, Dave Clark, against Gus Lesnevich in Nutley, N. J.

BARTELL'S WILD THROW LETS IN RUN BEFORE RAIN

Hack Crashes Home Run in Fourth.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs yesterday would have had a three game winning streak for the first time since the first week of the season and a spot in the first division if a rain which fell on Wrigley field a few minutes before 5 o'clock had become severe ten minutes earlier. As things turned out the game was suspended shortly after the Dodgers had scored two runs in the eighth inning to effect a 3 to 3 tie and the Cubs had been untied in their half. After the usual wait the game was called off and went into the books as the second Brooklyn-Chicago tie of the season. The first one was that nineteen inning affair on May 17.

Everything that happened in the curtailed match goes into the record books, including a home run by Stanley Hack and two errors by Dick Bartell, the second of which, a bad throw past first, allowed Mel Almada to score the tying run. If Bartell had made a good throw the side would have been retired and the Cubs would have won, 3 to 2.

They Are Record Makers.

In so far as records are concerned the game added to a list of several established by the Cubs and Dodgers this year. In addition to playing two ties the team have played the longest game of the year, that nineteen inning, 9 to 9 tie with nine errors; the shortest game of the year, Dean's 1:27 masterpiece Sunday, and the longest night game in the history of the majors, the fourteen inning affair in Brooklyn June 1.

The only run batted in prior to the Cub blowup in the eighth was Hack's home run, made at the start of the fourth.

That was the third Cub run and should have been the winning one. Pitcher Hugh Casey allowed no runs and only two hits, both singles, after Hack's homer.

Root Goes Seven Innings.

Charley Root made his first start of the year for the Cubs and prior to the tying eighth allowed only six hits, never more than one in an inning. Then came the eighth, which was launched by Cookie Lavagetto's single. Pete Coscarart ran for Lagagetto after Cookie had pulled a Charley horse and went to third on Almada's single to right. Manager Gabby Hartnett withdrew Root and sent forth Larry French.

Larry made Dolph Camilli pop to Bill Herman for the first out, after which Babe Phelps drove a sacrifice fly to Carl Reynolds, Coscarart scoring and Almada taking second. Ernie Koy then sent an easy bouncer to Bartell, who threw low and to G. Russell's right, enabling Almada to get home with the tying run. Things got no worse than a tie because Gus Mancuso threw out Koy trying to steal second. The Cubs couldn't score in their half of the eighth. Then came the halt.

Dodgers Take Lead.

The Dodgers made a run in the first inning despite the slowing processes of a double play. Rosen walked on four pitches and took third on Lavagetto's single. He scored while Almada was going down in a double play. Camilli bounced out to retire the side.

The Cubs went ahead with two runs in the second inning, both of which scored on two errors in one series of plays. Reynolds opened with a single to left and when G. Russell singled to left, Reynolds panicked the Dodgers by hustling to third. Koy threw to Lavagetto too late to get Reynolds and G. Russell

BETTERS PICK 'EM ONE, TWO, THREE IN CRETE STAKE

Unerring Wins Edgewater Beach Purse.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Woolford farm's Unerring and Joseph E. Widener's Carla renewed their sprint duel in the Edgewater Beach purse, a six furlong event which headed yesterday's program at Lincoln Fields. In their previous meeting Carla had won by a neck. Yesterday, however, the betters decided it was Unerring's turn and backed this filly down to 2 to 1. They also took a fancy to R. W. McIlvain's Olney and decided he was worthy of being the 3 to 1 second choice with Carla third at 4 to 1.

The betters proved themselves master handicappers. That was just the way the race turned out. Through a furious downpour that made the horses look like shadows, Unerring raced to victory, emerging from a curtain of rain more than a length in advance of Olney, with Carla a length and a half farther back.

One More for B. Jones.

Unerring's performance added to the laurels of Trainer Ben Jones, who previously in the meeting had won with Beau Insco, Sherron Ann, Chance Star, Finella, and Ogallah, besides earning a number of seconds and thirds for Woolford farm.

Mike Caffarella, who rode Unerring, kept his mount well up from the start. As they got the bell, the Milky Way farm's No Competition went out fast, with Olney close beside him. Caffarella rushed Unerring up with the pace setters. On the turn No Competition began to give up and Unerring went to the front, leading the way into the stretch by half a length.

Olney went wide before straightening out for the run home, but held on well under vigorous riding, keeping a safe distance ahead of Carla, which came from quite a way back.

Another for Womeldorf.

Unerring covered the six furlongs in 1:12 1-5 and paid $6.40, $4.00, and $2.60.

Trainer Red Womeldorf saddled the sixth winner of the meeting for Jacobsen and Hough when he sent Little Tramp to the post in the fourth race. With Ernest Hanke aboard, this 4 year old colt came home two lengths ahead of Mrs. C. E. Dale's Labor Day.

Womeldorf had won with Little Tramp earlier in the meeting and had also saddled Scout Azure and Banola for two successful efforts each.

Hanke continued to draw away from Warren Yarberry in the struggle for jockey honors. He had taken a 27 to 26 lead on Saturday when Yarberry was shut out completely.

Hanke's ride on Star Bud gave that horse's backers a particular thrill. Through the earlier part of the mile and a sixteenth race Hanke rated his mount along under a snug hold within striking distance of the pace setters, and when they reached the stretch he brought him right down the middle, wore down Miss Bonnie and Pundit, and drew out in the last sixteenth.

N. B. A. RELIEVES LEWIS OF TITLE ON TWO COUNTS

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—John Henry Lewis, who was knocked out last winter in one round by Joe Louis, today was legislated out of his light heavyweight championship on two counts by the National Boxing association.

The N. B. A. ruled that Lewis had not defended his title within the required six month limit and in addition was virtually blind in his left eye. A board of physicians examined Lewis in Pittsburgh, Pa., last week and reported to the boxing group that the vision of his left eye was impaired by a cataract. The recommendation was made, however, that he be allowed to continue boxing.

The boxing association, however, did not agree with the physicians' request, pointing out that it would be to the advantage of Lewis and boxing if he retired from the ring.

LEWIS GETS FIGHT OFFER.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 19.—John Henry Lewis, stripped of his light heavyweight championship today by the National Boxing association because of partial blindness, received an offer tonight to fight July 11 in St. Louis.

Noted Trainers Prep Horses for Arlington Meet

Ranking trainers of American racing are prepping their best horses for the thirty day Arlington Park meeting which opens Monday. From east and west the horsemen will gather, veterans of hundreds of stake races and younger men who have yet to saddle their first Arlington Classic, Kentucky Derby, or Pimlico Preakness winner.

Chief among the eastern horsemen will be Jim Fitzsimmons. He invaded Chicago once more in quest of victory in the $60,000 Classic stakes.

Trains Three Classic Winners.

Three times Fitzsimmons has sent out horses to win the Classic stakes from the Belair stud of William Woodward, chairman of the Jockey club. Now to follow the successes of Woodward's Gallant Fox, Omaha, and Granville Fitzsimmons will dispatch Johnstown, hero of the Kentucky Derby and Belmont stakes, with hopes for a fourth Belair triumph.

In sharp contrast with the long record and experience of Fitzsimmons will be the youth and confidence of Louis Schaefer. Only recently retired as a jockey, he will saddle William L. Brann's Challedon, the mudrunning Maryland thoroughbred which humbled Johnstown in the Preakness. Another ex-jockey, older and better known to fame than Schaefer, will be Earl Sande, who will come to Arlington with John Hay Whitney's Classic candidate, Heather Broom, and other stars.

Horsemen will be shooting at $350,000 in prize money, which includes $86,000 in added money to stakes. Not less than $8,000 in purses will be given away daily.

Notables among the Arlington training colony will be Frank Kearns with 23 Calumet stable horses owned by Warren Wright; William Brennan, trainer of the two Whitney family branches, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable and Mrs. Charles S. Payson's Manhasset stable; Don Cameron with the J. Shirley Riley, Mrs. Vera Bragg, and Mrs. John Hertz horses; former Jockey Jimmy Smith of Dixiana; Ben A. Jones, developer of the Kentucky Derby winner Lawrin and the Woolford farm horses; Hal Price Headley and his nephew, Duval Headley, and Dan Stewart, who handles the western and southern divisions for Joseph E. Widener; J. J. Flannigan of Texas' Valdina farms; J. J. Greeley conditioner for the Nash brothers' Shandon farm, and Anthony Pelleteri with 38 horses owned by himself and the Millsdale stable.

Asks Two Officials to Quit in California Ring Probe

Sacramento, Cal., June 19.—(AP)—The Gannon assembly committee in an official report of its investigation into wrestling and boxing in California today demanded that Dr. Harry Martin, chairman of the state athletic commission, and George Payne, a member, resign. It also recommended that the commission "forthwith break up the monopoly in heavyweight wrestling which now, and for some time past, has prevailed in California."

Canada Fights to Save Ducks from Drouth

BY BOB BECKER.

Although it's fishing and camping time in the United States, more than 1,000,000 licensed hunters in the central states are finding it difficult to forget the wild duck situation and the possibilities for hunting next fall.

Ducks Unlimited, the national organization of sportsmen and conservationists, is the best source of information on nesting conditions in the Canadian provinces. It has hundreds of workers in the marshes, all busy with projects to impound water and give ducks safe nesting places. Ducks Unlimited is the only American organization doing this valuable conservation work in the provinces.

Everybody's Helping.

Not only individual duck hunters, but sportsmen's, and rod and gun clubs are contributing to Ducks Unlimited so that they may share in the work of rehabilitating Canadian marshes to grow more ducks. The Oak Park Sportsman's club is the most recent outdoorsman's organization to make a contribution.

At a meeting held last night this group presented Lou H. Barkhausen, national president of Ducks Unlimited, with a $100 check.

The latest report from the Canadian marshes and the duck situation comes to us from T. C. Main, resident engineer of Ducks Unlimited in Canada. Mr. Main's condensed report is as follows:

"Surface waters are generally excellent in Alberta, good in Saskatchewan, poor in Manitoba. More ducks have come back this year to the Canadian west. As they spread out over the 631,000 square miles of this great breeding range, they meet conditions extremely varied. Fortunately late May rains flattened dust blizzards, quenched fires and induced a larger percentage of ducks to nest in the farm land.

Drouth Perils Ducklings.

"On about 80 per cent of the farm land there is more surface water this year. But a big percentage of shallow ponds are on powder dry soil and already many are drying up. Where rains fail thousands of small shallow ponds will be death traps for millions of ducklings. Early arrivals among ducks bringing off second hatches will add to the stupendous total of ducklings facing death by drouth. Salvage is planned to the limit of funds available. More than 1,800 Ducks Unlimited "Kee-Men" are lining up for this work. Masses of ducks can be saved for two cents a duck."

Sportsmen who want to help in this duck saving work in the Canadian marshes, a job that will produce more birds for the southern migration, should get in touch with the Chicago Ducks Unlimited office at 231 South La Salle street, Chicago.

PRO GOES OUT ON ACE-OR-COLLAPSE CAMPAIGN TODAY

Michigan City, Ind., June 19.—(AP)—In an attempt to prove his contention that any good golfer, given enough time and strokes, can make a hole in one, Harry Gonder, Beverly Shores Country club professional, said today he would start hitting balls from the tee of Beverly's 136 yard tenth hole at 9 a. m. tomorrow and continue until he scores an ace or collapses.

Gonder explained he was making the attempt to silence William Voltz, an electrical engineer, who seldom breaks 100 but who scored an ace at the tenth on June 4 and has been boasting of it ever since.

CHICAGO COLLIE SETS RECORD IN FOUR DOG SHOWS

Wins Three Times as Best in Competition.

A Chicago-owned collie has just completed a dog show record which rarely has been equalled. The dog is Champion Hertzville Headstudy, owned by the Hertzville kennels of Thomas Halpin and C. J. Cassleman. It has competed in four dog shows since June 3 and has been selected as the best entry in three of the shows. The number of dogs it has defeated in the three shows exceeds 1,400.

Hertzville Headstudy started its string of victories June 3 by being picked as best of its breed, best in its group, and best in show at Anderson, Ind. The next day, at Indianapolis, it was judged best of breed but defeated in its group. Last Saturday, at the Skokie Valley Kennel club show held in Dyche stadium, Evanston, it was named the best among 719 dogs in fifty-three different breeds. Sunday, at Gary, Ind., it went through breed and group competition and again was named the best dog in the show.

Halpin believes that Headstudy soon will surpass the record established by his famous sire—Champion Hertzville Headstone. Headstone, now 6½ years old, has been best of its breed in ten shows. Headstudy, less than three years old, already has been named best of breed in five shows. It has equalled the best in show record of its sire, each dog having won three shows.

TIGERS GET THREE HOME RUNS, BUT YANKS WIN, 8-5

New York Scores Five Times in First.

New York, June 19.—(AP)—Oral Hildebrand limited the Detroit Tigers to six hits—three of them home runs—as the Yankees took the series from the invaders, 8 to 5, for the rubber game victory today.

The Yankees teed off early in the game, making five of their runs in the first inning off Paul Trout, then picked up one each in the fifth, seventh, and eighth—the last two coming on homers by Bill Dickey and Red Rolfe. The homers were Bill's sixth and Red's fifth of the year.

The Tigers gained the edge in home run hitting with Barney McCosky, Pinky Higgins, and Red Kress, who was batting for Archie McKain, all connecting. McCosky's homer came in the sixth and was the first hit the Tigers had off Hildebrand's delivery. Score:

BROWNS, SENATORS SPLIT.

Washington, D. C., June 19.—(AP)—Vernon Kennedy scattered six hits over 14 innings today to help St. Louis beat the Washington Senators, 2 to 1, in the first game of a double-header, but the Browns lost an abbreviated second game, 6 to 1.

In the first game neither team scored until the 10th, when Don Heffner singled, was sacrificed to second and scored on Billy Sullivan's single. The Senators tied it up in their half on two singles, a sacrifice, and an infield out. Chet Laabs won the game in the 14th, scoring Johnny Berardino with a triple.

The Browns got only 6 hits off Joe Krakauskas in the second game, scoring their run on Myril Hoag's double and George McQuinn's single in the first inning. The game was called in the eighth because of darkness. Score:

WOODERSON AND ENGLISH QUIET DOWN A TRIFLE

New York, June 19.—(AP)—Sydney Wooderson was inclined today to let the 1939 Princeton mile pass into history as motion pictures of the event only increased the controversy over whether he was fouled by Blaine Rideout.

After thinking the matter over, the little world record holder called his collision Saturday with Rideout an "unfortunate accident—an accident occurring in the heat of the race which is best forgotten."

The mishap, coming at the top of the homestretch, threw the Englishman off stride and cost him whatever chance he had for victory. Chuck Fenske came up fast to win in 4:11 with Wooderson finishing last in the field of five.

Still Some Doubt.

Meanwhile, the movies failed to establish whether Rideout bumped Wooderson or whether the record holder, apparently tired, hit the Texan when he [Wooderson] failed to straighten out in time for the final 200 yard dash.

The pictures showed Rideout first passing Fenske shortly before the turn. Then Rideout pulled up even with Wooderson and for a time the two appeared to run shoulder to shoulder. Coming into the turn Rideout, seeking to gain the lead, gradually seemed to crowd Wooderson toward the rail until the Briton half stumbled and threw up his right arm as if to regain his balance.

Rideout went into the lead only to have Wooderson regain his stride and pass him momentarily. From the angle of the picture it was difficult to determine whether there actually was bodily contact or whether Wooderson, seeking to avoid such a contact, inadvertently stepped on the rail and lost his balance.

Glenn Stumbles, Too.

Before the two collided, Glenn Cunningham, who finished second five yards behind Fenske, also lost his balance when he stepped on the rail. When Wooderson stumbled, Glenn attempted to go through the hole, but the Briton's quick recovery blocked him off and he was forced to go around the leaders to make his stretch bid.

Some track experts felt the mishap, regrettable as it was, had little effect on the outcome. They pointed out the little Briton, hailed abroad as the greatest judge of pace since Paavo Nurmi and admittedly aiming at a new record around 4:03, ran the first quarter in the slow time of 64 seconds. This not only cost him all chance of a new record, but indicated to some that the Englishman was not in shape. Certainly the pace was just what the Americans wanted.

Pictures of the finish also were significant. All four Americans held perfect form while Wooderson apparently had lost his form, showing signs of sheer exhaustion. In fact, at least one English sports writer expressed the fear before Wooderson ever went to the post that he had "left his race in England," where he set a world record for three-quarters of a mile and run a 4:07.4 mile.

UMPIRE'S WHISK BROOM DOOMED BY MACHINE AGE

Wichita, Kas., June 19.—[Special.]—The umpire's whisk broom, long a colorful accessory to baseball, appears doomed. His time honored ceremony of vigorously brushing the plate and sending up dust eddies may be replaced by a pneumatic home plate duster.

The gadget, invented by Paul Fair, created something of a sensation last night when he tested it during a semi-pro game. Fair, umpire in chief of the 1939 national semi-pro tournament to be held here in August, was given permission to use it by Ray Dumont, director of the meet.

To operate the device, the umpire presses a lever and the compressed air not only rids the plate of the dust but the noise made by the machine drowns out any cutting remarks the batter or catcher might be making.

SIMMS DEFEATS SCOTT IN WALTZ TIME; MOTISI WINS

Eddie Simms, Cleveland heavyweight, was awarded a decision over Buddy Scott of Dallas, Tex., in a dragging ten round bout in Marigold Gardens last night.

After dealing Scott a beating in the first four rounds, Simms slowed down to such an extent in the fifth that Referee Davey Miller asked for more action, but the fight continued in the same vein until the finish.

Miller called the match a draw, while the judges, James Lynch and Ed Klein, each voted 52-48 for Simms, who outweighed Scott 16½ pounds.

Tony Motisi, Catholic Youth organization welterweight, pounded out a decision over George Kontopolis in the five round semi-final.

In the best of the preliminaries Billy Seward, Ingamore, Mont., junior lightweight, scored a four round techincal knockout over Art Brewer. Johnny Williams, Danville welterweight, and Ralph Guajardo slugged their way to a four round draw, and Orlando Trotter, south side light heavyweight, defeated Star Harvey in four rounds.

CUBS, DODGERS PLAY 8 INNING 3 TO 3 DEADLOCK

ran to second on the throw. Lavagetto attempted to head off Russell with a throw to Hudson. Hudson failed to catch the ball and Reynolds scored on the error, G. Russell taking third. Camilli recovered the ball after it had escaped Hudson and threw it into the Cub dugout, G. Russell scoring. Manager Durocher became a bit hysterical about it all, but eventually was soothed by the patient umpires. Bartell flied to Almada and Mancuso singled to left. Root fanned and Hack singled to right. Herman lined to Koy.

Reynolds' Single Wasted.

The fourth run of the game was the first one scored as batted in. With two out in the fourth, Hack smacked his third homer of the season into the right field bleachers. Herman again lined to Koy for the third out.

Reynolds opened the home eighth with a single to center and was forced on G. Russell's bunt. Bartell then lined into a double play, Casey to Camilli.

After one pitch to Durocher in the ninth, time was called because of rain.

Claude Passeau is scheduled to pitch for the Cubs in this afternoon's opener of the three game Chicago-Boston series in Wrigley field. The Cubs expect to look at Milt Shoffner, a lefty.

President Ford Frick of the National league saw yesterday's game. He is en route home from St. Louis, where on Sunday he watched friends present all those farm implements and the sow, broodmares, cows, and similar gifts to Pepper Martin.

No one expected to see a fielding play yesterday the equal of any of three the Cubs pulled in the first game Sunday. But they saw one for the third out in the fifth inning when Jim Gleeson made a diving catch of Lavagetto's low liner.

Big 10's Hopes Against Coast Are Watson and a Prayer

Los Angeles, Cal., June 19.—[Special.]—With the National Collegiate Athletic association track championships settled to the satisfaction of the far west, the scene shifts to Berkeley where the Pacific Coast conference stars meet the best from the Big Ten in a twilight meet Wednesday.

There remained scarcely a suspicion of a hope for the Big Ten forces after Southern California's showing Saturday, Stanford's second place, and Washington State's fourth behind Michigan.

Bill Watson, the Michigan field events star, shoulders a great deal of the responsibility for what is to happen Wednesday evening. But Watson is good enough to do a pretty good piece of heavy duty work. He threw the shot 54 feet 6½ inches and broad jumped 24 feet ¼ inch in addition to his 161 feet 9¾ inches in the discus. He could take three firsts at Berkeley, although Pete Zacar of Stanford beat him in the discus event and Pat Turner of U. C. L. A. had a few inches advantage in the broad jump.

Distance Men Have Chance.

The Big Ten's strength, aside from Watson, lies in the two mile with Ralph Schwatzkof, also of Michigan; in the mile, where Walter Mehl of Wisconsin might get back at Louie Zamperini of Southern California, and in the hurdles, high jump, pole vault, and mile relay.

Myron Piker, Northwestern sophomore, and Robert Lewis, Ohio State, have marks of :09.6 in the hundred yard dash and Lewis has run the 220 in :20.8, which should be good enough to trouble Clyde Jeffrey of Stanford if they can duplicate those marks at Berkeley.

Bob Diefentheler of Illinois could beat John Wilson of U. S. C. out of the high jump and Milton Padway, Wisconsin, and Robert Cassells, Chicago, hold the same possible advantage over Loring Day of U. S. C. and George Varoff of Oregon.

But from There On.

Ed Smith, Wisconsin, in the high hurdles and Roy Cochran, Indiana, in the lows will have to reach the heights to pass Jim Humphrey and Earl Vickery of Southern California.

It would stretch the imagination even farther to suppose Michigan's two quarter milers, Warren Breidenbach and Phil Balyeat, could find two colleagues who would enable them to beat the mile relay team of Erwin Miller and Howard Upton, Southern California; Don Watts, California, and Mel Petticord, Washington State.

PHIPPS, SMITH LEAD TEAMS IN 20 GOAL TOURNEY

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—Two of polo's outstanding players, Mike Phipps and Cecil Smith, will lead teams in tomorrow's matches which will mark the opening of the Meadowbrook club's annual twenty goal tournament on the club's fields in Westbury.

Twelve teams will compete in this season's tourney, which will be divided once again into the Meadow and Brook leagues.

Phipps, one of the best No. 1 players in polo, will switch to the No. 2 position when his Gulf Stream outfit faces Stephen [Leddie] Sanford's Hurricanes. Smith will change from No. 2 to 3 when his Texas four opposes Hurlingham in Meadow league matches.

The other match on tomorrow's program will find the League of Nations team, a nineteen goal combination, facing East Willison, rated at one more goal.

Marge Startz Seeks 3d No Hit, No Run Victory

Marge Startz will seek her third no-hit, no-run game of the season tonight when she pitches for the Hydrox girls against the Lansing, Mich., Vandervoorts in the first of a two game softball series in Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets. Marge has won ten straight games. The Lansing team has held the Michigan state championship for the last five years.

Lake Forest's Horse Show to Open Tomorrow

The four day Lake Forest Horse show will open tomorrow at the Onwentsia club with a record entry of 240 horses in 1,000 classes. The entry list surpasses that of last year, when 230 horses were in 940 classes.

Afternoon and evening performances will be given each of the first three days, the afternoon events starting at 2 o'clock and the evening show at 8 p. m. On Saturday, the final day, the program calls for morning and afternoon performances.

With a break in the weather, the show association hopes to set an attendance mark, indications at present pointing to the largest crowd in the 39 year history of the show.

HARTNETT AND EVANS TO HOLD DRIVING CONTEST

Gabby Hartnett, manager of the Cubs, and Chick Evans, veteran golfer, will meet in a driving contest tomorrow evening at Sportsman's Golf club on Dundee road, just west of Waukegan. The contest will feature the annual Holy Name golf tournament of St. Timothy's church.

More than 500 members and friends are expected to play, with 200 attending dinner and the show which will follow the afternoon's play. The Rev. James Kiely is pastor of St. Timothy's.

BROTHERS SEEK PLACES ON C. Y. O. BOXING SQUAD

Six Sets Go to Camp at Lockport.

Six sets of brothers are expected to be among the C. Y. O. boxers who leave the first week in July for training camp at Lewis Holy Name Tech School of Aeronautics, Lockport, Ill., where they will prepare for the international boxing matches with Ireland July 19 at Soldiers' field.

They are Eugene and John Cahill, Tony and Frank Bausone, Edward and Joseph O'Connell, Joseph and James Herbeck, James and Ed Pazy, and Harry and Teddy Sparrow.

The C. Y. O. has staged four summer shows and each year, except in 1937, a set of brothers has been on the squad. The first were Ray and Charles Wozniak in 1935 against New York's C. Y. O. champions. Both competed as middleweights. Ray whipped Frank Murphy and Charles lost to Bill Hart.

The following year, 1936, the Kenneally boys, Phil and Tom, appeared against New York. Phil, a middleweight then, defeated Frank Murphy. Tom, a heavyweight, pounded out a decision over Bill Pavlovich.

Last year the O'Connell brothers formed the C. Y. O. brother combination. Eddie, a featherweight, won his match from Harry Fisher while Joe lost to Ernest Smith.

Midget Auto Drivers Clash in 2d Round

The second program of races in the charity board track midget meet will be held tonight in Soldiers' field with the time trials starting at 6:30 o'clock and the first race at 8:30 o'clock. There will be ten events, including 162 laps of racing.

The same drivers who raced Sunday will race tonight, in addition to a dozen others. Among the newcomers are Perry Grim of Los Angeles, Tony Bettenhausen of Tinley Park, Cowboy O'Rourke and Wally Zale, both of Chicago. Zale will drive the Marchese-Miller special, which was to have been driven by Harry MacQuinn, national indoor champion.

Sam Hanks of Alhambra, Cal., who won the feature class A fifty lap Sunday night, leads the drivers in point standings, which will determine which driver draws the pole position in the 100 lap championship final Sunday night. Hanks is pressed by Mel Hansen and Ronnie Householder, also of California, and Paul Russo of New York.

The race card tonight calls for three class A elimination races at twelve laps; three class B eliminations at twelve laps; a class B consolation at fifteen laps; a class B feature at twenty-five laps and the class A fifty lap feature. Similar programs will be presented on Thursday and Saturday nights, with 220 laps of racing scheduled Sunday.

Proceeds will go to the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children, Chicago unit.

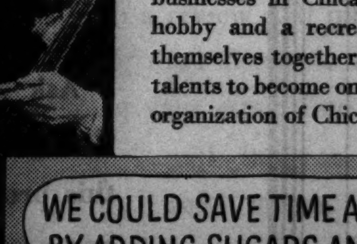
A NOTED CHICAGOLAND SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA VOTES MEISTER BRÄU BEST—42 to 6

When the members of one of Chicago's best known symphony orchestras were asked to taste Meister Bräu Beer, compare it with other brands, and vote their preferences by secret ballot, 7 out of 8 said, "I prefer Meister Bräu to any other bottled beer."

This orchestra is composed of men who are active in the professions and a wide variety of businesses in Chicago. Music with them is a hobby and a recreation. But, while enjoying themselves together, they have developed their talents to become one of the top-ranking musical organization of Chicagoland.



Richard Seibold invites you to try Meister Bräu Draft Beer —Made with the same care —Ask at your favorite Bar

Reasons for Amazing Swing to This Beer Revealed by Independent Investigator

When leading beer retailers were asked by Chicago Newspapers what brand of bottled beer is first in sales, they reported Meister Bräu. Figures ranged from 2 to 1 leadership to as high as 10 to 1. The Reuben H. Donnelley Corporation was asked to check and analyze this amazing popularity by holding taste-and-compare tests where groups of men and women gather.

The investigator finds that the true old-time flavor of Meister Bräu explains its tremendous popularity, and that Chicagoans appreciate the all-grain flavor which Richard Seibold, Meister Bräu Brewmaster, preserves by refusing to add sugars or syrups to the brew, or to change his method of bottling with natural draft-beer carbonation only.

SANTA FE TERMS RAIL UNION CREW RULES WASTEFUL

Tells Board Men Get Pay for Doing Little.

Officials of the Santa Fe railroad and of the railway brotherhoods yesterday continued the presentation of their cases in the hearing on 186 labor complaints filed against the road by the brotherhoods. The claims are being considered by the National Railroad Adjustment board in its headquarters at 220 South State street.

The Santa Fe's position is that it is being forced to pay the employés for services not performed, or to pay a full day's pay for services that require only a minimum of work. The brotherhoods assert that their claims are in accordance with working contracts. They emphasize that employés in certain divisions of work are forced to be idle, while others do work to which the former believe they are entitled.

Road's Position Stated.

W. K. Etter, operating vice president of the Santa Fe, and H. H. Tisdale, assistant to the Santa Fe general manager at Los Angeles, Cal., read statements of the road's position. Labor executives, including D. P. Conway and A. Young, told the board that they stand on their positions as outlined in their complaints. These complaints were made a part of the record but were not read publicly.

Etter told of the efforts made by the Santa Fe to make economies in operation when business and revenues diminished, starting in 1930. He explained that as a part of the economy efforts switching crews were abandoned at points where business did not justify their retention. Such work was to be taken over by crews that handled the trains out on the road.

Cites Pullman Car Handling.

Etter cited the handling of a Pullman car at a siding at Winslow, Ariz. The Santa Fe desired that the crew of a regular passenger train to which it was to be attached pick up the car. Similar conditions existed at other points.

"Under the claims of the employés, to add a Pullman waiting on a side track to a passing passenger train it would have been necessary at many points to call and pay a yard crew for a full day's work, although they would perform, in fact, only five or six minutes of service. This yard crew would couple on to the train, to which was already attached an engine fully manned, together with a full train crew, and while the road crew did nothing, the yard engine would perform a simple move.

Warns of Economic Waste.

"I do not think that in these negotiations the employés ever seriously contended that the company should commit itself to such serious economic waste and to such an absurd method of operation."

Etter said that under the conditions insisted upon by the employés should it be desired to add a passenger car because of an unexpected rush of passengers the company would have to have this done by a yard crew while the road crew was idle.

In effect, he said, if yard crews were not used, the road crew would have to be paid extra compensation for the slight amount of extra work and a yard crew would have to be paid a full day's wages for work they did not do.

Conway, who is a general chairman for the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said that his group did not agree with the statements made by Etter. He said that under the rules a freight trainmen should not be required to do yard duty, which includes switching.

CHAIN STORE TAX IS RULED INVALID BY HIGH COURT

Pennsylvania Levy Not Uniform, It Decides.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 19.—(AP)—The Pennsylvania Supreme court today declared unconstitutional a graduated tax on chain stores and theaters.

It upheld a ruling of the Dauphin county [Harrisburg] court that the levy of $1 to $500 on each business place, depending on the number under the same ownership, violated the state constitution which requires that all taxes upon a particular class of property be uniform.

The law, providing that revenue from the tax be used to finance a minimum annual salary of $1,000 for teachers in fourth class school districts, was passed by the recent Democratic administration. The American Stores company and the Stanley theaters contested it and won an injunction against enforcement.

Smaller Chains Pay $350,000.

Smaller chains, not a party to the court suit, had paid about $350,000 to the state, but the money was set aside to await a final decision on the validity of the tax.

Counsel for the chain stores had argued the tax was "a vicious attempt" to "shift the burden of a tax on a few members of a class."

The state replied that the United States Supreme court has upheld similar laws in Indiana, Florida, Louisiana, and West Virginia.

Meanwhile the commonwealth appealed to the state Supreme court to uphold the franchise tax on foreign corporations, in which the state has a stake of nearly 35 millions.

Upset by County Court.

The tax was held unconstitutional by the Dauphin County court at the height of the recent legislature's struggle with a tax program for 1939-'41.

Gov. Arthur H. James estimated the tax would yield 12 millions in the next two years. Besides that amount, which would be lost to the state if the high court sustained the Dauphin decision, Pennsylvania would be required to repay another 23 millions collected in the last four years, or apply the money as credits on taxes yet to be paid.

MANUFACTURERS URGE REVISION OF WAGNER ACT

Want Congress to Curtail Labor Board Powers.

Washington, D. C., June 19.—(AP)—The National Association of Manufacturers called for revision of the Wagner act today to remove much of the labor board's administrative discretion.

John C. Gall, the association's counsel, told a senate labor subcommittee considering amendments that the board had "perverted" the law and said the matter "should be specifically dealt with by congress, particularly as the board has clearly shown by its testimony that it has no intention of modifying anything except minor procedural requirements."

Propose Several Amendments.

The association, which Gall said represented 7,500 manufacturers employing several million workers, recommended amendments to:

Protect employés "against unfair labor practices, whether practiced by employers, labor organizations or fellow employés" with "reasonable limitations upon the right to strike."

Prohibit the closed shop and the check-off.

Safeguard freedom of speech by clear and appropriate language.

Give employers the right to petition for elections to determine collective bargaining representatives.

Provide a statute of limitations on complaints of unfair labor practices.

Require unions to file for public inspection "reasonable information with respect to themselves and their responsibility."

Charges Hostility to Employers.

"There is throughout the business world," Gall said, "a conviction that the national labor relations board and its agents have been intensely pro-C. I. O., that they have been hostile to employers, to independent unions and to employés not affiliated with national unions, that they have violated many elementary principles of fair play, and that they have not only not contributed to a reduction of the volume of labor disputes but have in fact sown the seeds of future discord."

EFFECTIVE DATE EXTENDED FOR NEW LABEL LAW

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—The effective date of labelling requirements of the revised food drug and cosmetics act was extended today by the house of representatives from June 25 to next Jan. 1. The house adopted a conference report on a bill postponing the effective date.

The delay was asked by manufacturers who were caught in the final rush of revising packages and printed statements to meet the new regulations. Labels under the act are required to inform consumers of the ingredients used and of the conditions under which the product is safe for use.

PROFIT SHARING REPORT IN WIDE PUBLIC DEMAND

Requests for Copies Flood Committee.

Requests for copies of a special senate subcommittee's report recommending a broad program of profit sharing in American industry poured into the committee's Chicago headquarters yesterday. Personal and telephone calls from corporation officials, attorneys, bankers, and private individuals for copies of the report swamped the staff.

[illegible] Despain says public interest is tremendous.

The report was publicly announced yesterday in THE TRIBUNE after it had been filed with the United States senate. It urged widespread adoption by corporations of a plan for giving workers a slice of profits as a means of fortifying the nation's democratic form of government and preserving the capitalistic system of private profit initiative.

Sheaffer Payment Is Record.

Meanwhile the W. A. Sheaffer Pen company announced the largest profit sharing payment in its history. The company, with headquarters at Fort Madison, Ia., will make a 12½ per cent payment June 28 to all employés regardless of length of service or status. The payment represents one-eighth of each employé's earnings for the six months ended May 31. This compares with payment last Dec. 16 of 10 per cent for the period ended Nov. 30, 1938, and 7½ per cent a year ago.

Each of the Sheaffer company's 1,100 employés in Fort Madison, New York, Chicago, and San Francisco, including about 100 salesmen throughout the United States, share in the company's plan. The current payment is the eighth consecutive distribution. These have ranged from 4 tc 12½ per cent.

Interest Termed Tremendous.

At the subcommittee's Chicago office Donald Despain, director of the staff which compiled the report, said "the public interest in the matter is tremendous." Despain reported that word from subcommittee members in Washington indicated a similar response there yesterday also. More than 25,000 requests had been made prior to publication of the report.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] introduced the original resolution calling for an investigation by a subcommittee of the senate finance committee. The resolution, presented in February, 1938, was adopted by the senate three months later. Senators Vandenberg, Clyde L. Herring [D., Ia.], and Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.] headed the subcommittee.

Only 1,720 Copies Provided.

Only 1,720 copies of the report were provided for in the legislation setting up the study, according to Despain, and a concurrent resolution of congress would be required for the printing of additional copies. The 1,720 copies, he said, are for committee members and legislators.

Steps are being taken toward getting a congressional appropriation for additional copies, Despain asserted, and in the event funds are not provided the subcommittee will probably seek to finance an additional printing with private funds.

Throughout the day THE TRIBUNE received many telephone calls from business men, labor leaders, civic associations, librarians, and students asking for the address of the subcommittee through which copies of the report might be obtained.

Application for copies of the report, Despain said, may be made at the subcommittee's Chicago office, Room 777, Federal building. These will be forwarded to Washington.

Work Begun a Year Ago.

Despain said work on the report was begun just a year ago. A staff of twelve persons, all Chicagoans, worked on the report. The work was centered here, he said, "to avoid the interference usually found in Washington."

He attributed much of the staff's success in completing the 331 page report to the coöperation of business leaders. The subcommittee was not required to issue any subpenas, he said, and after business men learned the full purpose of the study their help was readily available.

One building materials corporation, he said, assigned several employés to work of hauling huge office records to and from the subcommittee's office.

Despain is a graduate of the University of Nebraska, was industrial commissioner of that state for four years, and is a former statistician for the federal farm board.

Large Utility Bond Offering Put on Market

Offering of $17,750,000 of obligations of the Central Illinois Electric and Gas company will be made today by a group headed by Harris, Hall & Co. The offering further enlivened the new financing market, which yesterday gave promise of improvement as two states disclosed they are considering road bond issues totaling 200 million dollars. Another development was the offering by Aviation corporation of rights to subscribe to 925,917 shares of its capital stock.

The Central Illinois Electric and Gas offering consists of $14,750,000 of 3¾ per cent bonds due June 1, 1964, and $3,000,000 of serial debentures bearing coupons of 3, 3½, and 4 per cent. The bonds are being offered at 100½ and accrued interest.

Will Redeem Other Issues.

The debentures, which are due semi-annually Dec. 1, 1939, to June 1, 1949, are priced to yield approximately 0.75 to 4 per cent, depending on maturity. The securities are being issued for redemption purposes.

The company is refunding $13,909,000 of first and refunding 5 per cent bonds due in 1951, $746,000 of first and refunding 6 per cent bonds due in 1952, and $2,000,000 of 3¾ per cent collateral notes. After the current financing operation, the new issues will constitute the company's only funded debt.

New security issues in the United States, 1937-'39.

Gov. Carl E. Bailey of Arkansas outlined to a group of New York investment bankers and insurance companies plans whereby his state proposes to refund $140,000,000 of its highway debt. Proposals made several years ago to refund this debt were put off because of uncertain conditions in the bond market.

Rates Range Up to 5 Per Cent.

The bonds outstanding include $88,500,000 of state highway bonds and the rest are road improvement district bonds, certificates of indebtedness and toll bridge bonds. Interest on these obligations ranges from 3 to 5 per cent and the state hopes to sell bonds to pay off the old obligations at a rate below 4½ per cent.

Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey indorsed a proposal to issue $60,000,000 of highway improvement bonds and requested the legislature to prepare the matter for submission to the voters on Nov. 7.

Aviation corporation offered to its 25,000 stockholders the right to subscribe for stock at $3.50 a share on a basis of one share for each share held. Warants entitling stockholders to buy the stock will be issued to holders of record June 22 The expiration date is July 6.

Of the stock offered, Aviation and Transportation corporation, which holds 29.7 per cent of the capital stock of the Aviation corporation, has agreed to purchase its proportionate share, or 275,124 shares. The remaining 650,793 shares have been underwritten by a group headed by Schroder Rockefeller & Co., Inc., and Emanuel & Co., which have agreed to purchase all the stock not taken by the stockholders.

It is stated that proceeds from the sale of the stock will largely be used for current or development needs of the company's wholly owned subsidiary, the Aviation Manufacturing corporation, and the repayment of a $500,000 loan obtained from Aviation and Transportation.

Stinson Among Units.

Aviation Manufacturing has three divisions, Stinson Aircraft, which manufactures single motored cabin monoplanes; Vultee Aircraft, which makes all-metal military planes; and the Lycoming division, which manufactures aircraft engines, propellers and hubs.

The bureau of insular affairs at Washington announced that the Philippine Islands 4 per cent bond issue of 1909, due Aug. 1, 1939, will be paid on the maturity date. Bonds having a face value of $559,000 are in the hands of the public.

MAKING OF NEW LAWS MAIN MANUFACTURING BUSINESS: DONNELLY

Freeport, Ill., June 19.—(AP)—James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, said today the most prolific manufacturing enterprise in the United States today was "the business of manufacturing new laws to regulate other people's conduct."

In a talk before the Freeport Rotary club he said there had been 1,927 measures introduced at the current session of the state legislature and approximately 10,244 bills in congress.

"The burdens imposed on private enterprise by unsound legislation have been one of the primary causes of business paralysis," he said. "However, we still find the leaders of some minorities, who presume to speak for the working men and women, sponsoring a multitude of drastic bills calculated to place added obstacles in the way of harassed employers."

New York Banks May Close on Saturdays; Law Signed

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—Saturday closing of banks in New York City and in other cities of the states became a possibility today after Gov. Lehman signed the Quinn bill making such closing permissible during July and August. The law permits the board of directors of each bank to make its own decision. Closing of banks would not necessarily mean the closing of the stock exchange. A survey of the nineteen clearing house member banks in New York City indicated a majority in favor of Saturday closings. The members will act as a unit.

Profits Mount for Building Material Firm

Improvement in operations in building material companies was indicated yesterday in reports of the Celotex corporation and the Certain-Teed Products corporation, manufacturers of insulation and other products.

Bror Dahlberg, president of Celotex, announced net profit for May was $159,800 after charges and taxes, compared with $69,691 a year ago. He said the improvement reflected the current upturn in building operations.

The company controls Certain-Teed, which announced May net profit of approximately $61,000, against $18,129 last year. The Sloane-Blabon corporation, in turn controled by Certain-Teed, had a net profit of $41,800 for May, compared with a loss of $6,300 a year ago.

Int. Telephone Earns Less.

The International Telephone and Telegraph corporation announced March quarter net profit of $1,219,425, equal to 19 cents per common share, against $2,299,336 a year ago, or 36 cents a share.

Sosthenese Behn, president, told stockholders the principal factor in reducing earnings was the decline in values of foreign currencies and the loss on foreign exchange arising from translating net current assets from foreign currencies into dollars. Most of the company's operating subsidiaries had larger gross earnings, he said.

The United States Smelting, Refining and Mining company reported net profit of $1,145,804 for five months ended with May, equal after preferre' dividends to 88 cents a share on common stock.

FIGHT TO STRIP ROOSEVELT OF DOLLAR POWER

Senators Charge It Worries Business.

Washington, D. C., June 19.—(AP)—A coalition of Republicans and Democrats at odds with the administration over fiscal policies fought in the senate today to strip from President Roosevelt his emergency power to clip an additional 9 cents from the gold value of the dollar.

The fight developed after the chamber began consideration of house approved legislation to continue for two years from next June 30 the administration's emergency monetary powers. Besides the devaluation authority, these powers permit the treasury to buy domestically mined silver at prices above world quotations and to maintain the $2,000,000,000 exchange stabilization fund.

Adams Leads Attack.

Senator Adams [D., Colo.] led the fight to strike out the proposed continuance of the devaluation power in the absence of Senator Glass [D., Va.], who was ill. Members had arranged informally last week for Glass, former secretary of the treasury, to lead them.

The senate did not act on the devaluation authority today and leaders scheduled a vote for tomorrow.

In today's debate Adams told the senate that continuation of the devaluation power would threaten business confidence and consumer buying power, both of which he declared were necessary to economic recovery

Says Bond Owners Suffer.

Saying he agreed with the President that consumer purchasing power should be maintained, Adams told the senate: "But you can't increase the consumer's power by reducing the value of his dollar, his bonds, and his insurance policies."

Mr. Roosevelt, exercising the devaluation power, cut the dollar in 1934 to 59 per cent of its former gold weight. He has authority to reduce it as low as 50 per cent.

Wagner Defends Powers.

Urging extension of the power, Chairman Wagner [D., N. Y.], of the senate banking committee asserted that it is a necessary weapon in protecting this country against the possible effects of currency depreciation abroad.

Senator Taft [R., O.] asked Wagner to describe "the currency that makes it necessary for congress to delegate one of its constitutional powers to the chief executive."

Wagner replied that an international monetary emergency might arise at any time, and that the administration should be equipped to meet it.

Chicago Warned It Must Wage Fight to Get New Industries

A drive to bring more industries and pay rolls to Chicago will be one of the first movements to get under way when the "Greater Chicago" plan is placed in operation, Oscar G. Mayer, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, said yesterday. The association is sponsoring the campaign.

Mayer pointed out that Chicago has more than 100 square miles of ideally located but idle industrial property and dozens of sizable vacant factory buildings and warehouses waiting for development. He said reports to the United States bureau of the census show that while Chicago has lost industries recently other metropolitan areas have gained.

Finds Other Centers Gaining.

"In the two years between 1935 and 1937," Mayer said, "while the Chicago metropolitan district was losing 300 factories, Boston gained 239 industries, Dallas 54, Los Angeles 143, Pittsburgh 114, San Francisco 128, and Cleveland 59.

"No city has more to offer the industrialist than Chicago. No city has such supremacy in transportation, such limitless diversity of man power, such availability of raw materials, such facilities for distribution, or greater freedom from serious labor disturbances.

"While Chicago lags other cities gain new factories, warehouses, and branch offices. These other cities are aggressively selling themselves. Just as Chicago can be made the airplane manufacturing center of the country, so it offers boundless possibilities to other lines of manufacture."

Survey to Be Made.

Mayer said the Greater Chicago campaign contemplates an immediate survey of the entire Chicago industrial district and the organization of a selling force of experts equipped to carry Chicago's industrial story to every industrial executive in the country.

"We are also going to investigate our present industrial activities here to determine what lines of business are not represented," he said.

Dizzy Dean, Cub baseball star, will speak at noon today at the Morrison hotel to the volunteer workers who are seeking to collect a $625,000 campaign budget. "Dizz" will tell what he believes is necessary to pep up the city.

FARM PURCHASE LOAN BILL IS APPROVED BY SENATE COMMITTEE

Washington, D. C., June 19.—(AP)—The senate agriculture committee today approved a bill under which the federal government could underwrite $350,000,000 of private loans for the purchase of farms by tenants.

The bill, by Senator Lee [D., Okla.], would apply to farm purchase loans a principle similar to that followed in the home loan field by the Federal Housing administration.

Aids of Lee said fifty-two senators, a majority, had signed the measure as co-authors, and that Chairman Jones [D., Tex.] of the house agriculture committee would press for a similar bill in the house.

The bill would be administered by the Farm Security administration, which directs the government's existing program of financial assistance for farm tenants desiring to become land owners.

Lee's purpose, he said, is to encourage the sale to tenants of farms held by absentee owners.

Steel Production Climbs; Rate Highest Since April

Steel operations are estimated at 55.0 per cent of capacity this week, a gain of 1.9 points, or 3.6 per cent, over the preceding week, the American Iron and Steel Institute reported yesterday. Production for the current week is the highest since April.

DISAGREE ON BILL TO LET HOPKINS EMPLOY EXPERTS

Washington, D. C., June 19.—(AP)—A senate-house conference committee disagreed today over a proposal to permit Secretary of Commerce Hopkins to employ a staff of experts to study problems of business and industry. The proposal was left for reconsideration on the floor as the committee approved the state, justice and commerce appropriation bill for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Minor committee changes reduced by approximately $30,000 the $122,609,410 included in the bill as it passed the senate. The amount in the house bill was $121,399,120. Last year's appropriations for the three departments amounted to $94,449,410. Budgetary estimates for 1940 total $125,052,423.

Part of the senate increase resulted from an amendment to appropriate $133,500 for the use of Secretary Hopkins in the employment of executive specialists. Salaries for the commerce department were set by the conferees at $541,500. The house had proposed $381,500, the senate $606,500.

Test Oil Well in Illinois Taps Reservoir of Gas

Olney, Ill., June 19.—(AP)—Oil men speculated today on whether a new gas field had been discovered five miles north of this city when after 20 hours, the Ohio Oil company's No. 1 Chapman well was flowing uncontrolled and sending a spray of salt water over its derrick. The well, a test for oil, tapped a gas reservoir.

BUILDING HOPES CENTER ON SLUM CLEARING BILLS

State Senate Action Now Is Awaited.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Attention of Chicago construction industries, the building trades and real estate interests is focused on Springfield this week as the senate prepares to take up the public service building corporation bills. These measures would make possible the rebuilding of rundown slum areas with private capital.

Mark Levy, veteran realtor, approves plan

The bills, which would authorize housing corporations to acquire fractions of their necessary sites through condemnation proceedings, are expected to be taken up on second reading in the senate this week. Similar bills which had been placed on first reading in the lower house were temporarily shelved last week when the house voted to eliminate all bills on first reading. If the senate bills are passed, however, they will go to the house for final action.

Chicago Chiefly Affected.

Although the legislation applies to all cities of 25,000 or more population the chief interest in them exists in Chicago because of the city's vast and growing "blighted" areas. These are variously estimated to cover 25 to 30 square miles in a wide belt surrounding the loop.

Proponents of the plan have urged that it be given at least a trial. They have argued that the situation as regards real estate in the depreciated areas as well as property in adjacent districts is acute, and that emergency treatment is necessary. They point out that the legislation is merely permissive, and add that something must be done before the next session of the legislature two years hence.

Several Groups Support Bills.

The Chicago Building Congress, Inc., the original sponsor of the plan, has had the active support of such representative organizations as the Chicago Association of Commerce, the Chicago Plan Commission, and the National Association of Real Estate Boards, as well as prominent individuals in Chicago.

Prior to the placing of the bills on

"Why burden your estate with needless transfer costs?"

In passing to your heirs, your estate will go through one—possibly two—transfers. At each of these transfers, the current net value will be appreciably reduced by taxes and administrative expenses.

Charges of this character are inevitable. But today there are large numbers of estate owners who are penalizing their holdings needlessly . . . rendering them liable to duplicate levies.

You can avoid such duplicated costs. A few simple rearrangements in your estate plan can set up a trust under your Will. In that way a larger net share of your estate will ultimately descend from your wife to the children and other heirs.

In the light of these facts—and out of fifty years of practical experience in probate work and the administration of estates—The Northern Trust Company invites you and your attorney to discuss with its trust officers a "pre-administration" review of your estate arrangements.

Such a review will methodically search out the most desirable method of transmitting your estate into other hands. It will help to determine ways and means of anticipating, without sacrifice of assets, the transfer charges that will one day have to be met.

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 19.—[Stocks met resistance after an impressive start today and many early gains ranging to more than a point were cut to fractions. A number of volatile stocks contributed gains reaching 2 points in thin markets. A total of 310 issues advanced, 137 declined, and 148 closed unchanged. Trading was quiet, only 344,820 shares moving. This was the smallest volume for a full session in the last year.

The early improvement was attributed to short covering and a continuation of Saturday's buying. Failure of the demand to spread was given as the reason for the subsequent recession.

Underlying sentiment was characterized by observers as on the optimistic side. They based this conclusion on moderately favorable business news. Far eastern developments were said to have been largely ignored.

Rubbers, steel, and motor shares gave a good account of themselves. U. S. Rubber, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Goodyear, and Goodrich were among the leaders. Electric Autolite rose 1½ points on good buying.

Power and light shares turned active and higher for a time. A firm undertone ruled in the carrier section.

A firm undertone ruled in the carrier section. Southern Pacific, Illinois Central, New York Central, Southern Railway, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Union Pacific closed unchanged to fractionally higher.

In the aviation group Sperry was conspicuous with a gain of ⅞ point. Others showed smaller changes on both sides.

New York Bonds.

New York, June 19.—(AP)—The bond market moved a shade higher today, getting its lift from scattered buying of selected issues. Transactions at $4,209,500, face value, were the smallest since May 18, but came almost up to last Friday's $4,915,300.

United States government issues were about even, with treasuries showing gains of 3-32ds to declines of 2-32ds. Home owners loan 1½s of '45-'47 were up 9-32ds.

Among foreign bonds, Italian 7s at 64 and Rome 6½s at 64¼ were up ¾ each, but Japanese 5½s lost 1⅛ at 55⅛.

Chicago Stocks.

Commonwealth Edison again led trading volume on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, closing ¼ point higher at 29⅛ on a turnover of 800 shares. Utah Radio Products advanced fractionally, reaching a new 1939 high at 2⅝, and small advances were shown by Bendix Aviation, Spiegel, and some others. Of seventy-two issues dealt in transactions totaling 14,000 shares, thirty-five advanced, fifteen declined, and twenty-two closed unchanged.

Bank Stocks.

Prices of Chicago bank stocks showed little change yesterday. First National gained $1. Trading was extremely dull.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP)—Turnover in Worth street textile markets was at a moderate clip at the start of the week today. Prices held firm and mills refused concessions on any types of goods. One selling agent said reports from southern mills this morning indicated the print cloth group was about ready to announce a 25 per cent curtailment program as of July 1. In the rayon division acetate goods seemed to be in the best position. Pigment taffetas, lingerie and compound yarn fabrics accounted for much of the business. Silk remained slow. Interest in woolen goods centered in summer cloths. Burlap quietly eased a shade.

BOARD OF TRADE GRAIN FUTURES

WHEAT DECLINES WITH FLOW OF CROP TO MARKET

Wheat futures continued to work lower in American markets yesterday as the new crop began to reach markets in volume. Hedging sales depressed values. Chicago Board of Trade closing quotations were ⅝ to 1¼ cent a bushel lower, with the December delivery touching a new low price for the season.

Liquidation of July contracts by local traders was a depressing factor, brokers reported. In addition, continued favorable crop weather indicated further improvement in the production outlook.

A decline of 1¾ to 1⅞ cent in rye futures was also a bearish factor in the wheat pit.

Corn futures sank ⅛ to ½ cent, mainly in sympathy with wheat. Weather continued to favor the new corn crop over most of the main production belt.

BUSINESS TO RISE IF U. S. RELENTS, AD GROUP TOLD

Utility Head Urges Shift in New Deal Policy.

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—An "infinitesimal change" in the government's attitude toward business would be sufficient to start recovery "on a grand scale," Floyd L. Carlisle, chairman, of the Consolidated Edison company, asserted today at a meeting of the Public Utilities Advertising association.

Floyd L. Carlisle.

Addressing another meeting, that of the Advertising Federation of America, Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, declared amendments to the Wagner labor relations act are necessary to assure recovery.

Ready for Big Gain.

"This country," Carlisle told his audience, "is ready to increase its production on a basis that will make other times of recovery look pale by comparison. A number of the most ardent supporters of the New Deal have now come around to the understanding that the government cannot go into open competition with business and that its only function should be intelligent regulation."

Carlisle said he did not share in the pessimism "that exudes from many quarters," and expressed belief that "all the dire things" that have been predicted will not actually develop.

Before advertising federation members at their thirty-fifth annual convention, Woll said industry "needs no severe nostrums" for its recovery and "no political mind to advise and direct in matters wholly economic and industrial."

Encouragement is Needed.

"It needs," he said, "the common sense of good will and encouragement. It needs the joint help of labor, management, consumers, and citizens, and the encouragement of government, if we are to go ahead for the common good."

The principles of the Wagner act "are still repudiated, evaded, and avoided by many large industrial managements," Woll said.

"Unquestionably there is contained in this law the opportunity for the government to shape, regulate, and control the destiny of labor and of labor organizations, and, as well, our industrial relations," he said. "Herein lies a potential danger to both employers and workers and to free enterprise. That the law should be amended is unquestioned."

Letter from Roosevelt.

In a letter to Mark Britton, chairman of the federation, President Roosevelt said:

"Advertising, by helping in the distribution of goods produced, can be an immense aid in stimulating and maintaining production, and only through the continuous spread of purchasing power can either advertising or production be justified.

"Thus purchasing power, production, and advertising are interdependent and stand or fall together. I believe that in just such measure as your convention recognizes this interdependence its deliberations will promote general prosperity and the happiness and security of the greatest number."

There was practically no change in the total for the corresponding 1938 week, when $1,100,230,000 was reported. Checks written against accounts in the Chicago banks alone totaled $658,227,000, compared with $684,497,000 in the like 1938 week.

U. S. WHEAT CROP TO EXCEED NEED, SAYS WALLACE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 19.—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, speaking before the Alabama Press association here tonight, asserted that reputable Chicago grain men had estimated this year's wheat crop for him at 700 to 710 million bushels. This, he said, is 150 to 200 million bushels in excess of human consumption in this country and more than enough to cover additional needs for live stock and seed.

"On the basis of the 700 million bushel estimate," said Wallace, "this year's prospective crop, plus the carryover, will make a total supply on July 1 this year of 965 million bushels. This is 450 million bushels more than will be needed for human consumption by the American people during the next twelve months."

Secretary Wallace accused THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of misrepresenting the New Deal farm program in an editorial published June 17. He said: "This paper contained an editorial entitled 'America's Bread,' which states: 'This country isn't going to raise enough wheat this year to feed the American people,' declares there is danger of a wheat shortage, and says: If war is threatened we ought to be harvesting at least an average crop this year instead of facing dependence upon foreign sources for our bread.'

"Instead of facing a wheat shortage," Wallace said, "this country is gradually working out from under one of the greatest wheat surpluses it ever faced."

CAUTIONS TRADE BANS ESTRANGE U. S. NEIGHBORS

Providence, R. I., June 19.—[Special.] — American trade barriers against inflow of South American goods are estranging neighbor nations, Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, warned today. He spoke before alumni of Brown university here after receiving an honorary degree of doctor of laws.

He referred specifically to congressional action to prevent purchases from South American producers similar to the recent order of Argentine canned beef by the navy department.

"It would seem to me very clear that if we continue in our relations with Argentina, and with some of our great neighbors to the south, a policy which makes possible restrictions which in essence amount to an embargo upon their sales to us, we can have little hope of finding in future years in these countries a logical and friendly market for our goods."

GOLD MINE STOCK FRAUD CHARGES HEARD BY SEC

Selling of U. S. Chromium Shares Involved.

Hearing of charges by the Securities and Exchange commission against U. S. Chromium, Inc., was started yesterday in the Chicago office of the commission. The company is charged with violation of the registration and fraud provisions of the federal securities act. The SEC will determine whether the registration of the company stock will be suspended.

Dr. William Mark Muchow, Evanston dentist, and president of the mining enterprise, was questioned by Attorney Irwin L. Langbein of the Washington office of the SEC and Attorney G. Gale Roberson of the Chicago regional office.

Value of Ore Questioned.

Dr. Muchow described samples of gold ore and assays made to determine the value of the mining property.

Among the complaints made by the SEC is that the tonnage and value of the gold ore was misrepresented in the registration statement and prospectus for the sale of the company's stock. To support this contention, the SEC attorney planned to call George W. Tower Jr., mining engineer of the commission's Denver regional office, who inspected the U. S. Chromium mining property near Powers, Ore.

Sales of Stock Enjoined.

The mining firm is an Oregon company purported to own unpatented mining claims to gold and chromium property. On Feb. 28 it filed a registration statement with the SEC, but on March 2 the commission obtained a preliminary injunction in federal court here to halt the company's sale of stock and its promoters from making fraudulent statements

The SEC said that the promoters sold $167,000 in syndicate receipts which can be exchanged for stock of the company at $5 a share. Most of the 600 stockholders live in middle western states.

It was estimated foreigners hold 35,000,000 to 40,000,000 marks [$14,000,000 to $16,000,000] of the total of 150,000,000 marks [$60,000,000] of shares.

BUILDING HOPES CENTER ON SLUM CLEARING BILLS

Chicago Interests Await State Senate Action.

the senate and house calendars a joint subcommittee of the legislature had held public hearings on them in Springfield and Chicago. A large number of witnesses urged enactment of the bills.

The membership of the Chicago Real Estate Board is split on the proposed legislation. When the directors of the board voted on it the ballot was an 8 to 8 tie.

This vote was turned into a 9 to 8 adverse report by the vote of Paul C. Loeber, president of the organization. Opponents among the board's membership argued that new housing construction would have the effect of lowering rents on existing apartment buildings in the city.

Max Levy, former president of the real estate board and veteran Chicago realtor, one of five former presidents of the organization who have approved the public service building corporation plan, charged the present management of the board with playing "board politics."

"While the bills may not be perfect and may need some amendments," Levy said, "they are certainly a move forward. If these bills are not passed by the legislature Chicago will be set back many years in progress."

Goldstine Favors Measures.

Another former real estate board head, Harry Goldstine, of the Goldstine Realty company, yesterday joined in support of the legislation. With the proper safeguards, he said, the public service building corporation plan would be able to induce private capital to invest in blighted areas and thereby accomplish a great deal in the rebuilding of Chicago's slums. Other presidents of the board who support the bills are Joseph K. Brittain, Arthur Kruggel, and J. S. Warterfield.

The influence of the Illinois state housing board was recently thrown behind the bills when Oscar W. Rosenthal came out in their favor with a public statement.

"Our slums have been with us from time immemorial and we have had every opportunity to correct them without doing so," Rosenthal said. "In fact, these conditions go from bad to worse, and will continue to do so until some device is found that will make complete eradication possible."

City Council Group Approves.

Members of the city council's housing committee, after a series of hearings, announced their approval of the general program outlined in the proposed legislation but suggested that the power of condemnation be exercised by the city authorities instead of by housing corporations set up as public utilities. Under that plan the city would acquire the land and resell part of it to private builders.

Critics of the council's plan replied by saying that such a method would leave the private housing corporations with no public supervision. Under the pending bills public service building corporations would be subject to the supervision of the Illinois state housing board, just as gas and electric light utilities are supervised by the Illinois commerce commission.

Some doubt was expressed also concerning the city's ability to raise the funds to buy slum property inasmuch as the bonds issued to pay for such property were not to be general obligations of the city.

Foreign Currencies Rise; U. S. Receives More Gold

Some of the leading foreign currencies moved narrowly higher against the dollar yesterday at New York. Dutch guilder rose 0.03 cent to 53.13 cents, reducing its recent substantial losses. The British pound sterling advanced 1-16 cent and the Swiss franc 0.01 cent. Belgian and French currency were unchanged. The New York Federal Reserve bank reported the engagement of $4,200,000 of gold in England, $700,000 in India, and $4,200,000 in Canada for shipment to this country. An estimated $28,600,000 of gold arrived in New York from Europe over the week-end.

Who Reads The New York Times?

WHAT kind of people read The New York Times throughout the country? The same kind of people who read it in New York. ¶Take Detroit, fourth largest city in the United States, for example. About 1,000 Detroiters read The New York Times weekdays and about 2,500 on Sundays. A check of a cross-section of some 200 of these readers revealed that 31 are corporation presidents, 22 vice presidents, 3 board chairmen, 4 treasurers, 21 attorneys, 20 sales or other managers, 14 teachers, 11 physicians, 9 engineers, 3 judges, 2 architects, and so on. Scores of above-average types, in many walks of life, comprise the remainder. ¶Active curiosity which demands the facts of the world's news completely and impartially, explains the country-wide as well as the New York City readership of The New York Times.

MEN—STEADY WORK.

We will select 6 men at once who live in Cicero or Berwyn, with privilege of thorough training at our factory branch at our expense and start them immediately on permanent basis, full time.

Married men preferred, over 25, as these are responsible positions and we require no investment or deposit—but you must be reputable and able to learn this work as taught. This is steady profitable sales work, but our method of putting the prospect into the market for our Electric unit invention is so unusual that it necessitates being trained in it, regardless of previous experience.

While learning, new men must be satisfied on earnings of $35 to $45 per week, but later can increase this substantially. Commission and bonus arrangement. Previous experience not important because our method is so unusual, but those selected must be willing to work hard and study to qualify for the higher incomes.
